PURITY FLOUR

A MATTER OF PRIDE

(Ottawa Citizen)

It is always good to hear something pleasant about one's own country from abroad. Especially is it appreciated when it is justified, and in this connection an excerpt from the New York Evening Press seems to fulfil all the conditions. The Post publishes a despatch from Chicago as follows:

"Law enforcement in Canada and the slow reform of court procedure in the United States, according to Chicago lawyers, are proving a force in the migration to the provinces of western settlers, they say, may give new impetus to the lagging efforts. A Minnesotan who had bought a farm in Saskatchewan, after telling of the crops, the railways, elevators, and the influx of settlers, concluded:

"I'll tell you what it boils down to. Ever since the settlement of this country began it has been understood and recognized that the man who breaks the law is going to be jailed. It don't matter if he is as spry as a gopher or as husky as a buffalo. It don't make any odds if he can crawl into a prairie dog's hole. If he breaks the law he's going to be jailed, good and sure! He can have fifty guns and $50,000, he can have any sort of blame pull you like—but he is just going to be jailed. It may take a day, a week, or a year; but he'll be jailed sure. May be he'll kill a Northwest policeman—may be he will. Well, then, he'll hang, for a dead sure thing! He'll never buy a northwest policeman, nor he'll never escape jail if he breaks the law. All Canada knows it, and we Americans know it, and that's why this country is a good country to live in."

This is the proper sort of advertising and Canada and the northwest, in particular, cannot get too much of it. A guarantee of fair play and justice to all is surely an asset in the development of a new country. It should be jealously guarded.

Regulate the Bowels

"I have been troubled with constipation for several years, and have tried a great many kinds of pills, as well as medicine from the doctor. Nothing seemed to help me until I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills. I found the little pills very effective, and I am thankful that at last I have a reliable remedy."

Nitro Culture

Nitro cultures consist of the same kinds of bacteria which grow in the nodules or tubercles on the roots of leguminous crops, such as clovers, alfalfa, peas, beans and vetches. The presence of those bacteria in the soil can always be recognized by the presence of those nodules on the roots and possess the exceptional power of living upon the roots. These bacteria lodge in the free nitrogen of the air. This they yield up as a rental to the plant which affords them lodging. When these bacteria are absent the crops will not grow to advantage; hence the use of artificial means of inoculating the soil with these organisms. The nitro culture contains these bacteria growing on the surface of a jelly-like substance, which, when washed off and sprinkled on the seed before sowing, inoculates the soil with that specie of bacteria. It should be clearly understood that the use of artificial inoculation with bacterial cultures will in no way compensate for poor seed, careless cultivation, insufficient drainage, lack of lime or fertilizer, grasses, grains, roots and other non-leguminous plants.

During the past few years several hundreds of these nitro cultures have been distributed from the Agricultural College, Truro, N. S., amongst the farmers of the Maritime Provinces and where other conditions are satisfactory, the reports have been highly favorable toward their use. During this spring we are again shipping from the College nitro cultures for the following leguminous crops: Alfalfa, alsike, red, white and crimson clovers, peas, beans, and vetches. Each of these crops have a distinct form of bacteria as found in the nodules on the roots; hence a different culture which will give no result if used on any crop other than specified. If this crop has been grown successfully on your land previously, these organisms will in all probability, be in the soil and nitro cultures will give slight if any, results.

A nominal charge of 25c per bottle is made to help cover cost of material and postage and as a sign of good faith in the user. These same cultures are put out by manufacturing concerns in the U. S. for which is charged $1.00 or more per bottle. Each bottle sent from the College at Truro contains sufficient to inoculate sixty pounds of seed and all the culture may be used on less seed without harm. In writing, kindly state crop you intend to inoculate and the date of seeding. Full directions are enclosed with cultures.

Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is quickly relieved by the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is equally valuable for muscular rheumatism, and always affords quick relief. Sold by all dealers.

