We learn that the artistic taste of some of our lady friends is often offended by the combination of colors sometimes worn by some of the young men who promenade our streets,—such as a red-and-black cap, and a red-and-blue necktie, and a green handkerchief. Com.

Messrs Lane and Jones, of Kentville, who have been prospecting for gold on the Gasperau mountain during the last few weeks, brought to Wolfville on Saturday last a bag filled with gold-bearing quartz, found on Gold Brook near the residence of Mr. Jackson Gould. They inform us that the lead is about 3 feet wide and easy to mine.

K. D. C. at G. H. Wallace's.

A disagreeable scene took place on the W. S. A. express going west last Saturday. Mr. G. H. King, a divinity student at Acadia, having been delegated to preach at Annapolis, entered the car, which was crowded, and seeing no other seat vacant, sat down on one of two seats occupied by Rev. Mr. Brown, who is temporarily in charge of the parish at Annapolis. King, in seating himself, accidentally sat on the hat of the reverend gentleman, who, provoked beyond measure, forgot himself and gave the divinity student a blow in the nose, disgusting manner. There was extreme indignation among the passengers at the scene and Rev. Henry J. How, who was a witness, informed the aggressive clergyman that he would report the affair to the Bishop if he himself did not.

Freddie Nichols, son of C. O. Nichols, has died, as a result of the accident in his father's grist mill. The bereaved parents have the sincere sympathy of the vicinity at large.

A large quantity of apples has been shipped from this station this season. Five carloads were sent by one train alone, and three empty cars are waiting to be loaded. After so much has been said about apple packing it is really surprising how badly a great number are put up. It is high time that such a practice was stopped. It is ruinous to the farmers themselves.

It is rumored that one of our young ladies will attend Acadia Seminary after holidays. May success attend her.

The new mill on the Samuel Borden estate is rapidly progressing. The frame is now completed and put up. It is one of the best water privileges in the place. When it is completed we will have three saw mills in Cambridge.

THE PEOPLE'S VOICE.

MR. EDITOR,—I see by the ACADIAN of the 28th ult., that Mr. Anderson has taken upon himself to review my letter to the voters of this Ward, of the 14th, ult. If it would not be asking too much I would like to write a few words in reply, although I am aware that it is not proper to occupy your valuable space with affairs of this kind. Mr. Anderson, after occupying considerable space in praising his own merits and the satisfactory results of his administration, goes on to say: "My friends all over the Ward were much surprised at the turn things had taken, and came to assure me of their willingness to give their time and votes to me on election day." Now this seems rather strange, why, if his friends all over the Ward looked to his standard in such numbers, and so willingly testified to their fidelity, why did Mr. Anderson did not remain at home to entertain his callers. I would hardly have thought there would have been any necessity under the circumstances of his starting so early Wednesday morning (the day after the nominations closed) and traversing this Ward in all directions for the next ten days, at least, spreading reports of forgery and various other charges in connection with my nomination paper, even implicating myself in having something to do with it, and that it was got up Sunday. Who the author of the paper was and where it originated I know not, neither have I ever seen the paper. I did hear that a paper of that kind was being circulated, and had I thought that it was going to surprise and alarm Mr. Anderson and his friends to the extent that he says it did I should have went myself or sent a detective to the office and had the fellow arrested before he handed the paper in. Again he says: "I obtained the ACADIAN as soon as possible and looked for the resignation but failed to find it." Why in the name of common sense did he not employ some competent person who could understand plain English, for it appears that the majority of the voters understood the article all right for notwithstanding the efforts of Mr. Anderson, and his numerous friends to prevail upon the voters to be on hand election day, something less than one third of the votes in the Ward were polled. Mr. Anderson is very anxious to know why I did not "face the music." I wish to inform Mr. Anderson that I have "faced the music" on four different occasions and to clean him out was the easiest victory I have ever won! His last charge reads thus: "His last excuse is not only childish but very amusing and shows that he must have been in a very bad humor indeed when he attacks the officers of the polling booth." What in the world has the fellow got in his head this time, another mistake probably, for it is clear that I never said a word about the character of those officers either good or bad. Turn up the ACADIAN of the 14th ult., and look for yourselves. But if Mr. Anderson wishes to hear of a scheme that was perpetrated at that booth at my first election in which he was an eye witness if not a party to the plot, I will accommodate him with a detailed account on application. JERIE DAVISON. Gasperau, Dec. 3d, 1890.

Wait for our grand opening of Xmas Goods. If you buy before inspecting our stock you will surely regret it. R. PRAT.

This is winter indeed. The driving snow blusters over the barren hills and the forest trees moan with the wind. The windows are beautifully frosted by the silvery frost. What reminds us more of the cozy winter fireside? Pleasant memories come back to us with the thought. Under these circumstances the writer takes the pen in hand.

We cannot believe that the present weather will last long. But an old sea captain of this place assures us that we will have plenty of snow this winter. That means our dusty sleighs will be brought out and the sound of jingling bells will again greet our ears.

The ladies of the Baptist church held a pie sociable at the Hall last Thursday evening. The entertainments was highly enjoyable. The readings by Mrs. Jenner were especially appreciated. A neat sum of money rewarded their efforts.

Mr. J. H. Jenner, now attending Acadia College, has been chosen pastor of the church here. The managers are to be complimented on their fortunate choice, as Mr. Jenner has already shown rare ability in his position. In appreciation of his valued services a donation was given him last Friday evening. The amount of about fifty or sixty dollars was given either in money or useful articles.

Freddie Nichols, son of C. O. Nichols, has died, as a result of the accident in his father's grist mill. The bereaved parents have the sincere sympathy of the vicinity at large.
