ought to 've seen the nice things Sam took him."

"But what has Sam Darrow done for you?"

The little fellow's face flushed, then he said in a low voice, looking up depreciatingly: "You wouldn't think I came near being a thief and a liar once, but it's so. I found something I wanted, and no one knew but Sam. 'I'm going to keep it,' I told him, 'they won't know who's got it.' Sam gave me that look, then he said: 'But you will know and so will God.' So I took it back to the owner."

AN ESSAY ON HABIT.

A story is told of an English schoolmaster who offered a prize to the boy who would write the best composition in five minutes on "How to Overcome Habit."

At the expiration of five minutes the compositions were read. The prize went to a lad of nine years. Following is his essay:

"Well, sir, habit is hard to overcome. If you take off the first letter, it does not change 'a bit.' If you take off another you still have a 'bit' left. If you take off still another, the whole of it remains; if you take off another it is not wholly used up; all of which goes to show that if you want to get rid of habit you must throw it off altogether."

WILHELMINA'S DOLLS HAD THE MEASLES.

An amusing story is told of Queen Wilhelmina when she was quite a little child.

Her majesty was not allowed to share dinner with the eldest members of the royal household, but was permitted to make her appearance at dessert, and place herself beside some particular favourite.

One day she sat by a courtly old general, and after eating some fruit the little girl turned and gazed up at him. Presently she exclaimed: "I wonder you're not afraid to sit next to me."

Everybody in the room turned at sound of her childish treble.

"On the contrary, I am but too pleased and honoured to sit next to my future queen," replied the general. "But why should I be afraid?"

Assuming a woebegone expression the little girl replied: "Because all my dolls have the measles—they're all of them down with it."

ONE GIRL'S SECRET.

"Mother, may I go out visiting this afternoon?" asked little Agnes Mayhew.

"Yes, you may. You may go to

To Make Home Pretty and Attractive

is the wish of every lady. Perhaps we can help you a little by improving some unightly arch, a nice piece over a bay window, a screen for a stairway, a cosy corner, a handsome stationary or folding screen. The expense will not be much and would add greatly to the appearance of the rooms. We make these in Moorish fret work, Japanese fret work, scroll or grille work, all combinations of the different styles and makes, finished in any kind of wood desired. see Ella, or to see Louie, whichever you like."

"I'd rather go to Louie's," said Agnes, quickly.

"Why?" asked Aunt Esther, who was sewing at the window. "Hasn't Ella a great many dolls and beautiful toys? And then there is her pony cart."

"I know," said Agnes. "But it doesn't matter how many nice things she has, just as soon as we begin to play she begins to wish she has something different, and it unsettles my mind so much. But when I play with Louie, if we want anything that we haven't got she can generally think of something else that will do as well, or else she says that we can do without it very nicely. She's lots cheerfuller about doing without things than Ella is, and it's much more fun to play with her."

Aunt Esther looked across Agnes at her mother and smiled. "The same old truth," she said. "It's the spirit within that makes the world without fair or dark."

"What is spirit, mother?" asked Agnes, presently.

Her mother thought a minute. "Well, dear, it's the way we think in our hearts. If we have happy, thankful thoughts they give us a contented spirit, and that makes the world bright for us. Nothing else can."

Agnes nodded her head very wisely. "Yes, mother, I believe that's just the truth. Louie's got a contented spirit, and she enjoys it a great deal more than Ella does all her dolls and her pony cart and everything. Besides, it makes her just lovely company for us other girls to play with."

CHERISH YOUR GIRLHOOD.

Dear girls, don't be so often wishing you were grown-up women, that you will neglect your girlhood. In the rush and hurry of these fast times there is danger that you will reach and strain after "young ladyhood" too much. Be girls awhile yet. Be tender, joyous, loving, obedient, industrious. Womanhood with its privileges and power, its burdens and trials, will come soon enough.

On this point one has wisely said, "Wait patiently, my children, through the whole limit of your girlhood. Go not after womanhood; let it come to you. Keep out of public view. Cultivate refinement and modesty. The cares and responsibilities of life will come soon enough. When they come you will meet them, I trust, as true women should. But oh! be not so unwise as to throw away your girlhood. Rob not yourself of this beautiful season, which, wisely spent, will brighten all your future life."

—There is always some one to smile at; somebody to whom a book, a flower, or even an old paper will be a boon.

Where the crowd was densest in Hyde Park England, a little gathering of ladies, dressed in deepest mourning, sang, as the Queen's coffin passed, the late Sir Arthur Sullivan's beautiful part song—

Go to thy dreamless bed,
Where grief reposes;
Thy book of toil is read,
The long day closes.

Many who heard the simple sweetness of the words and melody were moved to tears.

SORROW.

Sorrow teaches a wisdom that is priceless.

Sorrow leavens the lump of human pride and expands the body until the soul will fit into it.

After its softening, refining force has finished its work in man and woman, then are they large enough to live.

Sorrow is sweet when God has told us its meaning.

It gives to the heart what reason and knowledge cannot, and makes a deeper conviction than preaching or prayer.

Sorrow is the purifier, the divine absolution.

Have You Sore Throat

Hoarseness, Cold in the Head, Headache and Pains in the Limbs and Body?

If you are not suffering more or less from these symptoms you are one of the few. The majority of people realize that there is a mild form of la grippe going the rounds. Few escape it. You can be promptly relieved and cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Many people know well enough that there is no cough and cold treatment to be compared with Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, but they sometimes fail to insist on having Dr. Chase's and no other, and the druggist gives them some cheap substitute. You need not blame the druggist for making a larger profit on a substitute when you do not insist on getting what you ask for.

The next time you need medicines for coughs, colds, bronchitis and kindred ailments be sure you get Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It gets right down at the cause of the cold and removes it. It is more thorough and far-reaching than any cough medicine you ever used, and is wonderfully prompt in action.

Mr. J. Wiggins, 120 Shuter St., Toronto, states:—"Both my mother and myself were suffering from an attack of la grippe, when we heard of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It is a pleasure to testify to its worth since one bottle effected a cure for both cases. Without doubt it is a marvellous remedy."

Mr. Geo. Palmer, 87 Palmerston Ave., Toronto, says:—"I have suffered from bronchial trouble for the past five years, and can say truthfully that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is the only remedy that has ever given me permanent relief."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has by far the largest sale of any similar preparation. Insist on getting it, and you will be more than pleased with the results; 25 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60 cents, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