INVESTIGATING AFFAIRS OF PRINTING BUREAU, OTTAWA

Official, Who Entered Service Seventeen Years Ago, Still Missing—Police Searching for Him.

Ottawa, June 27.— There is no trace of Frank S. Gouldthrite, the fugitive superintendent of stationery, who disappeared on Monday last following the discovery of the frauds at the government printing bureau consequent upon the investigation by Hon. Charles Murphy. Circulars have been sent out by Col. Percy Sherwood, chief of the dominion police, to various police departments in Canada and the United States, giving a description of the missing man, and the government will spare no effort to have him arrested.

Meanwhile an attachment will be made against his property in Ottawa to cover the loss of at least part. Gouldthrite was appointed to the staff of the printing bureau seventeen years ago. His salary was $2,300 a year.

Hon. Mr. Murphy, assisted by the king's printer, Charles Parmelee, is continuing the investigation into affairs at the bureau and until it is completed no details as to the other members of the staff against whom irregularities are proven, will be made public. The minister has determined on a thorough reorganization of the whole bureau with a view to making any further rake offs or fraud of any kind impossible.

As far as can be learned at present all the instances of collusion between employees at the bureau and sellers of stationery have been in connection with United States firms. A searching audit of all the accounts for years is now being made, and it is probable that many firms who have been doing business with the bureau will be asked to tell all they know about the matter.

Novel Marketing Plan

The life of Genesee is much like that of other small western New York towns, and it was recently decided to see if something could be done to develop more local interest in trade. A number of the merchants in Genesee decided to combine and form a business men's association to advertise the town and help the community.

A large number of the men decided that the thing to do was to arrange some method for bringing the people to town. It was decided, therefore, to try holding a free auction each month. Any farmer could send in anything he desired to sell, and the business men would advertise it, catalogue it, pay for an auctioneer to sell it and turn over the proceeds without any expense to the farmer.

At this time the different merchants arranged special prices on certain lines of goods, thus: seven cakes of soap for twenty-five cents, or nineteen pounds of sugar for one dollar. One enterprising jeweller on the first public auction day sold five hundred solid silver thimbles at seventeen cents each. As this auction was held before Christmas, he had all Christmas stock arrayed around the store with special prices marked on each article.

The public auctions kept the farmers busy—horses, cows, tools and farm products attracted several hundred men. People who would not come to town for any reason came on market day, and those who did not come to purchase, came to discuss things and see what was going on.

The first market day was a decided success. The cost to the merchants was made up by a levy of one dollar each on the members of the association. It has since been decided that they will contribute one dollar each month and try the system for a year. The second auction in January was held under unfavorable climate conditions, but was extremely profitable to the merchants and some $3000 worth of farm stock was sold, nearly double that sold at the first auction.

SEED SELLING A SUCCESS

At the third auction, that of February, recently held it was decided to add a new feature. Three weeks before the event, notice was sent to all the county papers that a seed distribution bureau would be established by the association. A committee outlined the following plan: All farmers having farm seeds for sale anywhere in the vicinity were invited to send samples with the amounts they wished to sell and the price. In the case of seed corn, they could bring ten ears, or half a peck shelled; half a peck of oats or beans and ten potatoes; also samples of grass, clovers and alfalfa seeds.

First, second and third prize cards were awarded in each class, the judging being done by Dr. Gilbert of the state college of agriculture at Ithaca. The fact of placing samples in competition added interest.

Since the auction was not to be until after dinner, the morning was devoted to an institute. Dr. Gilbert giving an address on the importance of good seed. This allowed time to discuss the samples shown and to give in detail methods for their improvement. The exhibit and address were held in the village hall. On a bulletin board were posted the names of all people having produce to sell and of any person who wanted to buy, and the committee sought to bring the parties together.

TO HALLEY'S COMET.

(The following lines were composed by a lady over eighty years old).

