The controversial part of the bill lies in clauses 1 and 2, in which it is provided that in towns of over 4,000 inhabitants two councilors shall be elected in each ward, and two councilors by the electors at large. In towns of 4,000 and under the total number will be six, all to be elected by the people at large. Washington, D. C., March 7.—The flaunesses of religion are set forth by ar. Taimage in this sermon under he figure of a banquet, and all the world is invited to be guests. The text is, Luke, xv., 23: "bring hither the tatted calf and kill it."

In all ages of the world it has been customary to celebrate joyful, events by festivity. The signing of treaties, the proclamation of peace, the inauguration of presidents, the coronation of kings, the Christmas, the marriage. However much on other days of une year our table may have stinted supply on Thanksgiving Day there must be something bounteous. And all the comfortable homes of Christendom have at some time celebrated joyful events by banquet and festivity. Something has happened on the old homestead greater than anything that cailed attention to a paragraph which has ever happened before. A favorite appeared in a recent issue of The Mail become a vagabond and outlaw for and Empire indorsed an item taken ever has got tired of sight-seeing, and between Sharkey and Maher, the fight Mr. Hardy had a father, a son, a to come off the latter part of May.

Mr. Hardy's father, who is alleged to be an official in the London Asylum, has been dead for ten years. Mr. Hardy, in stating that he had a cousin in the Crown Lands Department, Mr. Ryerson Hardy, very neatly turned the attention of the House on the member for East Toronto, by saying that he really could not say whether the Ryerson interest or the Hardy interest had been most or the Hardy interest had been most to think that it was the former. There was hearty appliause when Mr. Hardy concluded ridding this remarkable the table and says grace, and thanks dod thanks of the table and says grace, and thanks of the alleged to be an official in the London Asylum, has been dead for ten London Hardy, in tenting that he dead not any meat in our house for one year, and all last winter, although it was a severe winter, our children wore their summer clothes." And these men of God I find in different parts of the last remittance; until it came we had not any meat in our house for one year.

One brother stands pouting at the back door and says: "This is a great and all last winter, although it was a severe winter; our children wore their summer clothes." And these men of God I find in different parts of the land struggling against annoyance, and exasperations innumerable; some of them week after week entertaining agents who have maps or lightning to all last winter. There we had not any m brow at the remembrance of the trouble he had seen. All ready now. Let the covers lift. Music, He was dead and he is alive again! He was lost and he is found! By such bold imagery does the Bible set forth the merry-making when a soul comes. merry-making when a soul comes First of all there is the new convert's joy. It is no tame thing to become a Christian. The most tremendous moment in a man's life is when he surrenders himself to God. The grandest time on the father's homestead is when the boy comes back. Oh, it is no tame thing to become a Christian It is no tame thing to become a christian It is no tame the company to the company tian. It is a merry-making. It is the killing of the fatted calf. It is a jubi-lee. You know the Bible never compares it to a funeral, but always comthat minorities might, have an opportunity of securing a representative in the councils.

I wish I could today take all the Bible expressions about pardon, and peace, and life, and comort, and hope, and heaven, and twist them into one garland, and put it on the brow of the humblest child of God in this assemblage, and ery: in this assemblage, and ery: "Wear ing she at once dons a nurse's unit, wear it now, wear it forever; son form and proceeds to work. of God, daughter of the Lord God Almighty." Oh, the joy of the new convert! Oh, the gladness of the Christian service. You have seen sometimes a man in a religious as sembly get up and give his experience. He arose in the presence of two churches, the church on earth and the church in heaven, and he said: "Now, this is my experience: sorsaid he could only say that wherever rowful, yet always rejoicing; poor, yet making many rich; having nothing, yet possessing all things." If Dr. J. E. Rankin cites the following the people in this house knew the joys of the Christian religion they would all pass over into the kingdom of God the characteristic from Longfellow's journal: "As I was standing at my front door this morning," says the poet, "a lady in black the next moment. God has been watching and waiting for some of you, my brothers, ten years, twenty years, thirty years, forty years, perhaps fifty years, waiting, waiting, watching, watching, and if now the prodigal should come home, what a scene of gladness and festivity, and how the great Father's heart would rejoice at your coming home! You will come, some of you, will you not? You will, you will. I notice, also, that when a prodigal comes home there is the joy of the ministers of religion. Oh, it is a grand thing to preach this Gospel. I know there has been a great deal said about the trials and the hardships of the Christian ministry. I wish somebody would write a good, rousing book about the joys of the Christian ministry. Since I entered the profession I have seen more of the goodness of God than I will be able to celebrate in all eternity. I know some boast about their equilibrium, and they do not rise into enthusiasm, and they do not break down with emotion; but I confess to you plainly that when I see a man coming to God, and giving up his sin, I feel in body, mind and soul a transport. When in one Communion service such throngs of young and old stood up and in the presence of hea-ven and earth and hell attested their allegiance to Jesus Christ, I felt a joy tle describes when he says: "Whether in the body I cannot tell, or out of the body I cannot tell; God knoweth."
