

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

You seem to be feeling better this afternoon than you were yesterday. I commented, when the lady who had dragged herself listlessly to the door in answer to my ring the day before, came down the hall with a quick, elastic step, and greeted me with an unforced smile.

"Yes, I do feel much better this afternoon, although I've worked just as hard as I did yesterday. I really believe it's because when I got my work done to-day, I just made myself change my dress and fix up, and yesterday I thought I was too tired to," she explained.

"I think the lady hit the nail right on the head. Make yourself smile and you will feel happier, despite yourself they say."

"Make yourself look better and you will feel better, despite yourself, is equally true. It is a fact not to be denied that the woman who goes in search of employment of any kind stylishly and becomingly gowned, is twice as apt to be successful, other things being equal, as the woman who is unattractively garbed. And I think the reason for this is not wholly the impression that her attractive appearance makes upon her prospective employer."

I think the impression that it has made on the woman herself is a greater reason. The self-confidence and better address that her consciousness of her attractive appearance inspires in her have more to do with her success than the pleasure or admiration that may inspire in him.

Hot weather is a foe to exertion of any kind, but even here I think the close relationship between attractive appearance and attractive feelings holds good.

You don't believe it? "Tell me, truly, when you really felt the better—the hot day when you drooped around all day and in a limp, ugly rag of a gown, because it was the thinnest thing you owned, or the day you dressed up in the afternoon in a slightly less slimy but decidedly more attractive gown?"

"A doctor friend of mine was treating a nervous prostration patient who was wearing mourning. She was a pale thin woman, and looked thoroughly unattractive and dowdy in her black gowns."

"If I could only get that woman to leave off black and buy herself half a dozen pretty frocks, and fix herself up to look attractive, I'd have her half cured," he said.

To be as attractive a part of the landscape as she can, is certainly part of woman's duty to those about her. And considering the difference it makes in her feelings, I should say it was also a part of her duty to herself.

Tom Winsor Tells of Broken Promises, and other Matters.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Sir,—With your permission to use your valuable paper for this occasion, I shall endeavour to put before the public the unmanly treatment I received from the hands of two of our representatives. When it became an act that a steamer would run on the Labrador, I asked Capt. W. C. Winsor if a mailman had been appointed, letting the answer in the negative and the promise of his support. I applied for the situation, I also wrote the Hon. Sidney Blandford concerning it, and having occasion to go to St. John's shortly afterwards, I interviewed him on the matter. Our conversation ran thus: "Is the mailman appointed for the steamer running on the lower part of Labrador?" He answered, "Yes, Tom Winsor is the man for that." "Well," I replied, "I suppose I am the man." He said, "Oh! are you Tom Winsor? You have changed since I saw you." That was one month previous. A few more common-place words being exchanged, I left his office. After returning to Wesleyville and the appointment being withheld, I feared deception and said to Capt. Will,—"I have an inclination to go to work, I haven't much faith in those promises." He said, "Oh! don't do that, it will be all right." He went to St. John's in due time for the ship, and on his arrival at Wesleyville he informed me a mailman was on board, but only for one trip, and told me to wire Blandford for my appointment, and consequently I would be taken on for the next trip. I did so and received the answer: "Bartlett has it. Didn't Capt. Winsor tell you?" Now sir, do you envy us our members? I think not. They are unworthy of the name of man. Manliness is something foreign to them.

If Mr. Blandford was working for someone else, and knew Mr. Bartlett was the man for it, then why didn't he say so? I could then have turned in some other direction. Now through his, or I should say, their falsehood, I have lost two months work. I detest this twisting and screwing the truth, or in other words this twisting up of falsehood to make it appear like truth. Undoubtedly Mr. Blandford knew me. Only that as the way he had in sneaking around the corner, unable to face the truth. He had to work out of it in what he thought a nice way. Nice was it? I know another name for it, I suppose they think because they were carried about in chairs after their election, they can afford to be mean to some of their constituents. But let me take the scales from their eyes. It was not so much in honour of the men, it was honour of party which led up to this action. I will say further, that anything seeking election in Bonaville Bay as a Tory would have been elected. A change they wanted and a change they have. But the change is just the opposite to what they expected. This Bay has been stepped in what is termed Toryism for the past twenty years. At the beginning of those twenty years the majority were illiterate. Allow me to inform those Hon. Members, the illiterate are in the majority now, and even the illiterate of to-day can see further in the future than you think, and some of them have a presentment of what is going to take place at the end of this political term. But we must give them time. They will do good though they do waste a few dollars. They sent a fine horse (Stallion) to Wesleyville and a man to look after it, so that now as the men in and around Wesleyville have their mares grazing at Cape Freels.