Hail to thee, stranger; in our northern sky,
Pain would we gaze and trace thy path on high,
Till lost in boundless space to Him our minds we turn
Whose mandate marked thy course and caused thy light to burn.
What wonders hast thou seen, majestic and sublime
Far, far beyond the sphere of earth or boundaries of time
Since last on this our world thy fiery brightness shone
And o'er the darkness of night thy beams of light were thrown.
And still on thee we gaze, our souls with rapture glow,
Our Father's greatness fills our hearts and bows our spirits low.
We see His glory and His power throughout the Heaven afar,
We view Him in the glowing blaze and every shining star.
The work by Him designed with swift obedience ye fulfil.
Ye sing His praise, His power declare and speak His matchless skill.

IN FASHION'S MART.

The New Bavarian Girdle—Crochet Buttons For Blouses.

One of the belts of the season is the folded girdle of panne velvet, which is bound on an excessively long point in front. The dressmakers have given it the name of the Bavarian girdle or the girdle of Venice. It will be worn on dressy afternoon and evening frocks.

Instead of pearl buttons we will use Irish crochet ones on blouses and tail-lined linen waists. These come in various sizes, and one sees them at the front fastening and on the cuffs.

Short apron overskirts are among the smartest things for spring and summer gowns. A plaid founce goes under this ruffled drape, the founce being mounted on a gored foundation skirt. The blouse is a very new and smart affair. It may be carried out in tub or silk materials.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

These May Manton patterns come for the girls in sizes from 12 to 20 inches waist measure and for the blouse from 32 to 38 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to the publisher to this office. Give name and address. Enclose 10c stamp for postage. Two-cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

THE LAW OF DRESS.

No Ironed Fashion Rules This Season—Individuality in Clothes.

Women are becoming more independent of the set modes and are going in for individualism in their clothes, and this is the reason why there are so many types of fashion this season. So don't throw away your short waisted frocks if the lines are becoming to you, for short waisted dresses are still worn.

The collarless linen frock is very smart this season, and this semiprincess model is most effective. The blouse and skirt are joined by means of the belt, and the closing is made at the left front, so that it includes all the new features.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern comes for girls fourteen, sixteen, and eighteen years of age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 624, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two-cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

SNAPSHOTS OF THE MODES.

The Girdle Appears on All Kinds of Costumes.

Even on princess gowns the wide girdle is seen, sometimes in the guise of a pinafore bib or in a deep point far below the waist line.

Combination skirt and corset covers are to be worn as persistently as ever. Too many women ignore the fact that any opening at the neck or shoulders of a gown should be lower in front than in the back. A deviation from this rule even in a décolleté gown makes the wearer look as if her clothes were riding up in front.

Long sleeves to the knuckles will be in fashion for thin gowns, and the three-quarter sleeves will be back for street wear.

Simple nightgowns that are made with sleeves and body portions in one are a feature of the present season, and the nightgown seen in the cut is simplicity itself. There are only shoulder and underarm seams to be sewed up, yet it is graceful and attractive.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FRIBBLES OF FASHION.

"Chantecler" Veiling Will Decorate the Faces of Modish Women.

"Chantecler" veiling is the newest thing at the veiling counters. It comes in two toned colorings that copy the shadings in the rooster's plumage.

The craze for imitations of the barnyard rooster abounds in buttons, and there is an evening slipper completely covered with the brown feathers of the pheasant hen. All fashion-

TUCKED SHIRT WAIST.

dom seems to be imitating the characters in M. Rostand's celebrated play "Chantecler."

Among the spring fabrics is a pretty light material called whalebone diagonal in mercerized cotton that is an exact reproduction of the woolen goods of the same name. It is 35 cents a yard and comes in all shades.

Lace is more and more claiming attention for trimming hats and gowns. Black and white are most used, and when decorating skirts it is adjusted in bouffants or as a tulle.

Tucked waists are always smart and always becoming, and nothing is quite so practical for general wear. The model illustrated has three tiny tucks with a deep return, which allows for making the buttonholes. The wide tucks at the shoulders give the fashionable broad effect. The sleeves are in shirt waist style, with straight facings instead of overlaps.
