

THE LARGER AND GREATER E. MAYHEW & CO. STORE

having enlarged Clothing Department, will make its bow to the buying public of Glencoe and vicinity with a

Big Expansion Sale

of all Winter Merchandise. Here is how this Sale is made possible:—

You know how the redman, before the days of electricity, used to get a tip of anything coming his way by putting his ear to the ground. Well, over a year ago we, having our ears to the ground, heard from reliable sources this message:—BUY NOW your goods for Fall and Winter, 1916, and avoid the big advances that will surely come. Well, we bought and BOUGHT, in many instances taking delivery of the goods and storing them in our stockrooms—and now we are sorry, we are downhearted? Oh, no! Did the advance come? Yes, 25 and 50 per cent., and why our blood is tingling so is that we know that as we now bring these goods out and place them on sale we are again going to demonstrate that the E. Mayhew & Co. store is the store of big values ALWAYS.

SECRETS OF SPACE

What Might Be Revealed if Nature Lifted the Veil.

WONDERS OF THE INVISIBLE.

Evidence That What We Call the Universe Is Only a Part of a Far Grander and Perhaps Infinite System of Suns and Worlds and Planets.

Men of science have found reasons for believing that there may be, far off in infinite space, other material systems besides the one visible to us.
We seem to be able with modern telescopes to reach the boundaries or farthest limits of the stellar system to which our sun belongs.

It is found that with increase of distance the relative number of stars decreases until, in most directions at least, a point is reached beyond which virtually no more stars can be seen.

Then, too, it has been found that the stellar system has a fairly definite shape—a fact which in itself implies boundaries. The shape is that of a vast spiral, with curving arms surrounding a central agglomeration. If you will imagine floating in the middle of the room where you sit a roughly distributed with a fair degree of uniformity as to distance from one another, and then outside of the swarm surrounding it, but separated from it by a space which is nearly but not quite empty, an irregular spiral ring of similar shining particles, you will have before you a picture of one of the latest astronomical conceptions of the form of the visible universe.

The central swarm will represent the assemblage of stars of which our sun is a modest member, while the enveloping spiral will represent the immense system of the Milky way, whose stars are vastly more numerous than those composing the globular swarm.

The stars of the Milky way are the most distant members of the entire system, which appears to be shut in all around by black space. Viewed from afar off in the cloud depths of that space, this universe of ours would resemble a phosphorescent jellyfish, with faintly sparkling tentacles, adrift in the sea of immensity.

This being so, the question naturally arises, May there not be, or must there not be, an indefinite number of other such systems scattered through the limitless expanse of space? That question would forever remain a matter of pure conjecture if we did not have certain very suggestive facts which seem to indicate that it ought to be answered in the affirmative.

The facts of which I speak are objects of visual observation. But that does not necessarily make them parts of the "visible universe," because they appear to be unconnected with it and to lie beyond its boundaries.

These objects are known as spiral nebulae. The photographs that have been made of them in the past few years are simply amazing. The forms of many are surprisingly like that which has been described above as characterizing the stellar system. They have central agglomerations with enveloping spirals. They have knots of light which recall the globular clusters of stars found in the visible universe, but they are so distant that no separate stars can be detected in them.

They look like masses of more or less condensed glowing gas, but the spectroscopic shows that the light coming from them is not that which is characteristic of gaseous nebulae, but that which belongs to true stars. The influence is that these wonderful objects may actually be other universes lying out in the ocean of space beyond our shores.

This inference is strengthened by what we know of the distance of some of these objects. The utmost diameter of the great spiral of the Milky way probably does not exceed from 4,000 to 6,000 "parsecs," or from 800 to 1,200 million times the earth's distance from the sun. A parsec, which corresponds to a parallax of one second of arc, equals about 19,000,000,000,000 (nineteen trillion) miles. But some of the spiral nebulae appear to be at least 10,000 parsecs distant.

If that is so there exists between them and the outer frontiers of the visible universe a gap far broader than the entire diameter of that universe. It can hardly be supposed, then, that they are outlying parts of or attendants upon our universe, but it is much more reasonable to conclude that they are other universes constructed on a similar plan, but so far away that as viewed with our utmost visual powers, our nighttime spectacles, they are but glimmering specks! Perhaps the nearest of these strange objects is the Androm-eda nebula, which, in a small telescope, looks like a faint spindle-shaped wisp—Garrett P. Serviss in New York Journal.

Vengeance on the Caddis.

"What! Buying more golf clubs? I thought you had a pretty complete outfit before."

"I have, but that caddie of mine had the nerve to snigger when I topped my drive yesterday, and I'm going to make him carry double weight."—Fall Mail Gazette.

Happiness.

Happiness is that single and glorious thing which is the very light and sum of the whole animated universe, and where she is not it is better that nothing should be.—Colton.

The most completely lost of all days is the one on which we have not laughed.—Chamfort.

