Congressman McCleary of St. Paul, Minn., Ambassador Noyes, Supreme Court Justice Joseph L. Fletcher of the Knights of Columbus and Mayor Curley.

RED CROSS PUBLICITY

It must not be forgotten that a great many Canadian soldiers are from Quebec and do not speak a word of English. Lying dangerously near death in an English hospital with nobody near them with whom to converse, they are in a deplorable condition. The ladies of the Quebec Red Cross have put themselves in touch with their French Canadian compatriots and some of the letters they have received are not far from pathetic.

"Dear Madam," writes one soldier from a London Hospital. "I have been very ill since I came here. I cannot write in French, for I can read English only with the greatest difficulty. You ask me whether I need anything. All that I need is that you write to me again."

Another says in reply to a lady who wrote to him: "Pardon me if I have not answered immediately. I have been very ill and cannot sit up to write. I cannot write with my right hand, and it is with great difficulty I write this with my left. I am very happy to have news from a French-Canadian lady, do not speak a word of English and I am the only Canadian in this hospital. Such being the case with a good many Canadian soldiers, the French Canadian Red Cross workers are indeed to be congratulated for their charitable enterprise in writing to the wounded."

Year's Red Cross Work in Canada

The great majority of the Red Cross branches in Canada have been organized since the beginning of the war. A cursory inspection of the annual reports which are available show a record of Red Cross achievement which is not confined to any one province or country, but extends over all the provinces. The last monthly report of the Halifax branch reveals recent contributions of $8,600 an addition of seventy-one active members and fourteen life members. During the month shipments of $1,180 in Montreal can be gathered from the report of the surgical department. Last January the shipments were fifteen cases each containing 400 dressings. The month 187 were sent to the Red Cross hospital over sea.

The Victoria branch in British Columbia has collected more than $200,000 since its inauguration, $11,800 of which has been sent to the head offices of the society in Toronto. In addition to this cash donation more than $7,400 has been expended for materials made up by local workers. Taking other contributions into consideration, the total amount of the Victoria branch that has been sent to the head offices of the society in Toronto is $19,200.

Now that the preserving season is now in full swing, patriotic housewives who are doing up fruit for the Red Cross should take special pains to ensure that the preserves will stand transit and remain fresh. A good deal of fruit has been received at the Red Cross headquarters down up, or at least supposed to be made up of fifty pieces. In this tin, mustard tins, cocoa tins and so forth. Needless to say such preserves are not fit for consumption. The tin cover comes off at the first opportunity and the sick soldier, for all the good housewife's efforts, will find the tin but an unsatisfactory thing. In this matter, no amount of patriotic intentions will do. The tin must be made up of a "leak" tin, provided with a top that will fit down snugly and securely.

Canning instructions have been published calling for unsweetened preserves as the fresh fruit as possible and as unsweetened. Some ladies have taken these instructions too literally and have sent in fruit absolutely unsweetened. Preserved fruits should contain a certain amount of sugar syrup. They should be boiled at a high temperature sufficient to destroy the yeast germs which cause fermentation. The tin should be sealed so as to be perfectly air-tight. They should be packed for transit in stout barrels and boxes with the three jars snugly wrapped in excelsior. Only careful packing will prevent breakage.

LEARNED COURT DECIDES

THE TOMATO IS A FRUIT

Is a tomato a fruit or vegetable? There's a fruitful theme for family dispute as well as judicial interpretation.

The matter came up for court decision in Brooklyn, N. Y. Mrs. Eva Schechter, who keeps a fruit and vegetable store, was arrested on a charge of selling tomatoes illegally on Sunday. Her defense was that she and a neighbor had sold them on the Sabbath, and a tomato is a fruit.

The magistrate merely smiled and held Mrs. Schechter over to the court of special sessions for trial. The three justices of the special sessions were not so sure.

They looked the word up in the Century dictionary, and were informed that a tomato is "the fruit of a vegetable," which left the question clear and mud.

Then they found a botany book which classified the tomato as a fruit along with the grape, gooseberry and currant. So they gave Mrs. Schechter an honorable discharge.

The case brings to mind a matter that perplexed Boston three or four years ago. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had a restaurant keeper arrested for keeping a sea turtle in his window, as an advertisement, lying helplessly on his back in the hot sun.

The defendant argued that there was no ground for action against him, because the turtle was not an "animal," and so, however uncomfortable he may have made that turtle, he wasn't guilty of "cruelty to animals." And on the expert advice of a Harvard biologist the court discharged him.

Extra Deaths for Troops

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—Canada's soldiers will not suffer during the coming winter from wet and cold feet, as they did last winter. A new issue of boots, two pairs to each soldier, is being sent out to all the overseas forces, of whom about 80,000 are now in France and 83,000 still at Shorncliffe.

The Prussian year book, just issued, shows that on December 1, 1910, 92,921 women had twelve children, 42,690 had thirteen, 27,064 had fourteen, 14,024 had fifteen, and 17,837 had sixteen children or more each. As many as 769 women had more than twenty children.