One thing to be regretted is, that owing to school examinations and the lobster factories our local photographers have not time to get a snapshot of this fine beast, while it is on exhibition trotting from Wesleyville to Brookfield. We have a variety of hen's eggs—good ones—too—so that our wives and mothers can hatch a better quality than our local hens; I don't think they can improve on our hens unless they could give us one to lay two eggs a day. Oh! I had nearly forgotten to say that like our friends at Kelligreaves, we, too, are blessed with seed potatoes, and now that our potatoes are through the ground here ready to be retrenched, what a waste of money? Do they think we are blind or asleep. Not a bit of it. We are more awake than ever, and if they are not more awake in the future than they have been in the past, I predict their name will be "Walker." I could write volumes of their doings if I cared to do so, not volumes of abuse or deceit but truth, mark you. I hope at the expiration of this political term our members will be manly, truthful men of whom the residents of any Bay may be proud.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for space,
I remain yours truly,
TOM WINSOR.

Boy Had Fits For 6 Years

Druggist advised DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD—Cure complete and lasting.

Mrs. J. D. Palmer, 38 Park St., Amsterdam, N. Y., writes: "When six years of age my boy began to have fits. They came on in the night. He would make strange noises, stiffen out, froth at mouth, face would twitch and sometimes turned purple. After the fit he could not talk. The family physician said all he could do was to keep them down some what. The second physician pronounced trouble Jeffersonian epilepsy, but could not cure him. He suffered for six years and before beginning the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food had three fits about five days. Our druggist recommended Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. He has taken seven boxes and has had the symptom of a fit since. His color has greatly improved, he is no nervous and irritable like he used to be and we consider his cure complete."

Such results are only obtained by the use of the genuine Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food—not from imitations or substitutes. 50 cents a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Eyesores!

Editor Evening Telegram:
Dear Sir,—I think that every unbiased person will admit this little city of our contains very many obnoxious and unsightly objects which might be removed altogether, or at least improved upon, to a very great extent. Take, for instance, the many vacant parcels of land we see here and there throughout the town which I look upon as public eyesores, and used merely as repositories for all of rubbish. Now, if these various lots were enclosed by a decent board fence, say about six or seven feet high, the objectionable articles promiscuously strewn thereon would be almost hidden from sight and the appearance of the localities considerably enhanced.

Now, sir, there is one particular eyesore I wish to call public attention to, and that is the portion of land immediately east of the Custom House and at present used by Mayor Ellis as a receptacle for building material, etc. This place, which is almost the very first to catch the eye of strangers landing here from any one of the foreign steamship lines, is partially surrounded by a dilapidated fence, and as if to make it more despicable and a greater nuisance, a stone crusher has lately been placed on this same piece of ground, and as horses and carts are continually engaged hauling stone, sand, &c., to and from this stock-yard, over the sidewalk on Water and Duckworth Street, pedestrians are put to a great deal of inconvenience by being obliged to wait until the obstacles which bar their passage have moved off, or otherwise to step into the gutter to avoid them, which is not a pleasant proceeding.

The Manifesto published by Mayor Ellis previous to the Municipal Election foreshadowed great things, such as improving the appearance of the city, perfecting our sanitary system, &c.

Well, if the erection and operating of a stone-crusher on Water Street is to be looked upon as "a thing of beauty" I certainly cannot congratulate Mayor Ellis on his initiatory move to improve the appearance of the city. Come, then, Mr. Ellis, it is up to you to set the example and remove this eyesore by having the place cleaned up and placed in order, then you can say to others whose land requires to be fixed up, "so thou and do likewise," and if at the end of your term of office you are asked what good works have you performed and how have you added to the beauty of the city you will, I trust, be in a position to say with pride and in all sincerity, "SI monumentum quaeris circumspice."
Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

At Last an English Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair.

McMURDO & CO. HAVE IMPORTED IT.

In England the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing hats, which is due entirely to this new discovery.

It has been proven that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proven every day.

The Americans are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale.

This preparation is called SALVIA, and is being sold with a guarantee to cure Dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, SALVIA makes a most pleasant hair dressing. McMURDO & Co., your druggist, is the first to import this preparation into St. John's, and a large, generous bottle can be purchased for 50c.

For sale by dealers everywhere.

300,000 Spectators.