FISHED WITH A GANDER.

And Now the Poor Fowl Shows a Distinct Aversion to Water.

A gander was so upset by experiments made upon and through him by a mischievous boy that for a long time he would not go into the water.

The gander's determination to abstain from water as a means of bathing grew out of the following circumstances:

The boy thought he would tie a fishing line to the gander's leg and with a hook properly baited turn the bird out into the water. The bait was a frog.

The gander went into the mill pond, where he swam around for half an hour, turning "flippers" and diving for food. Suddenly he felt a pull at his leg and looked as surprised as the "hone fisherman" when he caught a white.

The gander thought there was something the matter, and he looked to ascertain the cause. The pickerel on the hook gave several jerks, whereupon the gander decided he wanted to go home.

He at once started for the shore, but the pickerel on the hook wanted to go the other way. The gander seemed frightened at first. Then he evidenced signs of anger and tried to fly to shore, but the pickerel pulled him back.

After half an hour of the hardest work he had ever done the gander came ashore, dragging a six pound pickerel up the bank.

The boy took off the pickerel and baited the hook with another frog. He tried to induce the gander to go in for another swim, but no amount of persuasion could get the bird to do so. He simply would not be driven in. For many weeks the gander would not go into the water. He would proceed with the rest of the flock to the water's edge, but there he would stop. He would seem to be arguing with them with reference to the danger they were courting.—Los Angeles Times.

SHOOTING WITH A RIFLE.

The Proper Way to Aim if One Aspires to Good Marksmanship.

Walter Winans, the famous American sharpshooter, who lives in England, writes to the Scientific American the following directions as to the proper way to aim a rifle:

"The way to shoot is, first, put a big irony front sight in place of the black one used for target shooting.

"Most real objects one shoots at are more or less dark, and the black front sight is difficult to see on the object; the white one shows up at once.

"Next, have your hand sight put on the rifle at the distance from your eye that you can read print best.

"When shooting do not try to focus a black bullseye, a black front sight and a black hind sight and a half dozen other things alternately while you hold on to your rifle like grim death.

"Look at the object you want to hit.
If it is moving judge how much allowance in front you must make, bring up your rifle to your shoulder, swinging it with the movement of the object you want to hit, and press the trigger as the butt touches your shoulder.

"The bullet will go where you want it to without your noticing the sights at all.

"If you want to be a good rifle shot at game, or as a soldier, join the nearest clay pigeon shooting club, and when you can break 90 per cent of the clays you can rest perfectly confident that you can hit a man every shot, what fire if being charged by an enemy if you have a rifle in your hands instead of a shotgun.

"If you practice in a 'coal hole' rifle gallery at a stationary black bullseye with a black front sight and see 'three front sights' and a 'blurred back sight' you are not learning to shoot, but merely ruining your eyesight."

Cornish Pies.

There are several dishes peculiar to Cornwall, and a pasty is one. It resembles an apple turnover, but is composed of meat, potato and seasoning, finely chopped. Almost every kind of food is put into a Cornish pie. Squab pie is a great favorite. Herby pie is another peculiar dish, composed of net-ties, pepper cress, parsley, mustard and spinach, together with thin slices of pork. Pies are also made with leeks and pickled, goose feet, gizzard and blood, raisins, sugar and apples and mackerel, parsley and cream.—London Standard.

Her Proof.

"I've brought back those eggs you gave me this morning," said the new bride as she began to take the articles in question from her basket. "They're duck eggs."

"Duck eggs?" sneered the grocery boss. "You're mistaken, ma'am. I don't never sell no duck eggs."

"But I tested them," triumphed the matrimonial novice. "I dropped them into water and they floated."—Judge.

Domestic Discussion.

"My husband accuses me of extravagance. I spent about $10,000 last year."

"I wouldn't mind being scolded on that basis. I have to stand for the same accusation on $20 a week."—Lowville Courier-Journal.

Bohemia.

Bohemia has not existed as a separate independent nation since 1020.
That year was fought the battle of the White mountain, which resulted in the total overthrow of the Bohemian forces and the subjugation of the country to Austria.

Eagles on the Hunt.

Eagles usually hunt in pairs, one bird frightening the prey from his hiding place and the other pouncing on it as it tries to escape.

The Transcript.

THURSDAY, NOV. 9, 1916

Newbury

W. O. Craft of the G.T.R. is taking his holidays.

T. E. Armstrong of London was in town on Saturday.

Mrs. George Hillman of Bothwell visited here last week.

Miss McNeill of New Glasgow visited Mrs. S. Fennell last week.

Mrs. Hillman and daughter Anna-helle spent the week-end in Detroit.

Charlie Armstrong, wife and two daughters of Windsor, spent a few days in town on their way home from a trip to Washington and other eastern points.

A person known to many of our readers passed away at his home in Euphemia on Monday in the person of James A. Gage, a brother of David Gage in town.

