grant a bonus from the township of McKellar to the Canadian Pacific railway. The by-law, which grants a bonus of $120,000, passed its first and second readings through committee, and a motion was unanimously carried directing Mr. Brown, the clerk of the municipality, to publish the by-law, for the requisite statutory period. The by-law will be voted on Wednesday, 18th of July. Mr. Wink appeared before the council on behalf of the C. P. R., company for the promotion of the by-law. This is no doubt what the C. P. R. company was after in coquetting with Port Arthur, and if the by-law is carried, the shops will be located at Fort William.

A Fable of the Times.

The following fable is being made to do duty in favor of protection, in the United States. "A Lamb, living in a Green Pasture, and waxing fat, constantly bewailed that there was not shade enough in the Meadow. Whereupon a lean and hungry wolf said: "Lo! you need a Change, come into the woods where it is always Cool." "But there is no Grass there," quoth the Lamb, nor are there Springs whereof to quench my Thirst." And the Wolf replied: "It is not that the Present is not good enough, but you need a Change on General Principles." And the Lamb, understanding not, quitted the Green Meadows and went into the Forest. And night came on, hunger and thirst overtook him and he cried out: "Where are the Advantages of the Change?" And thereupon the Wolf devoured him, and smacking his Jaws cried out: "It may not be a good Change for thee, thou Fool, but I am greatly benefitted thereby."

Moral: A wise Protection Lamb will not venture into the Free-trade woods."

The Jubilee Drink Bill.

The British drink bill in 1887 amounted to £124,953,680, against £122,905,785 in 1886, an increase of £2,047,895. This heavy increase, in the absence of any suggestion to the contrary, is attributed to the largely increased quantity of liquor drank in celebrating the Queen's jubilee last year. The compiler of the above statistics notes one comforting fact in relation to this matter: It is that jubilees do not come every year. Another cause for satisfaction is found in the fact that the bulk of the increased expenditure was for beer and wine, and only a fractional portion was spent in spirits as strong drink.—Exchange.

The New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, Forge Company has on hand a contract for 10,000 axes for the Canadian Pacific Railway, which, with the company's present facilities, would take upwards of a year to deliver. The railway people, however, do not require them all at once, and the Forge Company will be able to supply them as required. Material for the work is supplied by the Nova Scotia Steel Company.
