Municipal Council.WEEKLY MEETING.

The regular weekly meeting of the Municipal Council took place yesterday afternoon, Mayor Cook presided. The full board was present. The minutes of the previous meeting being read, the following business was transacted:

Deputy Minister of Public Works asked for repayment of the sum of $50,000 advanced the Council in the early part of last year in connection with relief.

Consideration will be given the matter at the earliest opportunity.

Messrs. Budden, Connolly and other owners of buildings on LeMarchant Road West, wrote asking what action the Council intended taking in connection with their property. The property in question is on the new street line and has been the subject of consideration by late councils. The locality referred to would be greatly improved by the removal of these houses and the present Board considers the removal necessary, but before making any definite decision on the matter, ground landlords will be communicated with.

Messrs. Monroe, Hayward and other residents of Forest Road called attention to a shed at the rear of their property that is at present being used as a garage and owing to there being no chimney in the same it constitutes a fire hazard to the entire neighbourhood.

It was ordered that the owner of the shed be communicated with in the matter with a view to having same removed.

The United Tobacco Products Co., Ltd., asked that water service be extended to their building, Park Lane, off Water Street West, The request was granted.

Messrs. Silverlock and Cullen applied for permission to install a gasoline tank on the South side of Water Street. The matter was referred to the Inspector General.

With regard to the resolutions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and also those of the Nfld. Industrial Association which were forwarded to the Council, asking that rules and regulations be passed to protect city workmen who are taxpayers, the Solicitor reported the Council had not the right to dictate to any employer of labour as to the men he should employ.

Joseph Judge and J. F. Ennis offered to sell horses to the Council. Application ordered filed.

A communication was read from W. A. Brown in reference to appraisal on his property, Merrymeeting Road. The matter was decided by the Court of Revision and the Council could not now interfere.

Plan submitted by T. Hillier to erect bungalow Circular Road was passed subject to the Engineer's approval, while application of P. Neville to erect dwelling on Cockpit Road was refused as water and sewerage are not available in the locality. The request of P. Grouchy to build on Pine Street was also refused for the same reason.

Inspector Rooney reported that the meter at the Newfoundland Atlantic Fisheries had been changed without his knowledge and that considerable waste was going on owing to defective fittings. The Secretary of the Company wrote in reference to the above matter stating that during last winter one of the valves in the smoke house froze and burst and the Chief Engineer had therefore to break open the door of the meter house and shut off the water, to repair same later and he stated the meter was replaced with a new one. He also stated trouble in this connection would be avoided if the Council would seal a by-pass valve in the meter house so that the Company could shut off the water when required. This request for a by-pass the Council will not agree to, owing to irregularities which have occurred in the past through similar connections. The request of the Company for a boiler feed line as is allowed other manufacturing concerns was granted.

The Majestic Theatre Co. informed the Council that their Theatre during the Lenten Season was being run in the interests of St. Vincent de Paul and Dorcas Societies, and under the Municipal Act taxes on proceeds of entertainments of all kinds given to charity are not levied.

The Sanitary Supervisor was instructed to have Water Street cleaned up immediately and also to make the necessary preparations with the view of a general cleaning up of the city at an early date.

Health officer Brehm reported 2 new cases of diphtheria. There are at present in Hospital 22 patients with this disease.

Application of C. H. Hefferton to repair dwelling on Gower Street was granted.

Medical Health Officer acknowledged cheque for $1,000 amount voted by the Council towards the Child Welfare Service for 1922.

A lengthy report was read from the City Engineer on the cleaning up of the town, in which he offered suggestions for the speedy completion of the work. The Engineer also reported that contractor Osmond had completed his contract of the piling at Long Bridge.

The attention of the Board was drawn to the fact that the old Fire Hall on the Southside which the Department of Public Works promised to remove last year is still a menace to vehicular traffic in this locality.

After the disposal of a few minor matters and the passing of accounts submitted, the meeting adjourned.

Profits vs. Losses of Nationalism Debated.

WHICH HAS OUTWEIGHED THE OTHER IN CONTRIBUTING TO WORLD PROGRESS?

What is probably a world-wide dispute with nationalism as we have come to recognize it was voiced at last night's debate at M.C.L.I. Hope for another order, to replace the present, was entertained. The resolution reads: "That the profits of nationalism to world progress outweigh the losses." The subject was debated as from a common ground—both sides deprecated nationalism and submitted or even insisted on its defects and evils. Both sides held out hope for something else that would come upon the world and end the evils which were the fruit of nationalism—in other words, internationalism, the brotherhood of man. Both sides admitted profits to have accrued from nationalism. Both sides admitted losses to have resulted from nationalism. The only point at which they divided was: which outweighed the other?

