Sponge Clean-Up

Every year about the first of June we make a sale of our stock of sponges. Before getting our new stock we try to clear out every sponge we have in the store.

For this week you can get any sponge we have at exactly half price—much less than they cost us. We do this because on account of their being in stock for some time they become dusty and dirty.

NOVEL BET

One of the greatest bets this election was that between James Jenkins and Harry Jacques, on Pardo's election.
Mr. Jenkins was confident that Mr.
Fraser would be elected and he made a bet with Mr. Jacques, the loser to wheel the winner from the market square and back. The bet was in earnest, and each posted a five dollar forfeit. Harry won and James wheeled his man Friday night at 7:30 p. m.
A large crowd of admiring friends cheered the introduction of the push cart as a means of conveyance in lieu of the hansom cab.

THOSE TRICKS OF THE TRADE

Rev. W. E. Knowles Warns
Merchants and Shoppers Against Thoughtless Dishonesty.

An Able Sermon Based Upon the Eighth Commandment—A O F. at Church.

The service in the First Presbyterian church was well attended Sunday evening, the event being the annual church parade of the Ancient Order of Foresters.

About 100 members of the Order were present, besides the usual evening congregation, and the church was well filled.

Before commencing his sermon Rev.
Mr. Knowles spoke a few words of welcome to the visiting Order.

"I have great pleasure," said he,
"in welcoming you at our evening service. I am heartily in favor of all societies which are founded on religious principles, and they should have the sympathy and support of all who do their duty to their fellow men. The aim of these societies is to relieve the pain and distress of this world. I understand that this Order stands high as an old established Order. The greatest duty of any man is to do church work. As this Order is undoubtedly founded on such great principles, it does only consistently when it goes to the aid of God for the purpose of worship.
I take great pleasure in welcoming you to our service."

The preacher chose as the text for his evening's discourse the eighth commandment—"Thou Shalt Not Steal."
"You may think," said he, "that it is entirely unnecessary to preach on this subject as none of you would be so low as to stoop to stealing. However, it is much the reverse. There are many ways in which a man may steal, and thus break this commandment."

From this he went on to point out that every man must earn his bread by the sweat of his brow.

"This principle applies alike to the tramp who lounges around on the street corner waiting for a drink, and also the man who lounges in his easy chair. A man who does not work should not eat, he is tramp dandy. I believe the merchant who imposes upon his customers is breaking this eighth commandment, and much as the man who steals money from the till. You often notice some goods marked extra or superior, the sole aim being to get rid of them.
There are many 'tricks of the trade' which are nothing but pure robbery.
He may mark down certain goods but you may depend on it that he takes it out of the receiver in other ways. Another way of stealing is by giving short measure. A man who buys 24 tons of coal gets probably 21; a person who buys 10 yards of silk gets probably 9. I do not know how much this is practiced, for I believe there are honorable merchants, but the competition for trade is so keen that the temptation to make use of these 'advantages' is very great. How many of us do you think can bear an inspection of our conscience in this commandment? I understand that is a very important thing in this world to make both ends meet, but after all it is not necessary for men to die worth $1,000.

To succeed in business is necessary to be careful, industrious, and patient.
Men dread to fail in business. If any man fail to have his name down in the book of life on the great judgment day it will be a thousand times as serious. There are other people again who want to buy below cost.
A just exchange should be made for everything. There are a number of people who would do anything to defraud a government or a railway.
This is especially evident in the customs department through smuggling.
This is an unjust and dishonest thing and the person who practices it is undoubtedly breaking this eighth commandment. Then also there are men who buy things they never intend to pay for and take advantage of a merchant who gives his confidence. A man should keep his expenses within his income. You will notice at Christmas time a lady will give a great dinner and while at the same time she is making a dress and she made the dress in waiting for her just reward and having not got it is forced to eat a Christmas dinner of bread and water.
Money is a sacred talent and when we spend it in things we do not need we are robbing God of it.

I have spoken plainly but not unnecessarily. If you knew the misery in this world caused by the non-observance of this commandment you would not say it was unnecessary.
Let him that stole, steal no more, but work so that he may give to the poor. Our aim should be not to gather but to scatter around us. flow hard it is for a rich man to enter heaven. If they would only must only pay their debts to their fellow creatures and cease stealing from them, but they must also pay their debt to God.

