THE CATHOLIC VOTERS.

Mr. Donovan's Scheme to Give them Representation.

They are Ignored—A Proposal for Large Electoral Divisions Instead of Small Constituencies—Reasons for Supporting Mr. Blake.

The following address to the electors of Ontario has been issued by Mr. Joseph A. Donovan, a well-known barrister of Toronto:

To the Catholic Electors of Ontario.
The important consequences to us, as Catholics, which will follow the result of the approaching general election, is my apology for this address. The population of Ontario is 1,224, and is about to elect 92 representatives to the House of Commons. Of this population we are 321,000, or more than a sixth, and are so entitled—population giving the right to representation—to elect 15 of these 92 representatives. Those 15 should rightly be our choice; should represent us in the House of Commons; and be amenable to our opinion. Thus only would we truly be represented in the council of the country and the principle of representative government be maintained.

What, in fact, is our position? With the exception of Prescott and Ottawa, we are denied the right to elect one representative to the House of Commons. Only by the vote of the majority of the electors of Ontario, we are to be represented in the House of Commons; and, in fact, we are to be represented by the vote of the majority of the electors of Ontario, who are to be represented by the vote of the majority of the electors of Ontario.

In recently arranging 54 new constituencies, affecting the electoral rights of 1,170,000 of the people of Ontario, including 147,000 Catholics, and not assigning to the latter one constituency where in to elect a representative, though the numbers entitled them to seven, Sir John Macdonald has determined for ten years to come what he deems the proper political status of Catholics, namely, to be a mere hold of Chinese, without political rights or opinions, he could be ignored with more contemptuous disregard.

Hitherto we have made no effort based upon any intelligent principle to remedy this egregious injustice; we have been content with the effigy of two or three Catholics, returned to parliament from time to time, at the instance of the party leader, by the party constituency, designated "Catholic representatives;" though we knew that, in truth, we could have no representative were we possessed neither the power nor the choice of electing one. The time is surely now come to do as the majority of the electors, to insist on the taking down the wretched simulacrum. It has served its fraudulent purpose full often; now our gorge rises at it.

In the party economy of Sir John Macdonald the purpose we have hitherto answered has been to serve as stepping-stones to assist his followers in the House of Commons. Now, however, he has treated the reform party and us as common enemies, and disfranchised both so far as he dared. Is it not time to shake the dust off our feet and go forth from the household of a party so foul with injustice?

You doubtless ask what means I suggest to remedy this evil, or if I propose only to substitute a reform master for a slave, in order to divert our sense of shame by the variation of our servitude. I answer this latter query firstly. No; a thousand times no! rather than become the vassals of any political party, or its leader, I say—if we are too spiritless to be roused by wrong, and freedom is about the aim of our ambition—let us prefer the lesser baseness of voluntary disfranchisement! But I feel that you rebuke this imputation on your earnestness. I know that you are filled with bitterness at the injustice from which your suffer, and that you are resolved to resist Sir John Macdonald's insolent affront.

The evil which is destroying the electoral freedom of Ontario, and converting government into a party tyranny, has its foundation and source in the multitude of small constituencies into which it is subdivided. This system, utterly false and fraudulent as a system of representation, arms an unscrupulous party leader, who happens to control the Government, with a weapon of deadly efficiency against his political opponents. Sir John Macdonald has, by this bill to re-adjust the representation of Ontario, illustrated the vices of the system and the violence of its uses. By withdrawing Reform townships from districts where his party was in minority he has imparted to those minorities a fictitious preponderance, while by assigning these townships to a constituency where Reform electors were already in excess, and leaving that constituency so enlarged, with only one representative, he has effectively accomplished their disfranchisement. On the other hand, by subdividing Conservative constituencies, and giving a representative to each subdivision, he has unjustly multiplied their influence and enabled a minority of voters to elect a majority of representatives. Such an outrage on the rights of a free people is fit only for the serfdom of Russia. It prostrates the liberties of Ontario at the foot of St. Basil's Cathedral; it violates the principles of a free press and a free assembly; it is a device of authority, to remedy the evil by a representation which will render impossible the recurrence of such an outrage; which will fairly give to all classes of the people their proportionate representation and will heal the angry sore which political disfranchisement is festering in the Catholic mind. I propose to abolish the present 92 one-member constituencies, and substitute therefore, say 13 electoral districts, each comprising a thirtieth of the population, and assign to each district a representative of seven in the House of Commons. Any one-seventh electors, in any or all of such districts, would have the right and power at their own option, by means of their own votes alone independently, or if necessary in conjunction with the other six-sevenths, to nominate and elect one representative. This scheme would give to the country a better and purer life than it has yet known, and would elevate politics above the partisanship of faction, with all its baneful falseness and chicanery.

