A HOSPITAL

Where They Let But Few Appendic

(Richmond Despatch.) PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27.—The re-cords at the German hospital in this city present what is regarded as a most remarkable set of facts. More cases of appendicitis are treated there than at all other hospitals in the city combin-ted.

According to the records of the hospital, the average number of cases of this kind annually is 365, or one for every day in the year. Nearly every one of the cases are operated on successful.

cessfully.

Of the nine resident physicians serving at the German hospital, five of them are worrying along through their exacting duties without their vermiform appendices. Three other young physicians who served faithfully in the hospital for several years, left there only a few months ago, minus their vermiform appendices. Eight of the twelve members of the hospital staff have submitted to operations for appendicitis.

In one case, that of Dr. Clayton, the notable record was made when an operation for appendictits was com-pleted in just one and a half minutes.

FOOLED THE OTHER FELLOWS.

An old showman says that one summer he traveled with a circus side show. An admission of ten cents was charged, and all he had was a pig with one ear off. When people came in, he said to them: "Don't say a word. Let us fool the other fellows." The victims went out, saying it was a great show and encouraged others to go in. Americans are always willing to fool each other.—Atchison Globe

Denison's proposal that a special duty be put on British imports of foreign goods, and that the proceeds be devoted to imperial defence, says: "We need not stop to observe upon the absurdity of the idea. Such a system would perhaps be paying for a navy, but the nation would bear the cost in the end. ## FIVE GREAT MEN

Brooklyn W. C. T. U. Wants to Know About Their Smiles.

How Comes It That the Mayor, Hill, Depew, Jerome and Schley Look Cheerfully, in an Advertisement, on the Inebriating Cup?

How can a man stop his picture from drinking rum? That is the question which was debated on Thursday by the Kings County Woman's Christian Tem-perance Union convention at the Westninster Church, First place and Clinton street, Brooklyn. These women feel that Mayor Low, ex-Senator Hill, District Attorney Jerome, Senator Depew and Rear Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, retired, ought to help them answer he question. The members of the Woman's Chris-

The members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Brooklyn have been studying the advertisements of a certain brand of whiskey pasted on billboards throughout the city and have been struck by the likeness of the billboard portraits to the countenances of the men named above. They hesitated, in discussing the matter in the convention yesterday, to say so, but finally did own up to a reasonable curiosity as to how such lifelike pictures could have been made without an actual posing before the artist of the subjects in the attitudes portrayed.

After some utterance of thought along this line a speaker suggested that it would not be tactful, at any rate, to intimate to the gentlemen concerned that they had actually posed for a whiskey advertisement and that the negotiations had better be made with the gentlemen on the supposition that they lictures were unauthorized and libelous. It was then suggested that they be asked to write to the manufacturers of the whiskey and demand that this form of advertising cease. The manufacturers of whiskey were deceived, the speaker said, if they believed that any really great man, worthy of public admiration, ever drank whiskey.

public admiration, ever drank whiskey.

Somebody else suggested that the most harmful effect of the picture was produced by the apparent glee and satisfaction which the pictured faces exhibited. If the artist had been a truly moral man, said this speaker, each of the faces, would have been made to frown and sniff, signifying disgust and distaste for the accursed stuff.

Finally a very young woman proposed that the W. C. T. U. adopt resolutions requesting its members to enforce a boycott on the manufacturers of the particular whiskey which issued the objectionable advertisements. There was a long silence after this proposition and then two or three of the older delegates had a whispered conference with the young woman. She withdrew the motion quite hurriedly, saying somewhat absently:

"Why, I hadn't thought of that!"
The final action was to request the secretary of the convention to send to each of the five men whose faces appear in the whiskey advertisement the following resolutions:

Because we, the Woman's Christian each of the five men whose faces appear in the whiskey advertisement the following resolutions:

Because we, the Woman's Christian Temperance Usino of Kings County, numbering over 700 women, believe most heartily that whoever sounds the highest moral note does the most for his country, in the interests of the morals of the whole community, but especially in the interests of the morals of our children and youth, for whom we believe that only the best is good enough, do now most strongly protest against the portraits of our public men being used to advertise any particular brand of whiskey or intoxicants of any kind.

Loyalty to rulers cannot be taught if respect is lacking, and he who allows himself to be portrayed as an advocate of the cup which inebriates and which has sent to destruction and death more than battlefield has ever slain, is not a safe example for our young men who are making a brave fight for the clear brain, the steady-beating heart and the hand that does not tremble.

Therefore, we resolve that our emphatic denunciation against this form of advertisement be recorded.

The secretary was told to add that the gentlemen were requested to use all possible legal and persuasive means to have their faces taken out of the advertisements, and at any rate to make public protest against the outrage upon their sobriety and virtue thus perpetrated.

A "TRAGEDY."

A "TRAGEDY."

A Missouri paper gives an account of an amusing little "tragedy" which it claims occurred in its town. A man and his wife were riding home on a street car. He was reading his paper, when another lady got on. The car was crowded, and without glancing up he arose and gave her his seat, receiving, a gracious smile in payment. The man's wife immediately got up, gave the belirope a hard jerk and invited her husband to get off. When he looked around to learn the cause of her anger, he discovered that the woman to whom he had given his seat was his first wife, whom he had divorced two years before. They walked the rest of the way home, and he is still explaining.

FRED H. DUNHAM,

MEN OF THE DAY. M. de Witte, the Finance Minister of

Russia

M. de Witte, the Finance Minister of Russia.

The London Daily Express, in a sketch of M. de Witte, the finance minister of Russia, says:—He commenced his career without money and without friends or influence. His father, who was of Dutch extraction, held a very small post under the Russian government. At the Odessa University, where M. de Whitte spent some years as a student, he had a quite undistinguished career, and gave no special sign of promise. His chance came, however, soon after leaving the university, when he obtained an appointment in the State Railway department. Here he at once showed his ability by doing the work of those above him much better than they could do it themselves. He consequently rose by rapid steps until he became chief of the State Railway Department and afterwards minister of communications, the work of which office he has since discharged in addition to his duties as finance minister. Ten years ago, when M. de Witte became minister of finance, Russia's revenue was £100,000,000; this year it is £194,000,000, that is to say, it has been practically doubled. During the last ten years ago, when minister has never had a balance on the wrong side of his budget—he has always been able to show a surplus of from ten to twenty millions sterling. The result of this has been that he has reduced the national debt by £80,000,000! During his eventful en years of fine he has introduced much-needed reforms in commercial and particularly company and banking law, in navigation, and in the mercantile marine; has established polytechnics and commercial schools, and has created a great flow of foreign capital into Russia. Of his attitude towards England little need be said, for it is well known that M. de Witte has long been making the greatest efforts towards the encouragement of trade with this country. He has greatly increased the exportation to England of many kinds of agricultural produce, and has caused a large amount of English capital to be invested in Russian concerns.
