The entertainment given on Xmas eve in connection with the Literary Society in the Kertch school was a great success in every particular. Arrested In Petrolea.

On the last trip of the steamer Huronic a watch and chain were stolen and the services of the town police were called upon to locate the thief if possible. Chief Pengelly, after investigating, came to the conclusion that David Dewar, a deck hand, was probably the culprit. Dewar had disappeared, and as his home is in Petrolea it was thought that he would be found there, sooner or later. The case was turned over to Provincial Officer Sarvis, who went to Petrolea, vesterday and found there, sooner or later. The case was turned over to Provincial Officer Sarvis, who went to Petrole: yesterday and arrested Dewar at his home there. In his room was found an assortment of goods of all kinds, enough to stock a small general store—dry goods, hardware, cigars, liquors, optician's wares, etc. Among the lot were a quantity of cigars, evidently taken off the Huronic, and several sets of eye glasses and spectacles in new cases stamped with the name of Dr. Cornell, Pt. Huron. The watch and chain, the primary cause of the arrest, were not found, Dewar was charged at the police court this morning with stealing the cigars from the Northern Naving identified the goods.

Mr. Bucke, C.C.A., not being able to be present owing to attendance at another court, a remand was asked for, and the prisoner was remanded for one week.

Dewar has been before the courts on previous occasions, charged with similar offences.

Two Petrolea Boys Drowned in Bear Creek.

A double drowning accident occurred at Petrolea Monday by which Ross Collins and George Neven, two young boys lost their lives. What makes the affair still more pathetic is the fact that both boys are sons of widows.

The two lads had gone skating after dinner on Bear Creek, the waters of which were considerably swollen by the heavy rain of last night, which had also-rendered the ice unsafe. double drowning accident occurred

The boys may have been too venturesome in trying the ice. They were both suddenly engulfed without a moment'swarning and swept down stream by the swiftly rushing waters.

Their cries attracted the attention of Mr. Gus Kelly, a clerk in McCrabie's drug store, who was returning to work.
Without a minute's hesitation he plunged into the icy waters and struck out for the boys. The task was beyond his power, boys. The task was beyond his power, and his strength beginning to fail, he clung to the edge of the rotten ice. By this time other willing hands had arrived. at the scene and a rope was thrown out to Mr. Kelly, whose position was becoming precarious. He managed to grasp it and he was pulled to shore.

and he was pulled to shore.

Nothing more was seen of the two boys, bodies and so far they have not been recovered, although many boats are out dragging the creek. It is feared that they may have been swept under the ice and held there. If such were the case, their bodies might not be recovered till spring.

The plucky attempt of Mr. Kelly has-aroused the greatest admiration and it is almost certain that some public re-cognition will be made of his bravery. The banks of the creek were througed in with people all effectively when the difference in the property of the company of with people all afternoon, who waited in with people all afternoon, who waited in vain for the bodies to be recovered.

The accident is a terrible shock to Mrs. Nivens and Mrs. Collins, the mothers of the unfortunate boys, and they have the deepest sympathy of all in their unhappy loss.

All attempts at recovering the bodies of two boys drowned at Petrolea have so far proven unsuccessful.
