Questions and Answers. Miscellaneous.

Steel Posts.

Which would be the stronger, a solid steel post 5 inches in diameter and 7 feet long, or a hollow steel post, to be used under a brick building. A. B.

Ans.—The solid steel would no doubt be the stronger. However, the hollow steel post may be reinforced by filling with concrete.

Alfalfa.

I am sending a sample of alfalfa. The first crop was very good, but about a third of the second crop turned yellow.
Is this caused by blight or drouth?
Would you advise leaving it for another year? E. C. A.

Ans.—We could see no sign of blight on the sample received. From the appearance we would believe that the yellow color was caused by drouth. Unless you have rather a poor stand, there is no reason why it would not pay to leave the field for another year.

Poor Catch of Seeds.

I seeded eight acres to oats in the spring, but before I could get the timothy and clover seed on it rained heavily and continued wet for a week. I sowed the small seed and then rolled. However, I can see no signs of the clover coming.
Could it be sown in the fall? I was counting on this for a hay crop next year.
W. G.

Ans.—This is too late a date to sow clover. You might sow timothy seed and get a fair crop. Where the clover and timothy failed some have sown oats in the spring and cut them green for hay.
This makes very good feed.

Power Line.

The Hydro Electric line is passing through our neighborhood, and have staked out their line across my 200-acre farm. Can I stop them from crossing my farm, or can I make them pay for going through? What do they charge per horsepower? F. G.

Ans.—You would be unable to stop them from crossing your farm with the line, but you can sell the right of way to them. If your price is higher than they wish to pay, the matter is arbitrated.
The power is certainly very convenient, and, for the work which it will do, is generally considered reasonable in price. The charge per horsepower will vary somewhat, depending on the expense of the line and the number using the power on the line. For information regarding the price per horsepower, write the Hydro Electric Commission, Toronto.

Canada Thistle.

A pasture field is badly infested with thistles. Would cutting them now kill them, or would they come up from the roots next year? I have heard that plowing in August, when the land is dry, will kill them. A. N.

Ans.—The Canada thistle is a perennial plant, with deep, running rootstalks, and it is altogether likely that they would come up again from the roots next year.
By this date they will have gone to seed, and thus start a new crop of plants. It is not a particularly hard weed to control if taken at the right time. Plowing in late June, when the plant is in blossom, and then following with frequent cultivation, will destroy this weed. Plowing in August will kill the old plant, but by that time the seed has been distributed over the ground to start the new crop.

Bull Trespassing.

The public road divides my farm from my neighbor's. I keep pure-bred Shorthorns and my neighbor has a grade Holstein herd sire out on pasture. This sire crosses the road and breaks into my field where a number of twenty-month-old heifers are pasturing. What amount of damages am I entitled to, as one of the heifers is in calf? N. S.

Ans.—This is rather a difficult matter to settle definitely. You should, however, be entitled to the difference between a good pure-bred calf, at from four to six months of age, and a grade calf of the same age. If the heifer was not well developed and was bred too soon, thus preventing her acquiring normal size, you should be entitled to some damages on that score; just how much we cannot say, as it would depend to what extent the development of the heifer was injured.
