Referring again to the islands in the Portland Chaunel going to the United States, Mr. Bourassa said they were of no value, and everyone would admit they were otherwise of no particular value.

Taking up the correspondence which bassed between the British government and the Canadian government for referring the case to the commission, Mr. Bourassa said that while Canada's sons were shedding their blood on African soil Mr. Chamberlain was sacrificing Canadian interests in both the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and the Alaska boundary. He asked Canadians to drop the question as to the decision by magistrates, and deal with the political men in England who dragged Canada into the arbitration Ottawa, Oct. 23.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Bourassa made a speech on the Alaska boundary award, supporting the American contention and agreeing with Lord Alverstone as far as against the will of the Canadian people speech on the Alaska boundary award, supporting the American contention and agreeing with Lord Alverstone as far as ington, instead of by a means which took
