No man can suffer in this way and be a healthy, happy, amiable wife and a compe-tent mother. Troubles of this nature sap the strength, rack the nerves, paint lines of suffering upon the face, destroy the temper, make the once bright eyes dull and the once active brain sluggish, and transform a vivaclous woman into a weak, sickly, invalid. This is all wrong. It is all unnecessary.

Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription is a marvelous medicine for ailing women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of maternity and makes them strong and healthy. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and tones and builds up the nerves. It banishes the discomforts of the expectant months and makes baby's coming easy and almost painless. It guarantees the little new-comer's health and an ample supply of nourishment. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous mer-

"Dreams of the First and Twentieth author is Annie Wigmore, of this city, who frankly confesses her belief in spiritualism, and credits her work to spiritualistic or mediumistic impulse.

The writer, however, is not dogmatic, but maintains her moral and religious tenets with breadth and tolerance of view and with a spiritual fervency which convinces one of her deep sin-cerity and conviction. The literary workmanship is good and evinces a wide range of reading.

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell has greatly added to his reputation by his latest and undoubtedly his best work, "The Adventures of Francois." Although the whole narrative depends upon the course of the revolution, its great historic scenes so familiar to all are treated as such and used merely as dates by which to fix passing events, and to note the fluctuation of the national temper. And in the same way the author does not impose upon us his private estimate of the characters of the great leaders of this movement, on which there has been such endless speculation; but instead we follow the career of one who cared nothing for the principles of either party, but only wished to be left alone to pursue his peaceful calling. It is during Francois' but unhumiliated nobility that Dr. Mitchell shows the greatest delicacy of touch, in the skill with which he reveals to us the awfulness of that reign of terror, without using the cruder means of scenes of slaughter and bloodshed. But the real, the absorbing, interest centers around Francois.

NOT SO RISKY

Only One in Every 2,250,000 Railway Passengers Killed.

Accidents Occur Mostly on Crossings and in Stations

Baltimore, Nov. 2.—The following statements, based upon the latest official reports and brought down to Sept. 1, 1898, by means of ratios and by computations very carefully made by Duane Doty, of Pullman's Palace est to all men engaged in transportation. From 22 miles of railroad in 1830, our railroads have reached their present magnitude. A good laborer able to earn $2 a day, working as a carrier of freight does in Africa, could trans-port one ton, say of lead, one mile, by working hard for four days. In other words $8 would be a fair price for the work that would have to be done. Our railroads now carry one ton of freight one mile for eight-tenths of a cent. or for one one-thousandth of the cost of doing that amount of work by muscular effort alone.

The present milage is: Length of roads now owned by 2,000 corporations, 186,500 miles; extra tracks, sidings and turnouts, 58,000 miles; total of all tracks in the United States today, 244,-500 miles.

The average value of ourrailroads is usually placed at $60,000 a mile, though it is a little more than that; at this rate 186,500 miles of road is worth $11 .-191,000,000. The investments in these roads, including capital stock, funded, unfunded and current debts, can safely be placed at $11,500,000,000.One-seventh of our wealth is in railroads or $160 for every member of our population.

EMPLOY 85,000 PERSONS. The railroads of the United States now employ 850,000 persons, and the average pay of each is $565. officials receive large salaries, but the 80,000 station men and truck repairers, and the 70,000 switchmen, flagmen and watchmen all get small wages, though their pay is sure and their employment is, as a rule, uninterrupted. There are now 450 employes to every 100 miles of road, or 41/2 to every mile. Exclusive of sleeping cars our rail-roade now have 1,325,000 cars of all kinds, or 37 cars to every locomotive, or seven cars to every mile of road. Inclusive of sleeping cars there are now 38,000 passenger, mail and express cars in use. Considering the life of a freight car twelve years, and its earnings after that length of service will barely keep it in repair, it is clear that about 100,000 of these cars now annually go into scrap. In other words 100,000 new freight cars are needed every year to replace those which are worn out, to say nothing of the additional cars required for new roads and for the natural increase of freight

For the five years ending 1897, we built on the average only 41,000 freight cars a year. There are indications that the year 1898 will show much greater activity in this line. The railroads of the country could use to advantage 200,000 more freight cars than they now have.

