McGUCKIN, Rev. James M. (R.C.), educationist, was b. at Coolestown, Co. Tyrone, Irel., July, 1835. In his 14th year he became associated with his uncle in the management of an extensive linen manufactory, but intending to devote his life to the priesthood, he entered the novitiate of the Oblate order at Stickling Hall, Yorkshire, Eng., in 1860. His studies were completed at the Scholastic House, Marseilles, France, and at Inchicore, near Dublin; and, in 1863, he departed for the N. W. mission of Am. He was ordained priest, Nov., the same year, by Mgr. Demers, Bp. of Vancouver Island, and for 20 yrs. or more laboured assiduously among the Indians and miners of B. C. He had for some yrs. the direction of the St. Louis Sch., Victoria, which, in his hands, became a coll., and he was, subsequently, acting Presdt. of the Oblate Coll., New Westminster. It was his fortune to be sent to Cariboo during the prevalence of the "gold-fever" in the sixties, and while there, according to the testimony of the late Chief Justice Sir M. B. Begbie, "he accomplished more for the ends of law and order than did a score of Her Majesty's officers." For 4 yrs. he was Superior of one or more of the flourishing missions controlled by the Oblate fathers in the interior of B. C., and he left in the Province many monuments of his practical skill and of his zeal as a priest. When summoned to assume the rectorship of the Univ. of Ottawa in 1889—the position he still fills—he was fulfilling the duties of Procurator and Vicar-

Genl. to the late Bp. d'Herboomez. He received the degree of D.D. from Rome, 1890. His name has been mentioned more than once in connection with a seat on the Episcopal bench.—The University of Ottawa, Ottawa, Ont.

"His name is inseparably connected with the history of the Church in B. C. A zealous missionary and priest, his work in founding missions and establishing schools and colleges in that distant sphere of action has earned for him the gratitude and respect of every Catholic."—The Owl.
