

Why tarried we not by the waters
That murmur'd so quietly by ;
But rush'd on the floods which have brought us
Far into the desert to die ?

O, would that we were with our father !—
Poor lost wander'd children are we ;
The clouds of the gloomy night gather,
And home is beyond the great sea.