Mr. Glennie fell from the upper storey in W. Bayne's warehouse on Wednesday last, getting a severe shaking up. Fortunately no bones were broken. It is hoped he will be about again in a few days.

Mrs. J. W. Webster and daughter Helen and son Warren left on Tuesday last for their home in Melville, Sask.
Mr. Webster having exchanged his livery business there for a ranch further north, they will move soon.

The Women's Missionary Society of Knox church held the monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Telfer on Thursday afternoon. There was an attendance of about twenty ladies. At the close of the meeting the hostess served an excellent supper. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, December 7, at Mrs. Dickson's home.

PARKDALE

Mrs. Joseph Blain of Aldboro was a visitor at H. Blain's last Friday.

Mrs. Buchanan and daughter of Harrow are visiting friends here.

Mrs. J. A. McVicar and children of Dauphin, Man., spent a day with friends here recently.

Mrs. E. Rutherford of Chatham arrived recently and intends spending the winter with her niece, Miss G.
Ward.

OAKDALE

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Johnston, Bothwell, were visiting friends here Sunday.

Mac. Munroe, Margaret, Manitoba, was visiting relatives around here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Corlett and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Roberts motored to Detroit on Sunday.

Miss Pearl A. Summers and Mrs.
John Summers were visiting friends in Glenora Saturday.

Awful asthma attacks. Is there a member of your family who is in the power of this distressing trouble? No service you can render him will equal the bringing to his attention of Dr. J.
D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. This remarkable remedy rests its reputation upon what it has done for others. It has a truly wonderful record, covering years and years of success in almost every part of this continent, and even beyond the seas.

Appin

David McDonald sold a fine team of horses to Montreal buyers.

Mr. and Mrs. George Laughton left Tuesday for their home in Minnesota.

Murray Fisher has accepted a position in London and left last week to take charge of it.

Rev. Mr. Moore of Owen Sound conducted the services in the Presbyterian church last Sunday.

There are a number from here going to London to see the pictures of the Battle of the Somme.

The Fruit Growers' Association loaded three cars of apples last week for shipment via G. T. R.

Charles Black has gone to London, having accepted a position with Pur-dom & Co., hardware merchants.

A great many are looking forward to a fine time at the bazaar and social in the Methodist church next Monday evening.

Several of the interested workers of the Women's Institute and Red Cross Society expect to attend the annual institute convention in London this week.

The people of Appin and vicinity have shipped Christmas boxes to the soldiers at the front. Wm. Gibbs donated 21 pairs of honey, which no doubt will be a treat to the boys.

Sixty dollars has been contributed in the village and vicinity, to be used in sending boxes of Christmas cheer to the boys from this immediate district now at the front and in England.

Anniversary services of the Methodist church will be held on Sunday, November 12th. Rev. Mr. Jones of Strathroy, chairman of the district, is to preach, and the choir will be assisted by London talent. On Monday evening the ladies will hold a bazaar in the basement of the church.

The building now occupied by the Royal Bank has been purchased by the head office from D. L. McIntyre, and extensive remodeling is to be begun at once. William Stephenson has the contract for the carpenter work, and Frank Nicholls for the cement work and the construction of a large vault.

The committee of Red Cross workers met last Friday at Mrs. King's home and cut out several grey flannel shirts for the boys at the front. Anyone wishing to assist in the making of them may get them at either of the stores in the village where they were left for distribution. The committee would like them made up as soon as possible, to get them away.

Special meetings being held every night in the Methodist church are very interesting and helpful to the many who attend. Able and feeling addresses have been given every evening by Rev. John Holmes of Lambeth, who has been assisting the pastor, Rev. C. W. Bristol. These meetings conclude on Friday evening, when a reception service will be held.

The Appin Women's Institute have collected $27.25 for the British Red Cross. This has been forwarded to the Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Secretary, Toronto. The following are the names of those who contributed to this fund:—$2 each—James M.
Macfie, J. S. Macrae, John W. Macfie, R. E. C. McDonald, J. C. Lane; $1 each—Robert Webster, Jas. Glasgow, Mrs. R. Pettit, Mrs. M. R. Brown, Chas. W. Macfie, Ferguson Huston, Mrs. Dan McCallum, J. H. Miers; 50c each—Mrs. Jas. Lotan, sr., Mrs. J. C.
Allan, Miss Lacombe, Wm. Gibbs.

Thomas.

Mrs. McRae of London gave an address to the W. M. S. on Thursday evening. The meeting was the thank-offering of the society and the ladies served a light lunch at the close. The amount of the thank-offering was $38.50.

Before Sept. 16th it was impossible to get anything stronger than water to drink throughout this district, but since then everything has gone dry, even many of our wells, and now it's even difficult to get a good drink of water. Still, we can hardly blame Heaven for the dry wells.

About forty members of the Disciple church assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. McVicar, Rodney, and presented them with a beautiful ma-
