The Daily Planet

S. STEPHENSON, PROPRIETOR.

Business Office 53. Mail Room 100.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1906.

MATERNITY HOSPITAL PLANS.

The Planet has no apology to offer for what it said about tenders not having been asked from the four remaining firms in the city, as it thinks that a great injustice was done by the committee having this part of the work in hand. It was thought these architects were incompetent to figure on the work, it was the duty of the committee to go outside the city and, in any event, get competition and the best available plans for the purpose within the appropriation which has been created for the erection of the Maternity Ward. A. M. Piper writes a letter to the Planet in last evening's issue which the Planet declined to publish because it contained statements which the writer and this journal knew to be untrue, and the ladies who so considerably trusted their business to his care will hardly thank him for its appearance. The present hospital originally cost eight thousand dollars or thereabouts to erect, and it is proposed to construct an addition at a cost of seven thousand dollars. Yet, although Mr. Piper knew this was the amount they had to expend, he prepares plans which the local tenders say cannot be constructed at a less cost than eleven thousand dollars. Is this gentleman who was so voluminous in his abuse of his associates in his profession, so ignorant of the current rates for labor and material that he is incapable of getting out plans which will be acceptable to those who entrusted him with the work.

The Planet would therefore suggest to the ladies, as they are spending the money of our citizens who so liberally patronized the Fair of Nations, that they meet the architects of the city and explain what is required, and then ask for plans and specifications and make a selection from amongst them. It is a case where no favoritism should be shown, and it is the only course any body of men or women should take in a matter of this kind. The Planet in saying this has only words of the highest commendation for the splendid work the ladies have done in accumulating such a large fund for so worthy an object, and if what they aim to have cannot be obtained for seven thousand dollars, there are enough liberal minded citizens in this city to make up the deficiency to any reasonable amount provided they pursue a course which is not open to criticism, as the action of the committee would appear to be in the present instance.

At three o'clock to-day Hon. Charles Hyman was still holding his seat in London. Mr. Hyman's actions are proving the evident truth of the old adage that stolen fruits are the sweetest.

Dr. Weldon, the Conservative candidate for Shelburne-Queens, asked Hon. Mr. Fielding these three questions on Wednesday:

1. How many persons did Mr. Fielding pay sums of money to about two years after the election of 1903?
2. How much money was so paid?
3. How much money had been so spent?

Mr. Fielding said he had no answer to make beyond what he had stated in the court, and that was that he refused to answer any questions regarding former elections, for which he was not on trial. The doctor will repeat the questions at every meeting of the campaign at which he may be present.

HIS TURN NOW.

St. Thomas Times.

R. R. Garney is having a little of the commodity known as sweet revenge these days. He is seeing the machine in which he was tortured broken in pieces.

A RICH COUNTY.

Ridgeway Plaindealer.

The richness of this grand old county of Kent is not yet half realized. It reports be true. The strikes of oil and gas are only a small beginning, prospectors being confident that thousands of derricks will dot western Ontario in the near future. The find of salt in Tilbury is also reported to be a valuable one.

LAURIER CONDEMNED.

St. Thomas Times.

No doubt it was the throwing of Conservative votes in with the dissentient Liberals in Quebec county that won victory for the Bourassa candidate, and the Liberal press is making much of the fact. Nevertheless it was a strong rebuff to the Government.

JUST A LITTLE BIT OFF THE TOP

Indian summer probably beat a quick retreat to the wigwam to keep from getting its feet wet.

The department is going to install an electric stamper in the post office. The new machine is said to make great hits wherever it goes.

The Russian terrorists raided a Government treasury wagon. Despite their assertions to the contrary, this looks extremely as though they were anxious to get into more truck with the Government.

George Bernard Shaw says that we are not killing half the people who need killing. George Bernard must probably have been pestered by bill-collectors and book-agents of late.

From day to day, little nonsense rhymes concerning Chatham's prominent officials will appear in Off The Top.

Ald. Stone.

Let's we forget, another man. Among the great, we mention—Bill Stone is he, whose hobby is That bitter home contention.

RISKED HIS LIFE.

How an Enterprising Reporter Got the News For His Paper.

Undoubtedly the boldest undertaking on the part of a reporter to score a "beat" ever known in the history of American journalism was when Thomas B. Fielders of the New York Times leaped from a steamer in New York harbor at odds of about 100 to 1 of being drowned and brought in the graphic story of the loss of the ocean liner Oregon. It is the custom of New York dailies to send reporters down the bay to meet incoming steamers when it is known there is "big news" about it. On the ground there is better to be safe than sorry. The editors dispatch the reporters by special permit on a government revenue cutter or else on a specially chartered tug, with a view to catching their game before the ship docks. It was known early one afternoon that a North German Lloyd steamer was not far out, and every city editor in New York laid plans for sending reporters to meet the incoming liner.

