AUTOMOBILE HEADLIGHT AS TROUBLE SIGNAL.

During some recent army and militia manoeuvres, in which motorcycle and automobile scouts took part, a new method was suggested as a means of signaling to other scouts, should a car run out of gasoline or break down. The idea is to swing one of the headlights upward on its mounting until the beam of light rises vertically into the air. The same scheme can be followed out with ordinary pleasure cars that meet with trouble on the road, if the purpose of the vertical beam becomes generally known to motorists.

NEW YEAR'S DAY

We smile at the farce of today's resolutions—yet we all make some. And it is well that we do, for even if the new year's resolutions come to grief before many days, the fact that we will make it helps a good deal. I shall probably rule some more pages in my account book, and shall promise myself that I shall faithfully record the coming and going of all wealth, the wearing and replacing of all goods, the doing and the undoing of all household tasks—according to the most approved methods outlined in newspapers and magazines. And just as probably by the first of February I shall have neglected to enter half that I should have entered, and shall in discouragement put my book away until next January. And, no doubt, your resolutions and the same way. As if January first were any different from July thirtieth! It is just as good a time as any other time that attracts us, and the eternal humanness of us that appreciates something new.

Supposing we all make a resolution. And also resolve to keep it. I can if you are all helping. It is to treat each day as a new page, a new chance to make good, an opportunity to correct the faults of yesterday. To be a little more patient, a little less faultfinding, a little more loving, a little less hasty, a little quicker to praise, a little slower to blame—each day. A mother cannot plan a year ahead, just to see clearly to the end of each day sometimes seems too far. But if we are all helping each other perhaps it will be easier—so here's hoping that this day and all the days of the new year may bring to you and all those who are dear to you the sunshine of happiness.

"May every morning seem to say there's something happy in the way, and God sends love to you."

ENTERTAINED COUNTESS OF ABERDEEN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—(Can. Press.)—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Collier gave a small dinner this evening at their residence, in honor of the Countess of Aberdeen, wife of the lord-lieutenant of Ireland, and Miss Violet Asquith, daughter of the British prime minister.

Mr. Collier is interested in the campaign against tuberculosis in Ireland through the Women's Health Association, and has invited to meet Lady Aberdeen a few friends who have been following with interest her remarkable work. Among those present were the Countess of Aberdeen, Miss Violet Asquith, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phelps, Col. Theo. Roosevelt, Justine Johnston, Capt. Charles Leary, Mr. and Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, John D. Crimmins and Judge and Mrs. Martin Keogh.

Widely familiar as the Chateau Laurier has become already in its short career, the recent publication issued by the Grand Trunk, dealing with its salient features, has served to win for it a host of new friends. One of these is a prominent business man from New England, whose experience of hotel conditions has been both wide and varied, who has written to one of the company's representatives as follows:

"I have just received the Chateau Laurier booklet which you kindly sent to us as promised, and I am very glad indeed to hand it along to some friends of mine who are thinking of a trip to Canada. My wife and I went to Ottawa for an other season at all but to stay a few days at the new hotel about which we had heard so much, and it may interest you to know that we were delighted with the house, the efficiency of its service and the cordiality of its management. The hotel is indeed a place where the tourist will quickly become a Mecca for tourists who are looking for something 'a bit different.'"

Mother: Yes, sir. You are the only thing that we were delighted with the house, the efficiency of its service and the cordiality of its management. The hotel is indeed a place where the tourist will quickly become a Mecca for tourists who are looking for something 'a bit different.'"

MORE LETTERS ON MAN AND SUPERMAN

THE WORLD'S CONTEST GROWS

Admirers of England's Greatest Dramatist Sending in Their Views of Shaw Theories.

No controversy of symposium of opinions has created as much interest in Toronto as The World's "Man and Superman" prize letter contest. To-day is printed a second instalment, and others will be published daily through the week. The prizes which The Toronto World will give for the best letters on Bernard Shaw's views as expressed in his brilliant comedy, "Man and Superman," by Robert Loraine and his London company at the Princess Theatre next week are:

THE PRIZES.
For the best letter—A lower box for Mr. Loraine's performance in "Man and Superman" at the Princess Theatre.

For the next best 24 letters—Each one a pair of seats for one of the performances of Robert Loraine in "Man and Superman" at the Princess Theatre.

Every reader of The Toronto World is eligible to enter this contest and compete for these prizes.

THE QUESTIONS.
Here are the questions to be answered or discussed in your letter:

"Is Mr. Shaw justified in claiming there is so much sham about society?"

"Do girls entice men into marriage rather than risk single life?"

"Do mothers, in thinking so much of the necessity of marriage for their daughters, neglect proper consideration of the men into whose hands they give the future happiness of their children?"

THE RULES.
All letters will be considered and the prize winners will receive the awards by mail.

The World reserves the right to publish, in addition to the prize winners, any letter that may be of interest. Limit your letter to 250 words.

Write your letters plainly and distinctly, on one side of the paper, giving correct name and address. Bring or mail them at once to the "Man and Superman" Essay Editor, Toronto World.

Unhappy Marriages Mothers' Fault.
Whether the philosophy of Bernard Shaw as expressed in "Man and Superman" is right or wrong depends on the point of view. It is obviously right to the person who is intellectually awake to the trend of modern thought. The modern sciences—biology and psychology in particular—have done much to awaken an intellectual self-consciousness in the human mind. Believes Rivalry Keynote of Society.

According to my opinion, I think Mr. Bernard Shaw quite justified in claiming a certain amount of sham about society.

In the first place, I believe that the fundamental principle of society is nothing more or less than rivalry or on a person trying to outdo the other. Take the average professional man for an instance earning a salary of two or three thousand dollars a year; his wife usually has tendencies of becoming a social leader, which necessarily means the highest luxuries, such as automobiles, servants, chauffeurs, etc., etc., while he (poor man) puts on a brave front and appears to be well satisfied with the impression he thinks he is making on other people, altho in reality it causes him many hours of worry and sleeplessness.

One should also admit that American girls are rather forward and think nothing of trying to capture a man for whom they really care very little, but who they think will be able to give them a good place in society, rather than risk a single life or live an uneventful one (as they deem it) by marrying a man for himself alone.

I also believe that the American mothers are responsible for seventy-five per cent. of divorces amongst society people. In their eagerness to unite their daughters in marriage to some man of wealth and position, they neglect to even consider the former habits of the man, and not knowing what kind of a life their future son-in-law has led, they risk the happiness and welfare of their daughters in their ignorance and greed.
