NURSES IN TORONTO

MILITARY HOSPITALS

About 145 are Employed in Three Institutions, Under Three Superintendents

At the present time Toronto has about 145 nurses in its military hospitals.
These are graduate nurses which are entirely apart from the large number of V. A. D's and masseuses who are to be found in practically every hospital.
Only three nurses in this city have been given the rank of honorary captain.
Great care is given to the selection of nurses, as only those who have had a three-year training and in a hospital of not less than 100 beds are eligible. The nurses have the same hours as those allocated in their regular hospital days, with the two hours a day for a rest and one half holiday a week.
The nurses are taken in on from two to three weeks' probation and those who are qualified for the work are put up before the C. A. M. C. and receive their appointment. At the present time there are only 250 patients in these hospitals.

In the Base Hospital, however, the nurses receive an overseas training.
During their stay in Toronto they assist in caring for the men in camp as well as cases from overseas. This hospital, which is under the able supervision of Miss Ross, a native of Port Perry, is equipped with 1,000 beds and 73 nurses, which are constantly changing owing to the drafts which are called up for overseas service.

SOME BERLIN PRICES.

Hamilton Herald: Don't get gloomy over the high prices of things to eat.
We don't know from experience what real privation is. Consider these prices which are ruling in Berlin: Butter, 32.25 per pound; sugar, 36 cents per pound; ham and bacon, $2.11 per pound. The English-speaking people are not called upon to suffer a tithe of what the Kaiser's subjects are suffering in the way of privation. If they can hold out, surely we can.
