He found Bank of Montreal stock quoted at 181 in 1874 and left it at 125 in 1879, a loss to the shareholders of that one institution amounting to $6,720,000. He found the Ontario Bank quoted at 105 and left it at 55 1-2, the Molsons at 108 and brought it down to 58 1-2. The Toronto Bank paid for the country's experiment with the Liberals by a depreciation of 78 3-4 per cent, the Jacques Cartier not merely found its stock reduced from 104 to 28, but had to wipe out $1,500,000 of its capital, the Merchants' Bank wiped out $3,000,000 of capital and its stock declined from 109 1-4 to 71, a further loss of $2,285,000. The Eastern Townshipe Bank suffered a decline from 118 to 80, the Union Bank was reduced from 101 to 49 1-2, Bank of Commerce stock fell from 120 to 96 1-2.

More were the banks alone in this disaster. Montreal Telegraph stock declined from 174 to 75. The losses involved in this deptendent of stock ran far into the millions, to say nothing of the actual wiping out of capital stock amounting in itself among the banks alone to nearly seven millions of dollars. Thanks, oh thanks, ever so much, Mr. Willison. It seems to be upon our own domestic school question, particularly that we must be instructed by you. The response, we, who have had opportunity of reading the journal you conduct are tempted to make is that, judged by its utterances, you are upon that question either one of the most ignorant men in Canada, or one of the most wickedly dishonest. The Globe systematically sets up for facts what are not facts at all. It tells half truths for whole truths and reasons and argues upon these false bases in a corresponding spirit."
