

CONDITIONS OF CONVERTING POWER IN PUBLIC RELIGIOUS SERVICE.

A large proportion of the people who frequent the Lord's house in these days is made up of those whom the gospel does not reach with saving effect...

It is to be feared that there is a widespread misapprehension of the essential idea of a religious service...

It is proper, and a matter of solemn obligation, that we do our utmost by every method that God will approve...

It seems now quite evident that sufficient cause existed for the warnings given by Mr. Spurgeon...

It lies at the very foundation of religious life, in all acts of worship and prayer, to be in the true spirit of service and worship.

The first, last, and only condition—on the human side—that can secure to our sanctuary services the character of success which they are designed to carry...

But a risk filled with people, for the purpose which sometimes take them there, does not make a religious gathering...

We think we have reached a principle of immense importance, in this discussion. As Christians we are responsible for the presence and rule, in the services of God's house, of that tone and power which shall, through grace, make them victorious for God.

What to do in Emergencies.

It has been remarked that the next best thing to presence of mind in case of accidents is absence of body.

The chief thing to be remembered in case of fire is to exclude air. Another blanket wrapped around the body will enable a person to pass safely through a considerable blaze.

It is characteristic of the House to have only the very best, and never deal in what is known in the trade as cheap instruments.

It is characteristic of the House never to ask fancy prices (as some dealers do), and come down if they have to.
