

“I guess that was the success of the campaign. Every little report you got, you sort of kicked yourself in the ankle and said, ‘Yah, they’re really doing it!’ That was our reward.”