

approached the water. The lake appeared a sanctuary, a holy place, and no one spoke till the boat grated on the beach. Then Gil said, softly, looking at Lizette with shining eyes :

“ We may break our fast here, and rest a little while, and get some sleep in safety. Tomorrow we shall reach the sea.”

THE END.