CARRIED 760,000,000 TONS.

There are 36,000 locomotives in use. 10.000 of them being in passenger service. Each passenger engine handled upon an average over 50,000 passengers during the year, and ran nearly a million and a quarter of miles. Each freight locomotive, on an average, drew 30,000 tons of freight.

Our freight trains, for the year ending Sept. 1, carried 760,000,000 tons of freight, and every ton was carried on an average 125 miles, making in all 95,000,000,000 tons of freight carried one mile. While the average cost of carrying a ton of freight one mile was eight-tenths of a cent it was only sixtenths of a cent in some of the states, The cost of carrying freight has steadily fallen from two cents a mile per ton in 1867 to its present low rate. Our railroads last year had to carry a ton of freight 1,530 miles to make one dollar, and the freight work done was equivalent to carrying one ton 1,300 miles for every man, woman and child are just the medicine to take if trou-of the population. Over three-fourths bled with indigestion miles for every man, woman and child tribes inhabiting the Solomons, or any of the South Sea groups. They were all giants. The average among a company of 400 being measured, he moved the stick placed on a level with his head against an upright tree six feet ten, and was massive in proportion, measuring 43 inches around his bare chest. His muscles, however, were soft and as round as a woman's. But this giant was as handsome as an Adonis and wore his flaxen hair in long curls over his copper-colored shoulders, like all the rest of the men in his tribe. Strange to say, the women wore their hair short, close to their heads. The soft muscles of the men was explained by the fact that these 800 men, women and children are not a fighting race, have never been to war, and do not possess a single fighting implement. They live by snaring wild animals in their mountain home, in fishing and cultivating delicious fruit by grafting and domesticating the wild products of the island. An interpreter was found on the Mohawk. A man who had before seen the tribe made some headway with one of the strange race, who been taught a Solomon Island trade jargon by his father, who had visited one of the islands 25 years be-

A POETICAL RACE.

He learned that the Tocupians were a sentimental, poetical race, conforming strictly to the rules of their religion, strangely resembling Christianity. They practiced monogamy rigidly, because they argued that when a husband or wife died he or she went to the spirit land and waited for the partner left behind on the island, which meant to them all the earth. If the surviving mate lived 100 years, the imprisonment among the unfortunate other was still waiting to be united again in the spirit land, and if a second wife was taken home or a second husband, the better half gone before would make it hot for the other partner when they were united in the great beyond. This was their hell. The women were 5 feet 10 inches and 6 feet tall, appeared in public as their sister Eve in the Garden of Eden at her first home, and were formed like Venuses. Of all the British colonists in the world, the newly-made British subject, the Tocupians, are the most interesting.

Interesting People Found on Solomon . Islands-Never Make War and Are Very Sentimental.

Pacific.

Vancouver, Nov. 2.-When Captain Freeman, of the British man-of-war Mohawk, returned from a six months' trip among the Solomon Islands on the occasion of annexing 14 of those islands to Great Britain, he told of his strange experience at one of the new patches of territory that he took from the natives in the name of Queen Victoria. It was the Island of Tocupa, 500 files from the next nearest island of the Solomon group. It is a land without a history, and Capt. Freeman says that he thought of Darwin's theory of the submerged continent and believed that theory when he looked upon the 800 tribesmen of the mountainous island of Tocupa. When the company of 20 bluejackets landed on the shore and Queen's proclamation, the islanders began to come down from the hills in hundreds, expecting an attack. So the Gatling gun was wheeled into line, but the ceremony went on just the same. Soon the Union Jack was unfurled, the proclamation buried in the sand, and a salute of 21 guns fired, but at the first noise of the guns the na-tives again fied to the hills, and it