When the great procession of the Holy Sacrament passes up the streets of Montreal, on the way to Fletcher's Field, it is estimated that at least 300,000 people will line the route. Of this number 200,000 will be visitors, and they will come from every portion of the continent. On Labor Day the rush will begin, and on the day of the procession there will be excursions from every point on the countryside.

Cardinal Vannutelli will arrive on the 4th of September. Everything possible has been done for the comfort of the papal legate; during his trip on the "Empress of Ireland" twelve altars will be erected, His Eminence's arms will be emblazoned on the door of the grand salon and the papal as well as the British flag will fly from the ship's mast.

The formal opening of the Congress will take place on Thursday evening, 8th of September. The congregations which will assemble will probably be the largest the church of Notre Dame has ever known. At this service the credentials will be presented to "Our venerable brother Bruchese, proclaiming Vincenzo Cardinal Vannutelli, Papal Legate, and Envoy Extraordinary to the 21st International Eucharistic Congress."

NEW MARKETS FOR OUR FISH.

The Newfoundlanders are Islanders and Islanders are insular. They stand on the old ways and hate newfangled notions. I have been for years a voice crying in the wilderness about our coal, fresh fish and Fulton market. I am of old Devonian stock and the West Country spirit of dogged obstinacy is in me. There are two contingencies before us just now that vitally affect our interests as a fish country—Reciprocity with the States and the opening up of the great Canadian North-West by the new Hudson Bay route. I am aware that a large number of people look upon this new route as utterly impracticable, but if they have read Laurier's speeches they can see that the railway to Hudson Bay is begun and that the route will be open. The Canadian Premier has unreservedly promised this to the people of the North-West. Now it is clear that if the grain and cattle can be sent by this route, our fish and other products can come in, and our vessels would have return cargoes of grain. I am well acquainted with the Canadian North-West, and I can speak from personal experience that there is a large market there for our fish. In our days the most attractive package helps to sell its contents. For this new market our fish should be put up in neat, handy packages, and of course we should have our agents to handle and distribute our products.

Hudson Bay route as a wild visionary impracticable scheme, just in the same way the Port aux Basques-Sydney route was deemed impossible until R. G. Reid took it up and has put it through without one failure for thirteen years.

That Reciprocity is a live question and will soon be carried out, we can see very clearly. The great majority in Canada are all for full trade in raw materials. The North-West insists upon it. Of course, the Canadian manufacturers are against it, but their opposition will be overcome. Gloucester even advocates it now. They want new fishing grounds; their own is exhausted, and this year their business is a great failure. They recognize that the American millions will no longer eat dear fish to support their crews of foreigerns. The Americans are thoroughly well aware that the decision of the Hague Tribunal will be given against them, and that in order to do any profitable business in Newfoundland there must be new arrangements, in short, a Reciprocity Treaty. For this new market we must prepare. With the duty removed and the latest methods for transporting fresh fish there is a large market for us in the States, and especially for our winter fish. As Mr. T. R. Job has noted, if we could send off all this winter fish fresh it would be a great relief to the bulk markets, as just now when prices are good in Portugal, &c., this winter fish comes in and glutts the market.

I am quite aware that a number of people in this country look upon the

A Church of the Murphys.

A Catholic church has been erected at Murphy's Corner, four miles below Rigelsville, Pa., for the use of one family, that of Thomas J. Murphy, and a priest has been assigned to say Mass in the church every second Sunday in each month. As it is on top of one of the highest hills in the Delaware Valley, there is but little likelihood of any but members of the Murphy family attending services.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy are the parents of eighteen children and the grand parents of thirty-two, all of whom live on the Murphy farm, which consists of five hundred acres of mountainous land. Heretofore the family had to walk fifteen miles to attend Mass each Sunday, and as this was found extremely difficult, the family decided to bear the expense of the erection of a church if the bishop of the diocese would permit a priest to say Mass in the church once a month, the Murphys being willing to walk the fifteen miles to church on the other Sundays.

STOMACH LIVER LUNGS

Each of the chief organs of the body is a link in the Chain of Life. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link, the body no stronger than its weakest organ. If there is weakness of stomach, liver or lungs, there is a weak link in the chain of life which may snap at any time. Often this so-called "weakness" is caused by lack of nutrition, the result of weakness or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. Diseases and weaknesses of the stomach and its allied organs are cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the weak or diseased stomach is cured, diseases of other organs which seem remote from the stomach but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, are cured also.

The strong man has a strong stomach. Take the above recommended "Discovery" and you may have a strong stomach and a strong body.
