

A vertical, high-contrast black and white photograph. The left side shows a light-colored, vertically oriented strip with a fine, uniform texture, possibly a book's binding or endpaper. The right side is dominated by a dark, almost black area with a very rough, grainy, and mottled texture, suggesting a different material or a heavily worn surface. The boundary between the two textures is a vertical line.

A dark, textured vertical strip, possibly a book binding or a piece of fabric, with a lighter, textured strip to its left. The dark strip has a rough, grainy appearance, while the light strip is smoother and appears to be a different material or a different part of the same object. The overall image is in black and white, with high contrast between the two textures.