Fielders was one of these. He managed to get aboard the big steamer far down the bay and went among the survivors of the Oregon disaster and obtained some thrilling tales of escape. He took notes enough to write a book about the sinking of the ship, with minute details of heroic rescues and plenty of what newspaper men call "human interest" stories. Then time began to wear heavy on his hands. It was getting late at night and the ship had not yet passed quarantine. To make matters worse, the captain said that he would allow no one to leave the ship until she had made her way clear of quarantine. Fielders vainly pleaded that he was not a passenger and therefore was not amenable to the inspection of the ship by the health officers. His remonstrances were unavailing. The captain was obdurate.

Ten o'clock came. The city editor of the Times paced nervously around the night desk, repeatedly asking, "Where on earth is Fielders?"

Out there in the bay Fielders, wrought to a pitch of anger almost sufficient to impel an assault upon the exacting captain, looked vainly at the dimpling stream of light from his tug as she lay out in the darkened waters waiting for him. The captain of the steamer would not permit the tug to come any nearer to his ship. Fielders stood beside the rail, loudly remonstrating with the man commanding the big ship. He stealthily placed one leg over the rail, then the other. Then there was a splashing sound below and a chorus of shouts from the passengers. The reporter was overboard! Out in the rippling light his body was seen to rise, and as it did the dazed man began swimming toward his tug. His comrades had thrown out a line at a signal from him previously given, and he made for that line. Would he ever get it? Could they see him, a mere speck on the dimly lighted water? He gained a hold on the rope, was pulled aboard the tug and gave orders for her nose to be turned toward the Manhattan shore with all possible speed. The Times contained a full and graphic story of the loss of the Oregon the next morning.—Remson Crawford in Success Magazine.

Counting in the Tyrol.

Tyrolean maidens are by old custom spared the necessity of giving tongue to their "aye" or "no." The first time a young man pays a visit as an avowed suitor he brings with him a bottle of wine, of which he pours out a glass and offers it to the object of his affections. In any case she will not refuse it point blank—that would be too gross an insult—but should the wooer not be agreeable to her or his declaration come a little too prematurely she declines the proffered wine, pleading that it looks sour or that wine disagrees with her or any other excuse that feminine ingenuity may suggest. If she likes the lad and is equal to owning it she empties the glass, taking care not to spill any of the wine, for if she does so the glass or bottle be broken it is an unhappy omen. "They have split the wine between them," say the peasants when the marriage turns out badly.

Harmful Stomach Dosing

No Need Of It When Hyomei Is Used To Cure Catarrh.

Physicians and scientists agree that the best medicine one swallow, the better. It is in keeping with this idea that Hyomei is recommended by leading physicians throughout this and other catarrhal sections.

When this treatment is used in catarrhal troubles, there is no stomach dosing, for the medicine is taken in with the air you breathe, and goes right to the spot where the catarrhal germs are present, healing the inflamed and irritated mucous membrane, killing the disease germs and entering the blood with the oxygen, driving all catarrhal germs from the system.

Do not try to cure catarrh of the head by putting medicine into your stomach—this is neither a scientific nor common sense treatment. Breathe the healing balsams of Hyomei and in a few days you will notice relief, and its continued use will result in a complete and lasting cure.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, if needed, 50 cents. We do not want anyone's money unless Hyomei gives relief and cure, and we absolutely agree that money will be refunded unless the remedy gives satisfaction.

All druggists should be able to supply you with Hyomei or we will send it by mail on receipt of price, and every package is sold with the distinct understanding that it costs nothing unless it cures. Write us today for a symptom blank which we will send you free, together with treatise on Catarrh and how to cure it. When you fill in and return to us the symptom blank, our consulting physician will give you case the best care and attention, and write you a letter of advice without charge. The R. T. Booth Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

They Found the Man.

A good story is told in a recent issue of William's Magazine, of Hon. F. W. Aymer, of Golden, B. C., relating to the early days when Mr. Aymer came to the Pacific West in charge of a body of surveyors of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, and was widely known as the "Hon. Frank Aymer." One day while the men were at dinner eating ordinary camp fare, three rowdy lumberjacks came to the camp and asked to see the man in charge. Being told that he was man in charge, they followed him to the "Hon. Frank Aymer," they became very insulting and loquacious. "Frank Aymer—the Honorable Frank Aymer!" the largest one in the crowd exclaimed in a sneering tone of voice. "The Honorable Frank Aymer! Point him out to me that I can get a good look at him! Who is this Hon. Frank Aymer?" A gentleman of husky, manly proportions jumped up from his seat at the table and confronted them. "Who are you?" the rowdy asked. "I am the Honorable Frank Aymer," he replied, and he proceeded in true Canadian style to thrash the three of them. At first, the man's rowdy companions wanted to step in and help out their comrade, but the boys in the camp compelled them to desist, and he finished up the three in succession. Mr. Aymer, of day lives in Golden, and is one of the town's highly esteemed and respected citizens, numbering his friends by the score.

