Diamond Sparkies

Walter Snel, formerly catcher of the Brown University nine, has been released to the Toronto team of the International League by the Boston Americans. The Red Sox retain the right to reclaim him.

"Tom" McCarthy, former outfielder for the St. Louis Browns and Boston Nationals, has been signed by the latter as a scout.

The New York Nationals have released Arthur Fromme.

John Collins, outfielder of the Chicago Americans, has signed for 1914. Not being satisfied with grabbing off all the big league stunts they could lay their hands on, the Federal League has sent a representative in Paris to induce the crack players of the world to join the outfit.

Murphy Drops Out

Charles W. Murphy, president of the Chicago National League club, on Saturday disposed of his fifty-three per cent share of the club and resigned from his office in the club, saying that he was through forever with organized baseball. His action, it is said, was a result of the deposing of John Evers as manager of the Cubs. Not being able to get the price paid for the stock, but Mr. Murphy said that he got more for it than he thought it was worth.

hard battle in Oakland, Cal. Fox was picked up by Sammy McClinton, former manager of Dick Hyland, and he is sure he has got the coming feather-weight champion. Fox fought a young fellow named Tally Johns and while it was a close draw the papers as a rule gave it to Fox.

FLYNN AND LEVINSKY.

Porky Flynn, whom Tom O'Rourke thinks is one of the best white hopes in the country, scored a real knockout when he put George Rodell, the South African champion, to sleep in four rounds. Porky has been going along at a fair clip for the last three years, but it is only lately that he has begun to show real form.

Flynn has the build for a fast and clever heavy-weight, scaling nearly 165 pounds, and standing close to six feet. He is a clever manager in O'Rourke's opinion, and he has a good idea of what a man who knows the game from A to Z and back again, and if there is anything like championship timber in him, it is a good bet that Tom will get it out. It might be a good idea to match him with Betting Levinsky, for the latter has certainly been making a wonderful showing. His latest victory was over Tom McMahon, a Pittsburgh heavy-weight, who is considered a pretty good white hope himself. Levinsky is anxious to meet Gumbost Smith, for the white title, but it might be a good idea for him to first tackle the Boston boy and let the winner go after the naval champion.

Chorus Girls Resent Action of Josie Collins in Hiding Stars and Stripes

(Toronto Star.)

Peace broods against the back-drops of the Princess Theatre where last night war threatened. All is love where yesterday the Ziegfeld "Follies of 1913" was a nest of "you're-another." Last night a domestic squabble right on the open stage caused Manager Rosenbaum something approaching apoplexy, and reduced the ranks of rampant beauties—chorus girls—from thirty to a mere nine. But this morning in the gloomy interior of the theatre, without costumes or orchestra or make-up, the company assembled and was addressed by a placid Mr. Rosenbaum. The ladies of the ballet kissed and made up with one another, and Josie Collins, the leading lady, who inadvertently caused the upset, agreed to call past things past and end the feud.

All Over a Flag.

The trouble was all inspired by the Canadian flag. Miss Josie Collins, the prima of the show, is the daughter of the famous "Lottie" Collins of London music hall fame.

On the other hand some of the ladies of the chorus are from the United States, devotees of Broadway, singers of "My Country 'Tis of Thee" instead of "God Save the King."

In one song Miss Collins, supported by the chorus, is supposed to be an American girl, but in view of the fact that the show was traveling in Canadian territory, the Canadian flag and the American flag were placed side by side on the stage and given equal prominence during the song. It is said, however, that Miss Collins, accidentally on purpose, gathered the folds of the American flag so tight that the Stars and Stripes scarcely showed beside the howling yards of Canadian bunting.

At this point the American ladies of the chorus are said to have uttered a curious signal of disapproval, and a hush fell upon the stage. The Red Sox retain the right to reclaim him.

"That girl must be fired or I quit right away!" Miss Collins is said to have murmured to the manager. "Fired her or me?" and the prima donna pointed at one of the ballet that had been in the making of said strange sounds.

"Alright!" consented the trembling manager, "she's fired!"

"Well," shrilled twenty others of the chorus, "if Kate's fired, we quit, so there!"

"Be fired then!" snorted the management. And lo, when the curtain rose again only nine pairs of shapely limbs, nine rows of eyes, nine rows of mouths, and "colours" were to be counted by the eager gentlemen in the audience.