SPEAKERS.

The affirmative side (that which supported the "profits") was led by Rev. R. E. Fairbairn and William White; and the negative by Rev. Dr. L. Curtis and I. C. Morris. In addition to the set speakers the following took part in the debate: R. Cramm, Jos. Moore, R. F. Horwood, C. F. Garland, Fred. Moore, George Peters, S. P. Whiteway, William Dwyer, E. Bursley and J. R. Smallwood. Great light was thrown on the subject by the different speakers. The remarkable feature about the debate was the unanimity of the Institute in recognizing the evils of nationalism and in believing that internationalism would have to give way to internationalism, whether now or sometime in the future.

AFFIRMATIVE CASE.

Nationalism meant a specific grouping of men; certain inclusions of men and territory, with its consequent exclusions, explained the affirmative. Nationalism meant that tendency to sectional cohesion and loyalty. It was presumed that the negative would agree to the definition. Now, in the first place the affirmative did not have to prove that nationalism had no evils. Nationalism did have evils, and there had been many losses as a result of it. Neither did the affirmative have to deal with futurity. Anything might come in the future. Neither did the affirmative have to deal with ideals or idealism in this matter. We all had our ideals, our hope that the present order of nationalism would give way to something better. Many of us believed that nationalism had almost reached the point where its usefulness was outweighed by its defects. But the whole point to be debated to-night was the past—had the profits, in the past, outweighed the losses of nationalism?

The main contention of the affirmative was that civilization and culture had been the product of nationalism. Nationalism had made civilization possible, and without nationalism civilization would have been quite impossible. Society had to be organized in small groups in the early days, because men were incapable of bigger organization. Nationalism itself had been preceded by tribalism. Nationalism did not come until men were ready for it. The tribe had been preceded by the phatrie. The phatrie had been preceded by the gen. Each successive organization had typified an improvement in civilization and culture. As the race got older and more experienced it was capable of more elaborate organization and grouping. Nationalism was the outcome of many ages of existence, and nationalism itself would be supplanted by internationalism. The fact that the race moved onward and upward, thru each successive stage, was proof enough that nationalism's profits to world progress outweighed its losses. All that we are and have—our civilization and art and science and education and commerce and culture—are the direct outcome of our nationalism, defective as that nationalism was. The losses were many and great, but the profits were more and greater.

NEGATIVE CASE.

The negative side based its claim that the losses had outweighed the profits on the fact that all the wars that had ever taken place, with perhaps here and there an exception, were the product of nationalism. From the earliest times war and bloodshed had been the attendant evil of nationalism. From the great wars of the Babylonian times, down to the wars of the Medo-Persians, the Greeks, the Romans, and the wars between Asia and Europe, the Napoleonic wars, the modern wars, the Great War, nationalism had been the fruitful mother of war and slaughter. The Great War alone had destroyed ten million men, and maimed and broken ten million more. Untold wealth had been demolished, and a great debt had been tied round the neck of the nations; so that they still staggered under the weight of it. World progress was being hampered and impeded by nationalism. The misery and murder and horror and suffering and woe that had accompanied nationalism right down the line cried out against the terrible order of things which was being debated to-night. Nationalism made impossible the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God. Fellowship was impossible with nationalism. The negative looked forward, with Tennyson, to the day when "the war drums throbbed no longer, the battle-flags were furled, in the parliament of man, the federation of the world." Nationalism was a great high barrier keeping apart the multitude of men who should be enjoying the warm bonds of fellowship. The affirmative side won with a good majority.

Gunning Accident.MAN HAD HAND SHATTERED.

A man named Martin Torrant, resident of Lawn, was landed from S.S. Malakoff yesterday and taken to his home, which was badly shattered in a gun accident. Several days ago Torrant's younger brother was cleaning his gun, which he had been using the day previous. He was in his bedroom at the time, and the victim having occasion to go in the room, just as the gun went off, received the full force of the charge. Everything possible was done for the injured man, and when he arrived here yesterday he was doing as well as could be expected.

Wins BilliardTournament.

Mr. E. Fox, by defeating Mr. W. C. Pearce in the final last night, won the Masonic handicap billiard tournament, which has been going on for the past two months. Mr. Fox had to make 400 to his opponent's 375. He won by 84 points. The prize, a handsome smoker's cabinet, was presented by Mr. E. G. Gittleston.

S. S. Portia on Dock.REPAIRS NEARING COMPLETION.

Repairs to the S.S. Portia are now nearing completion, and the ship will come off dock on Monday. During the past month the ship has undergone extensive repairs to the bottom plating and frames. Several new plates and a new section of the keel were put in and the steamer is now in excellent condition for her summer schedule.
