ROCKEFELLERS OF OLD COUNTRY

Cowdrey and Samuel Come Fast to Front GRIP THE OIL BUSINESS

Not Only Successfully Fight Standard Oil Co. in Great Britain But Threaten Its Rule in Other Parts of World

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, Feb. 8.—Prolongation of the taxi strike draws attention to the two men who, although unconnected, are rapidly gaining a position in this country similar to that for many years occupied by the Rockefeller brothers in the United States.

Lord Cowdrey originally came into the limelight as a contractor for whom no job was too big, and no part of the world too distant. He was especially active in South America and in Mexico. In the latter country he became interested in oil properties, and, working quietly, he gradually gained control of almost 50 per cent. of the total supply. Then the Standard Oil Company became aware of Lord Cowdrey's existence, and after vainly attempting to buy him out, fought him tooth and nail. But, apparently, the Englishman is none the worse for the struggle.

Sir Marcus Samuel, a former lord mayor of London, and head of one of the largest financial and trading firms in London, has become equally strong in other parts of the world. He played an all-important part in the development of the Russian oil fields and more recently in the Borneo properties. The latter, he believes, are to become the greatest yielders of oil in the world, and he tried hard to get the British government to buy a controlling interest. Eventually he was compelled to come to an arrangement with the Dutch, and although Sir Marcus is still chairman of the Shell Trading & Transport Company, a Dutch company holds the controlling interest.

This shell company is a worthy competitor of even the Standard Oil Company. Besides the millions of Sir Marcus, it has behind it the almost equal wealth of the house of Rothschild, which holds a third of the stock.

It is hardly necessary to say that the Cowdrey and Samuel interests work in harmony against the Anglo-American Oil Company, under the leadership of John D. Rockefeller, and that the Standard Oil Company cloaks its identity in this country.

WANT TO LEND BUT THEY CAN'T

Here's Money Piling up Under a Trust CONDITIONS TOO HARD

English Distiller Founded Trust to Keep Struggling Business Men But Few Can Measure up to The Requirements

(Times' Special Correspondence) London, Feb. 8.—To be anxious to lend money that you hold in trust for that purpose and which is piling up relentlessly on your hands, and yet not to be able to do so is a novel predicament, but it is that of a highly distinguished body in the City of London today.

This body, of which the lord mayor, the city chamberlain, and the two senior clerks of five members, are so keen to find borrowers for the money that they have in charge that they actually have advertising for such of late, but, sad to say, though the rate of interest quoted is ridiculously low, the supply of struggling young business men desirous of being accommodated with loans of from $500 to $1,000 is apting like equal to the demand for them.

The stumbling block is the condition imposed by the man who founded the trust, one Samuel Wilson of Hatton Garden, London, who departed this life in October 1768. Wilson was a "gin-spinner" or distiller, and he left his money to be loaned in sums of from £100 to £200 to young men in business in the city (or within a radius of five miles) at an interest of one per cent. in the first year and two per cent. for the remaining four years of the period of the loan.

Unfortunately, however, he laid it down, not only that no one in his own line of business could benefit under the trust, but that all applicants must be Protestants over forty years of age, and that each must be able to declare "that I have not and shall not have any other means of the whole gained and not lost more since I have been in business, and that I do not owe more than I am able to pay."

Ambitious young business men for all parts of the country apply for help, but comparatively few can fulfill the harsh and fast conditions. Three unquestionable personal securities are required for a loan of $500 and four for larger loans, and this requirement proves too much for many applicants. The results that money is piling up year after year, and the trustees sigh in vain for men who will relieve the charity of some of its funds to their own benefit.

Numerous big business men in the city and neighborhood, however, are said to have "turned the corner" with the help of Wilson's trust. Among others, A. W. Gamaga, proprietor of one of the biggest department stores in England, and one of the biggest hunters, has publicly acknowledged his indebtedness to the long-dead distiller.

MONCTON AROUSED OVER HOCKEY MATTER

Get Opinion of Lawyers—I. C. R. Men Want More Pay

Moncton, N. B., Feb. 20.—There is ill feeling in Moncton over the action taken by the M. P. H. A. executive in Truro yesterday in suspending Scott and Doherty. The Moncton management have consulted lawyers as to the interpretation of the rules, and it is understood have been advised that there is nothing to prevent the playing of Scott and Doherty. A member of the Moncton management said today that the Victorias will play Scott on Tuesday night if he is needed.

Representatives of labor unions have been in Moncton conferring with the I. C. R. management regarding hours and wages schedules for machinists, boiler-makers, blacksmiths and other shop employees. They want eight hours a day and the same pay as for nine hours, and five per cent. increase in salary and work only five hours on Saturday. It is expected a compromise will be reached.

CITY TO GET NEW EQUIPMENT Street Rollers and Other Things—Yard at Sheffield Street

The city department of public works is to have a thoroughly modern equipment for laying pavements and sidewalks. At this morning's meeting of the commissioners, Mr. Agar was authorized to expend about $16,000 for new machinery and other equipment. The purchases will include a ten ton steam road roller, an eight ton steam roller, a three ton motor roller for sidewalks and repairs, a portable stone crusher, a motor truck for conveying street materials and a hot mixer for bituminous concrete which may also be used for mixing cement concrete. The cost will be met by a bond issue.

A new yard for storing and preparing materials is to be arranged on some city property at the foot of Sheffield street, and access to it will be by rail for the convenient transportation of materials used by the department. At present it is believed that the I. C. R. is encroaching on this land where its branch line passes and this matter also was taken up by the commissioners.

MODESTY THE BEST POLICY. It was the early part of the New Year, and little Dorothy, with her mother, was paying a long-delayed visit to Uncle Silas.

Now, Uncle Silas was wealthy—very wealthy—and little Dorothy was easily interested in the leather book. So one morning she appeared in front of the said uncle, and asked:

"Uncle dear, will you please give me something for my missionary box?" The incident took place immediately following a particularly satisfying lunch, and Uncle Silas playfully threw on the dining-room table a copper, a fifty cent piece, and a five dollar bill, remarking:

"There, dear, you can have which you like of the three."

Then he watched to see what little Dorothy would do. That young person approached the table and studied the situation for fully three seconds. Then she suddenly burst out: "Mummy's always told me not to be greedy, so I'll take the copper. But will you please wrap it up in that crinkly bit of paper, unless, as I shouldn't lose it?" And uncle did.

NEW OFFICE BUILDING

Armstrong & Bruce Get Applications With Call For Tenders

Another office building is to be added to the number in this city through the enterprise of Armstrong & Bruce. They recently purchased the Lynch building, in Prince William street, near Duke, and are now calling for tenders to have it remodelled as a modern office building. In taking this step they were actuated by their knowledge of business conditions in St. John and by their faith in the future. Although the advertisement for tenders appeared only this morning they already have received several applications for office.

The building will be entirely remodelled throughout. The walls will be strengthened with steel truss girders and the front changed. A modern plate glass front will be installed on the ground floor and on the upper floors large new windows of the double type will be put in. There will be two large offices on the ground floor with private offices in the rear. The main entrance, which will give access to one of the ground floor suites and to the upper floors will be at the northeast corner. On the second and third floors there will be nine offices, which may be used singly or in suites.

The building will be heated with hot water and lighted with electricity and up to date lavatories will be installed on each floor. The interior fittings will be of a handsome type in keeping with the rest of the building.
