

CHAPTER	PAGE
III. Political Strife	167
IV. War with the United States, 1812	170
V. War with the United States, 1813	177
VI. The End of the War, 1814	187
VII. The Great West and Lord Selkirk's Settlements	191
VIII. The Maritime Provinces after the War	197
IX. Upper Canada after the War	201
X. Mackenzie and Colborne	206
XI. Stormy Years in Lower Canada	209
XII. Upper Canada on the Brink of Rebellion	215
XIII. The Rebellion, 1837	218
XIV. Lord Durham	224
XV. The Union of Upper and Lower Canada	229
XVI. Struggle for Reform in the Maritime Provinces	233
XVII. Social Conditions, 1791-1841	238

BOOK III.—STEPS TOWARD CONFEDERATION.

I. The Working of the New Plan of Government	245
II. Boundary Troubles	250
III. The Rebellion Losses Bill	254
IV. Trade and Railways	258
V. Troublous Times	262
VI. Vancouver and British Columbia	268
VII. Deadlock	272
VIII. The Quebec Scheme of Confederation	275
IX. A Waiting Time	280
X. Confederation Accomplished	283
XI. Social Conditions, 1841-67	286

PART III.—THE GROWTH OF THE NATION.

I. The Red River Rebellion	297
II. From East to West	305
III. The Mackenzie Ministry	310
IV. Under Lord Lorne's Rule	315
V. The Saskatchewan Rebellion	318
VI. The Closing Years of Macdonald's Ministry	325
VII. Recent Events	330
VIII. Social Conditions	343
An Aid to the Pronunciation of Some Difficult Names	356
Dates of Important Events in Canadian History	358
Sovereigns of France and England Connected with Canadian History	362
French Governors of Canada	363
English Governors of Canada	363
Governors-General of Canada	364
Index	365