Gasoline was poured on the mass and then the match was applied. Instantly flames rose fiercely. The heat affected the sprinklers, melting the metal that flows at a heat of 155, and almost as quickly as the flames rose they died down. The next test was the extinguishment of a fire equally fierce on the outside of the shack.

Lastly, to show how the water is started by the melting of the soft metal, a fire was started from a pile of kero-ene-soaked inflammable material. The sprinkler pipes ware exposed to view and soon the heat did its work and water was on the flames quickly, turning them into smoking embers.

LOCAL TROOPS INSPECTED BIG CONFLAGRATION By General Sir Ian Hamilton At Bridgewater last night and last night, and he expressed this morning.—The losses his pleasure at appearand insurance.

The arrangements for the inspection of the most disastrous configurations that town has had for some years. The fire broke changed almost at the last moment in consequence of the conditions of the weather. It had been the intention to hold the parade on the North Common, hold the parade on the North Common, which would have given a splendid opportunity to clitzens to see one of the largest military turnouts held here for some time, but the inclement state of the weather made it necessary to hold the inspection in the Armouries.

With the six units—three permanent and three militia corps—on the ground floor the space was practically all taken up. The galleries were all tightly packed with spectators, and many were unable to gain admittance to the Armouries, and those who were unable to get in received a wetting. in the Armouries.

At the conclusion of the inspection the General, Col. Hughes and staff officers went to the officers' balcony, and General Hamilton addressed the troops. After congratulating the different corps on their splendid appearance and efficiency, he stated that during their transcontinental tour of inspection this was the first occasion on which the regulars and militial were reviewed together, although he had inspected over one hundred different units since leaving Victoria. Howe's London Shows. Miscellaneous matters dealt with. The Board of Control met again at noon to-day.

Ex-alderman Hattie was present and asked the Board to concrete Henry street.

Controller Hoben stated that the matter was already being enquired into.

The Board could not take over any street until the Engineer recommends it, and he would not do that until the street creted out of their turn except where large thoroughfares are concerned.

Controller Hoben informed Mr. Harivel that the Vernon street sidewalk would be done about the same time as Henry St. He further stated that there was over fifty miles of streets not taken over by the city.

The Board authorized the placing of £300 in some English bank as security for costs.

Ex.Ald. Hines appeared on behalf of property owners on Gottingen St., who stated that their cellars are flooded whenever it rains, as the catch-pits are too small, and the water flows down Brunswick Lane, flooding all houses in the vicinity. Immediate action will be taken. However it is presented to a license to exhibit here on July 31st. The license fee was fixed at $200 and the Common rental $150 and about $50 for water. Two agents of the show were present and stated that in Toronto the license fee was only $50, but they had also to pay a provincial license, which was good for one year for the whole of Ontario. The agent asked to have the rental reduced to $100. A citizen wrote a letter, and after referring to a driving accident on Campbell Road recently, stated that he considered the city was liable for damages if an accident cocurred again, as the street was very narrow and dangerous on acount of the railway.

On motion of Controllers O'Connor and Harris a copy of the letter will be sent to General Manager Gutelius, asking that all level railway crossings be done away with in this vicinity.
