principal speaker. Dr. W. H. Hingston of Montreal followed with a short verbal address on Brain Operations. He related his experience in several important surgical operations. One in particular excited a great deal of interest, as the patient was able to be present. Dr. Hingston after introducing the young man, said he had met with an accident a number of years ago, from the effect of which he had never recovered. The whole of his left side was peculiarly affected There was a twitching in the left side of his face, over which the young man had no control whatever, and which was very unsightly to say the least. This extended into the arm and also the leg, and deprived the patient of the use of these members. Dr. Hing- but will be quite convenient. Judge ston explained how he had operated upon this young man. The blow which had rendered him a cripple was received upon the head, and it was upon the head the doctor had operated. The result had been highly satisfactory. he was able to walk and his arm was much stronger, and he had more control over it than he had had for years F. J. Shepherd of Montreal contributed two very interesting papers. The first was entitled Inter-Seapulo Thoracic Tuberculosis, and the second Removal of Large Enchondroma of the Pelvis Dr. Shepherd had in his possession several photos of patients showing the peculiar formation on various parts of their bodies. These he distributed among the members of the association. They added very much to the interest of the papers.

Drs. Steeves and Cameron discussed these papers briefly.

Dr. F. Buller of Montreal contributed the next paper. His theme was The Present Status of Asthenopia. He dealt with this subject very fully and in many points agreed with Dr. J. H. Morrison of St. John, who read a paper before the association Wednes afternoon entitled Eye-Strain Headaches.

Dr. Buckley of New York, Dr. Crawford, Dr. Bruce and Dr. J. H. Morrison discussed this paper briefly. Dr. P. R. Inches of St. John and Dr. J. F. MacDonald of Hopewell, N. B.,

The paper read by Dr. L. D. Buckley. New York, was, from a medical standpoint, one of the most instructive and withal one of the most thoroughly practical papers read before the meeting. His subject was the Treatment of Skin Diseases. The reading of the paper occupied half an hour. Drs. Hingston, J. Christie and Wright discussed this paper briefly and in doing so complimented Dr. Buckley very highly.

Touching a remark made by the speaker Dr. J. Christie gave it as his opinion that many of the skin diseases were due to kissing. It was a habit practiced to a great extent among ladies and children. Sometimes he was of the opinion such a practice was al-

EVENING SESSION. The greater part of evening session was taken up discussing papers which were read by Dr. H. D. Hamilton, of Montreal, and Dr. J. T. Steeves, of ths city. Dr. Hamilton spoke of the adhesions of the soft palate, and then mentioned several methods of treatment.

Drs. Morrison and Crawford, of St. John, spoke to this paper. A Medico-Legal Romance was the title of Dr. Steeves' paper. It dealt with a matter of a purely local character. The facts as stated by him were well known to the medical fraternity of St. John, yet the observations made upon this case by Dr. Steeves shed a new light on the mat-

They had, he said, done what they could to make their stay a pleasant one and he was pleased to learn that the St. John members had succeeded. However, if they choose to visit the city again, they should do even more to make them feel at home.

On motion a vote of thanks was tendered Dr. Harrison, the late president, the railroads and steamship lines for reduced fares, to the mayor and common council for the use of the council chamber; the members of the medical profession of St. John, and their lady friends for the very enjoyable reception held in their honor at the institute.

No. 4. As explained by the professor, we struck for the country after having made a survey of the surroundings of Charlottetown. For the benefit of any whose education has been neglected and who have not wandered over this part of Canada, it may be explained that the most eastern county of the province is Kings, which county is settled less continuously than Queens. There are, however, tracts of fine land in a high state of cultivation, and, as elsewhere, one finds signs of a considerable development of the cheese industry. The Prince Edward Island railway runs the whole length of the Island, keeping along somewhere near midway between the north and south shores. West of Charlottetown there is one short branch leading to Cape Traverse. East of Charlottetown, what may be called the main line, goes to Souris, very near the extremity of the Island. At Mt. Stewart, 22 miles from Charlottetown and 38 from Souris, there is a branch to the south shore at Georgetown, which is 24 miles from the junction. These two lines, 84 miles in all, complete the railway system east In Kennedy v. Hannaberry et al R. of the capital. As far as Mt. Stewart LeB. The railway to Georgetown goes through a country not over thickly settled, but we were told that the roads from the stations led to thrifty settlements near by. It was at the outset deemed important that the place should be capable of fortification-and so it is. The harbor is perfect. It is roomy and well protected from storms. The entrance, like that of Charlottetown harbor, is through a narrow passage, where the enemy may easily be headed off with a well appointed battery. The battery has never been provided, though a place was reserved by the crown for it. The residents are not in a condition of panic, perhaps because there is the work of exposing the defenceless position of the town. The county building is built of stone and looks strong enough for a fort, but it does not command the narrow passage afore-mentioned, still it gives to the place an air may at present be entitled the winter port of Prince Edward Island, T. harbor is not often obstructed with ice so as to be inaccessible to steamships. Still more seldom is it closed to a ship like the Stanley, which is not easily repressed by ice. So it is to Georgetown that the Stanley comes from Pictou during the worst part of the winter. Thither also come divers other smaller steamships making connection with ports in the province. But we saw none of these ships.

An elderly but brisk looking man forges to the front of a somewhat crowded station platform.

Do we want shooting? He will conduct us tomorrow to an excellent place a few miles away. Is it fishing we are after? Plenty of trout within ten miles, and he has the teams and outfit. We learn afterward that the old man can do all he promises. But for the present we are not hunting and fishing.

The town of Souris is not laid out with wide streets and right angles. The people built houses first and arranged the streets afterward. But there are large and elegant residences, with pleasant grounds about them, all along the headland overlooking the beautiful beach, and commanding a view of the spacious bay. Here are substantial business places where fishing vessels are supplied, and where farm produce is bought and exported. Here the traveller will find at least one hotel, where he will be well housed and particularly well fed.
