FIELD COMFORTS FOR CALGARY MEN TO BE ASKED FOR

The next tag day to be held will be on Saturday and in aid of the Canadian War Contingent association which through its Calgary branch, supplies Calgary and Alberta men with field comforts. The approach of the winter season and its consequent hardships on the men in the trenches makes the necessity for warm woolen things greater than ever. Every letter from men at the front tells of the comfort of finding warm, dry socks awaiting them from time to time, and the number of men from Calgary and the district alone can use all with which the assoclation can supply them. Mrs. Harold Ribey will be in charge of the day, and both money and workers are asked for

WEALTH CONSCRIPTION PRACTICALLY BEING ENFORCED NOW

Statement of Corporation's Wealth Not Always to Be Credited

SAYS R. B. BENNETT

Economy Must Be Aim of Everyone in Dominion If War Is to Be Won

Economy should be the nation's watch word now if mever before, for it is the word which means the winning of the war, according to Mr. R. B. Bennett, M.F. Mr. Bennett gave a very interesting ad dress to the St. Mark's guild of South Calgary yesterday, in which he im-pressed on his audience the necessity of individual effort and the employment of economy in every expenditure of resources. clined to be hypercritical and a bit cenhe was certain, were not weary of well-doing. The war must be brought to the best conclusion ,and he thought the omen as much as anyone realized this were unpleasant or contrary to the wish individual, the and to those whom fell the duty of creating an atmosphere and forming public minion which each and all would carry

In this regard the question of economy came up as relating particularly to the sphere of the audience. The spending of country was in the hands of the women. Every dollar saved and kept in the country went towards the winning of the war. Men and women should see that every dollar spent for tuxuries which were im-ported from every other country meant so much less for the great cause at home. The British government was having a task difficult enough to finance its own problems without aiding Canada, a nation wealthy enough to conduct successfully its own affairs. "Instead of buying moto cars and paying money for gasoline imported from the United States we should be patriotic enough to do our journeying on the street railway and help to keep up the public utilities at home," said the speaker, who went on to point out that unless people pald their taxes instead of buying luxuries the city would go into bankruptcy. The buying of war bonds was something to be advocated to every person who had a dollar which could be saved from the attractions of the day.

Stinginess Not Crime "We may be called mean and stingy hen we stint ourselves on clothes and other luxuries, for all things above and over the necessities of life are luxuries, but we must not mind being called mean or stingy whn we know that our actions are going to better conditions and help the successful termination of the war. The tales of money-acquiring and profit-making which went the rounds about making which went the rounds making which went the rounds many big corporations should not be bediscussed. Mr. Bennett said he had seen the books of different concerns, one case in point was of a milling company, and e found the profits here after much necessary expenditure on operating of 15 cents per barrel. Even on the total output of the mill the government took its hare. As for the remainder, against it might be credited the large contributions elieved many statements of the wealth of corporations were not to be accepted wholly. He named the C.P.R. company wholly. He named the C.P.R. company as one often criticized and pointed out the majority of shareholders in this company belong to Great Britain, the United States and Germany. To the latter no dividends had been paid since the outbreak of the war, while to the British and Americans Canadian ideas might he had as to their Canadian ideas might he had as to their methods of spending their money. Much of the profits made by corporations had gone to the government and been utilized in paying for munitions, etc., for the country. As for the accumulated savings of others, Mr. Bennett did not think the stage had been reached yet where those could be touched. The soldiers wives and families and the returning colding and the returning coldinary coldinary co amilies and the returning soldiers must be cared, for and cared for generously, but must also be governed by circum-stances. There was a limit to every na-tion's abilities, but the nation had the right to say through its representatives whether separation allowances, pay, etc., should be increased and by how much.

War-time Elections Act The War-time Elections act was also brought up for discussion by a lady present, who asked if the speaker considered the discrimination shown in that act equable and fair. The War-times Election act, a war measure only, was presented in the midst of the great war, and, like all other franchise acts, a dividing line had to be drawn somewhere. Mr. Ben-nett quoted from Sir Thomas Moore, Carlyle and others, that a universal franchise given in the British Empire at any time would have hindered rather than aided the progress of otvilization. There could scarcely be a franchise act which would not work hardship somewhere. Such extensions had to be made on some arbitrary shoulder-blade was due to torpidity of basis and one difficulty confronting universal franchise would be the enfranchise-mant of aller works.

The monthly meeting of the Mothers' Club of Connaught school will be held tomorrow instead of Friday, owing to the holding of the school sports.

No Advance in 3 Years

With war-time prices so terribly high for nearly every article of food, it must be a particular satisfaction to those who love good coffee to know that there has been no advance in the price of Red Rose Coffee for three yearsand the great increase in the sale of Red Rose Coffee this year shows that the price is appreciated.

People everywhere seem to be using much more coffee than they did before.

Red Rose Tea is economical on account of its superior quality-but Red Rose Coffee is economical both on account of its quality and price, a combination hard to maintain in war-time.