Better Than Spanking

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if you children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

As a vessel is known by the sound, whether it is cracked or not, men are proved by their own species, whether they be wise or foolish.

An ounce of confidence in yourself is better than a pound of confidence in others.

True grandeur is to govern our passions, and true pleasure to enjoy ourselves.

THE GOLDEN FLEECE.

Most Highly Prized of the Surviving Orders of Chivalry.

Of all the orders of mediaeval chivalry which have survived the shock of successive revolutions on the continent of Europe since the great cataclysm of 1789, that of the Golden Fleece is perhaps the most distinguished and the most highly coveted by personages of royal birth or of illustrious patrician lineage.

The badge of the order is the figure of a sheep in embossed gold suspended from a heavy chain of gold. The full robes consist of a long mantle of crimson velvet, cut in the fashion of a sacerdotal cope, richly embroidered at the borders with emblematic devices of stars, half moons and fleeces in gold and lined with white satin, over a doublet and hose of crimson damask. The full robes also comprise a "chaparron," or hood, with a long flowing streamer of black satin, but this head-gear has in modern times been generally dispensed with.

Originally the robes of the order, which was founded in 1429 by Philip the Good, duke of Burgundy, were of crimson cloth lined with white lamb's wool, and this circumstance has somewhat strengthened the theory that the golden fleece was instituted by Philip the Good in grateful recognition of the immense treasures which the Duke of Burgundy had acquired from the wool of the flocks reared on his vast estates in Flanders. Be it as it may, the woolen costume was changed in 1478 at a chapter held at Valenciennes for the more costly materials of velvet, taffeta, damask and gold embroidery.—London Telegraph.

SINGULAR CUSTOMS.

Bulgarian Ceremonies That Come From Pagan Rites.

The people of Varna, on the coast of the Black sea, in Bulgaria, have a singular custom which they observe at the feast of the Epiphany, which takes place on Jan. 6. The clergy, both Greeks and Bulgarians, accompanied by an immense crowd, go to the seashore, carrying with them a wooden cross. The cross is thrown by the clergy into the sea, and thereupon the strongest swimmers jump in after it. The best swimmer gets it, of course, and brings it in triumph to shore.

The Varna people have a still more singular salt water custom on the same day. After dark at night all the newly married men in the town are conducted, with bands of music and singing, to the shore and made to take three successive plunges into the icy water. They are then conducted home, where their brides, accompanied by their relatives and friends, have been awaiting them in state. After this there is feasting and merry making. These singular customs are believed to have a Pagan origin.

Photo Amateurs a Study.

One of the most interesting places in New York to study human nature is at a counter in a photographer's shop where the customers come to get amateur photographs they have had developed and printed. The anxiety they display to get the products of their "shots" would seem to be out of all proportion to the results, when you catch a glimpse of them, and their disappointment if the prints are not as good as they hoped for. The frankness of these exhibitions is not the least interesting phase of the whole thing.

Firing a Distress Signal.

When a ship does not carry a cannon or mortar with which she can fire distress signals, a metal socket on the bridge or poop rail is used for that purpose. Into the socket a detonating tube is placed, and inside this is a firing tube. A lanyard is hooked on to the tube, and a man by giving the lanyard a sharp jerk, explodes the rocket. It contains a high explosive and on leaving the rail gives a loud report and another on reaching its highest altitude. Both reports are as loud as the report of a twelve pounder cannon. The socket is slipped in the rail at an angle to prevent the rocket touching the rigging.

A Spoiled Sermon.

A clergyman was unexpectedly called upon to preach before the students of a well known college. He chose a sermon from his "barrel" and without reading it went to the college chapel. He got on splendidly until near the close, when he announced the boys with his peroration, beginning, "And now a word in conclusion to you who are mothers."

Several Dialects.

McCall—What sort of hybrid creature is that new butler of yours? Nutch—Why, how do you mean? McCall—I called to see you the other day, and when I asked him what time I might catch you at home he said, "At half pawst tin, sah."

Quite Regular.

"The last time I saw Gayley he wasn't very regular in his habits." "Oh, he's very regular now." "Well, well, I didn't think he'd ever reform."

"He hasn't. His habits are all bad now."

See what thy soul doth wear. Dare to look into thy chest, for 'tis thine own, and tumble up and down what thou findest there.—Wordsworth.