"My wife was a martyr to Constipation. We tried everything on the calendar without satisfaction, and spent large sums of money, until we happened on Fruit-a-Tives. We have used it in the family for about two years, and we would not use anything else as long as we can get 'Fruit-a-Tives.'"

Hints for the Cook

Chicken and Macaroni
Take equal parts of cold chicken, broken up, and macaroni. Put in layers in a shallow dish and cover with buttered crumbs. Bake until brown.

English Muffins
Sift together two cups of flour, one cup of sugar (scant), two teaspoons of baking powder, half teaspoon of salt. Add milk enough to make a soft batter, two tablespoons of melted butter and one egg. Cook in hot oven about ten or fifteen minutes.

Grape Juice
With 10 pounds of grapes use three pounds of sugar. Pick over, wash and drain grapes well. Weigh them and put in porcelain-lined kettle, with one cup of water, set over the fire, and as soon as they burst, mash them through a sieve and strain through cheesecloth. Return to stove, add sugar, simmer 20 minutes and bottle at once in bottles which have been previously heated. Set bottles in pan of water while filling. Do not put in all the sugar at once. Sometimes it is too much, but depends on the grapes.

TWO FRENCH CHILDREN
BAKE FOR THE VILLAGE
Paris, Sept. 22.—Daniel, the only baker in the village of Exodun, Department of Deux-Sevres, being called to the colors, the village was without bread. Then Madeleine Daniel, the baker's daughter, a slight miss of fourteen, left the bakery and with the help of her brother of ten, tried to make bread. After several failures she succeeded to the satisfaction of the villagers, and surrounding farm people. The baker's daughter, who had been away from home for four months in the morning until late in the day, baking bread for the village.

President Polk has written letters to both children. He compliments the baker's daughter for her courage and industry, and confers upon her the Cross of Lorraine. He calls the boy his "little hero" and assures him he will grow up to be a "valiant soldier."

PEACH CAPACITY

How many peaches can you eat? I mean at one sitting, of course. I remember one college boy, now an eminent statesman, who used to come down to his studies in the evening with an eleven quart basket beside him, from which he would eat almost mindlessly while gazing up Greek roots or becoming more skilled in the "low cunning of algebra."

And I remember how he would put up his voice and wail about eleven o'clock because the peaches were all gone, "just as he was beginning to get an appetite for them."

Personally I have not yet discovered my limit. At different times I have eaten peaches until I felt that I would never want to see one again, and ten minutes later my hand would be reaching towards the basket for another.

"Grows with it that feeds upon it," I doubt if the scientists could get any statistics that would be of value to them on the subject. Moreover, I do not think that they are needed. I have never heard of anyone suffering from a surfeit of peaches. They are as wholesome as they are palatable, and there is no need of establishing a limit in the matter.

While investigating this point I heard a story which I shall pass along for what it is worth. A peach grower had a hired man with a wonderful appetite for peaches. When telling a friend about it he said, "I believe that man could eat a peck of peaches without once stopping."

"I'll bet you he can't," said the friend. "The bet was made and they hunted up the hired man."

"See here, Jim," said the employer, "I have bet my friend here that you can eat a peck of peaches without stopping. Can you do it?"

"Well, I don't know," said Jim. "Let me think it over, and then I'll tell you."

About an hour later Jim hunted up his master and said:

"Yes, I can eat a peck of peaches. Lead me to them and I'll win your bet for you."

"The peaches were produced and the man munched away steadily until he had eaten the last one on his master pocketed the bet, he asked:

"How was it, Jim, that you didn't know at first whether you could eat a peck of peaches or not?"

"Well," said Jim, as he wiped his mouth with the back of his hand, "I didn't know because I'd never tried, but after you spoke to me I went and ate a peck and then I knew."

"WHO PAYS," AT LYRIC, REST OF THE WEEK

The Lyric Theatre shows the second chapter of the great serial "Who Pays," tonight, tomorrow and Saturday. This chapter is entitled "The Pursuit of Pleasure," and the story concerns a young man who staked his honor for love and a young woman who didn't care. It tells also of a bad man who turned out better than most of us and what it brought him.

The story is intensely interesting and should prove even more enjoyable than the first chapter which was shown last week. First evening show starts at 7.10, the matinee at 2.

The vaudeville act of "Scotty Provan," a clever Scotch mimic, character singer, violinist and dancer will surely please all patrons.

CORSETS

Did you contribute to the $700,000.00 sent from Canada in 1913 to corset makers in the United States, and to the $245,000.00 paid in customs on them?

Keen Canadian Shoppers have for years bought the "D & A" and the "La Diva" Corsets in preference to the Imported, because they are better value.

Justify our statement by comparing "D & A" and "La Diva" against foreign makes. Is only a few old style or prejudiced firms who do not sell these Made-in-Canada Corsets.
