SECOND DAY.

By noon on Thursday, the entries for the outside exhibit was completed, and at one o'clock the judges began their work. The rain on the night previous had allayed the dust without interfering with travel, and early in the morning exhibitors and others began to wend their way towards the exhibition grounds. Listowel Fall Shows have always, when the weather was favorable, been largely attended, but the exhibition yesterday was more largely attended than at any previous time. The show of horses, as far as the number of entries was concerned, was the best the society has held, especially in the General Purpose class.

The Heavy Draught, though showing a yearly improvement in quality and number, is still behind the animals shown in southern parts of the country.
There were several excellent carriage teams, as well as for agricultural purposes, shown, and a few that it would be difficult to beat at any exhibition.
The younger portion of the stock give evidence that attention to breeding is not being neglected, and that in a few years there will be a large number of very superior animals brought out for exhibition. The show of cattle was not at all up to the mark as regards number, though several well-bred herds were on the ground, especially in the Short horn class. Doynows were for the first time represented, and Grades of a superior quality formed the largest part of this department.

There was a good show of sheep, and in this department the competition was very close. There were only a few pigs shown, but these were of the most improved breeds. There was a very fair display of poultry, all of the best varieties being fully represented. There was lively competition in Light Brahmas, Hamburgs and Games, and two or three new varieties were placed on exhibition. The show of implements was smaller than usual, but several of the leading firms in the Province were well represented. There were several well constructed and beautifully finished carriages, buggies and wagons shown, and the competition was in several cases very close.
The town band enlivened the proceedings during the afternoon. The proceeds of the exhibition amounted to $619.06. The following is the Steadily, but not slowly, Kidney-Wort

This celebrated remedy can now be obtained in the usual dry vegetable form, or in liquid form. It is put up in the latter way for the especial convenience of those who cannot readily prepare it. It will be found very ciency in either form. Read advertise-

"COURTESY."

To the Editor of the BANNER.
DEAR SIR,—I saw in a recent issue of your paper a letter from a "Listowel Bachelor," purporting to be a criticism on the behavior of ladies under certain circumstances, upon which very restricted ground your correspondent attempts to prove the fact that the weaker sex (so-called) have less innate courtesy than gentlemen.
Truly his opinions are susceptible of contradiction. In "Bachelor's" evidently very limited experience, he cites two cases which appear to have occurred within his own experience. Those cases may be true. I have myself observed similar behavior on the part of those who do not conjoin to say the least—the usual conventionalities of life, but an isolated case or two does not warrant his comprehensive accusation.
"Bachelor" is perfectly well known in Listowel as the writer of the letter in question, as is also the fact that although he has been to one of the neighboring cities lately, he is the last man who is competent to form an opinion on this very delicate question. I think, sir, that the other side of the picture might with more truth be shown. No one but a lady, for instance, knows the pain and discomfort which is experienced by her in passing any of our hotels where men, who, by their dress, manner, and education, ought to be, and doubtless think they are, gentlemen, will sit the greater part of the day staring at and criticizing every one who passes, frequently making personal remarks, often overheard by any unfortunate female whom business or pleasure may cause to pass. How they are for the greater part smoking pipes, and occasionally indulging in another filthy habit, which makes one think that a miniature rain storm had descended for the benefit of that particular locality. Here their ped-estrianism is generally elevated above their heads, etc., etc. What lady has not experienced the obtrusive stare of men, when she has occasion to become the guest of any of our leading hotels? In fact these instances can be multiplied to any extent, but I do not wish to encroach upon your space. I will only add that the occasional disregard of street amenities can establish no criterion of the great question of innate courtesy, or if it is to do so, the comparison of the behavior of the sexes is decidedly in favor of the ladies. If "Bachelor" wishes to air himself in the newspapers, he had better choose a subject which he understands, and not write such puerile effusions as he has brought forth in his letter.

Yours truly,
ONE OF THE ATTACKED.

PART OF THE TOWN

ic patronage,

yours respectfully,

AM DAVIDSON

can't go out alone, because she can't be protected. She can't go anywhere when it rains, because her hair won't stay pinned, and she will get all on her petticoats, and things can't be a Free Mason, because she would tell her secrets and everybody would know about that goat and her griddle. She can't smoke, because it wouldn't be feminine. She can't go courting, because it is a womanly. But she must get married before 30, or everybody will feel wronged. People will sigh over her and wonder why it is that the men 'don't seem to take,' and all the old maids and widows will smile significantly—and keep quiet.

It is everybody's business who a woman marries. The whole neighborhood put their heads together and talk over the pros and cons and decide whether she is good enough for him.
And they criticize the shape of her nose and the way she does up her hair, and relate how lazy her grandmother was and how her Aunt Sally sold beans and butter milk.

A woman must wear No. 2 boots on No. 3 feet, and she must manage to dress well on seventy-five cents a week; she mustn't be vain, and she must be kind to the poor, and go regularly to the sewing society meetings, and be ready to dress dolls, make aprons and tidies for church fairs.

She must always have the masculine buttons in the family sewed on so that they never will come off while in use.
And she must keep the family history so that everybody would mistrust that there were toes inside of the stockings when they are on.

She must hold herself in continual readiness to find everything her husband has lost—and a man never knows where anything is. He will put his boots away on the parlor sofa, and when he has hunted half an hour he will appear to his wife with a countenance like that of an avenging angel and demand to know, "What she has done with his boots?"

She must shut all the doors after herself and master, and likewise the bureau drawers, for a married man never knows to shut a drawer. It would be as unnatural for a hen to go in swimming for recreation.

Ah, there are good many tricks in the trade of which is called "Lying to get her!"

A woman is expected to take care of the baby even after the first infancy wonder was multiplied into a round dozen. And if he doubles up with the colic or the trials of cutting teeth, necessary evils of the mumps and measles, and scarlet fever and rash, and throat distemper, and short sleeves and bare legs, and pins sticking into him, and too much candy and a bad napper, why, her husband tells her "the dose which she'd try to quiet her baby." A trial will convince you of its trifling cost, and every one suffering with pain can have cheap and positive relief of its claims.