After the return of the Lodge to the room a vote of thanks was given Mr. Knowles for his excellent sermon.

SWEET SINGER

A rare musical treat was in store for all who attend the Park street Methodist church next Sunday evening.
Miss Webster, of Toronto, the new leader of the choir, has prepared a special musical program, and something of a surprise is expected.

This will be Miss Webster's third Sunday in Chatham. Although she has been here a very short time she is already a favorite with all who have heard her sing. She has a strong but sweet soprano voice and she sings her solos with wonderful expression and ease. She is naturally a singer, and has studied with Mrs. Christie of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, and Miss Crawford of Ottawa. She is also a graduate of the Toronto Conservatory.

Sunday morning the choir under her direction sang the anthem "I Will Praise Thee." Miss Webster also rendered a solo "Saved by Grace." In the evening the choir sang "We were Crossing the Bar," and "God So Loved the World."

Next Sunday Miss Webster will sing a solo, Horace Davis will also sing a solo and a duet will be given by Misses Webster and White.

SULMAN'S BEEHIVE

One thing more than any other that strikes the visitor to Chatham is the great number of fine business places and the smart, up-to-date appearance of the store fronts on King street.
They having the appearance of Metropolitan premises. Probably the most striking of these is Sulman's Beehive, on the corner opposite the Garner house, which boasts of having more display window than any other store in the city.

The premises were purchased by Dr.
Cornell from Geo. Young, who for so many years conducted a grocery store there. They were immediately leased to Mr. Sulman, who found it necessary to move on account of his largely increasing business.

The remodeling occupied upwards of three months, and it was built expectantly for Mr. Sulman's business, wholesale and retail fancy goods and wallpaper, and we are safe in saying that it is the best equipped place of business in Western Ontario, everything being new and the latest and most approved design, no expense having been spared by Mr. Sulman on the interior to make it the acme of perfection. The space occupied for his business covers the three flats, the basement being used for storing heavy goods and reserve stock, the ground floor for retail and the upper floor flat for wholesale and reserve stock.

The ground floor plan of the store is unique, having a permanent glass case, 43 on the corner, and having a beautiful wide glass entrance from both streets to the door. The floor is oiled and polished, the ceilings metallic and all the shelving, furniture and fixtures are finished in golden oak.
The furniture consists of 50 feet of silent easelmen, and some beautiful massive oak cabinet tables for displaying the various lines sold. One side of the store is devoted to books and stationery and the other to fancy goods and notions, while the floor space is used for the thousand and one articles for which Mr. Sulman has made his place of business famous.

Mr. Sulman styles his new premises "The Wallpaper Emporium of Canada" and well it merits this application, as a window on Sixth street 12x12 lights the finest wallpaper showroom in Ontario. Mr. Sulman handles an enormous line of wallpaper, as the trade of Chatham and district warrant, and the season just past has been a phenomenal one for him in his new store.

There is a gallery running all round the store on the inside, which allows the clerks to pass entirely around, and secure goods from the shelves which run to the ceiling. This is certainly unique, and affords much more shelf room, and shows the numerous lines to better advantage. The office is in the rear of the store, and is on a level with the gallery, so that the book-keeper and cashier have a full view of the store, all the time and the office does not take up any floor space. The cash sales are all sent by carriers to the office.

The whole effect, either in daylight or under artificial light is certainly handsome, and this store should be the model for all other stores wishing to purchase small goods of any kind.

The Mayor says his store is the coolest in Chatham, and suggests that shoppers, wishing to cool off this summer, pay his store a visit.

Immediately back of the main store is the packing room, where all goods are received, checked and marked, and where the packing of the large wholesale business is conducted. It is also used as parcel room, there being no counters in the front store, all heavy goods are packed or parcelled there.

Taking it all in all, Sulman's Beehive is a credit to Chatham, and we would cheerfully recommend everyone to call and inspect the premises, as the Mayor is to be congratulated on having such magnificent quarters.