To attain the object I have outlined, I propose at the coming election, that I propose to elect one man in the name of Hon. Edward Blake, and employ every means in our power to plant his banner victorious at every polling place in Ontario on election day. He is the one public man who, with the insight of a statesman, has acknowledged the unfairness and declared against the present system of representation. The Reform party which he leads as it never was led before, with justice on its banner and equality for its watch word, is recovered from the treacherous assault of Sir John Macdonald, and is moving with a new stride to measure strength with the assailant of its freedom. Our interests and theirs are the same in this election. The blow struck by Sir John Macdonald at their electoral freedom has fallen with equal destructiveness upon ours. Let us march together in the way of common deliverance against the common enemy.

We are now face to face with Sir John Macdonald, with all his treachery and deceit; he has rewarded our faithful following of long years with disfranchisement, and the stigma of inferiority; the moment is come to flash resentment back to us. A chief of our race, and blood rich in intellectual gifts, even from this distant land, shed a splendid light around the name of Ireland, and he champions the cause of freedom, strangled by Sir John Macdonald, and summons the patriots and virtuous of the country to his rescue. Read his speech on the "Irish resolutions;" how it burns and thrills with the holy passion for liberty which stirs his soul while pleading justice for Ireland! In no craven tones, with bated breath, and whispering humbly does he exclaim against the cruel policy that is yielding only tears and blood; but in eloquent words, now echoing through the world, instinct with inspiration, he demands legislative freedom for the land of his fathers!

In the name of Ontario Hon. Edward Blake to-day invites our suffrage; by voting for him we assure his triumph and that of just representation; we aid in rescuing the country from outrage by an obsequious House of Commons, and an appointed Senate; we declare for the principle of Parliament, and for a House of Commons which shall represent the whole people of the country, and not the partisans of a faction.

The Catholic who votes for Sir John Macdonald tramples country and honor in the dust; votes for ten more years of Catholic disfranchisement; countenances the fraud of Catholic representation; by the appointment of hirelings and rogues to office; stigmatizes Catholic intellect as inferior and debased; votes himself a serf; his children aliens.

I have given the reasons and motives for the course I adopt; they apply equally to you. Let us vote unitedly for Hon. Edward Blake, and earn the gratitude of the country and our own good conscience.

JOSEPH A. DONOVAN.

Good Speed.

Fields of untold wealth; mines of unbounded depth; pastures without end; health giving climate and sparkling waters; raw material in abundance for the fiery furnace, the weaver and the spinner, the metal worker and the artistic jeweler, entrancing views for the lover of nature and the beautiful inspiring alike to the artist's soul and brush and the mind and pen of the literateur; meat for the millions, bread for the toilers of the land; fortune and position for the workers with willing hearts and hands; such are the advantages Colorado presents to the world at large, and the approaching opening of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad through line to Denver, directly linking Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas city, Peoria, Des Moines, Atchison, the progressive cities of the growing West, to the Queen of the Rockies, will bring home to the masses the opportunity perhaps long sought for to explore this famous region.

From the cotton plains of the South and her fertile sugar fields, from the spinning mills of New England, the iron furnaces of Pennsylvania, the marts of commerce of the East and the Old World a new avenue is opened. The manufacturer, the merchant, the tourist, the invalid, the student, the miner, the laborer all have an interest in the new enterprise fostered and brought to a successful issue by the most admirably managed and most advanced railroad of our time. To them it means increase of business, increase of pleasure, improved health, new fields and new scenes, fresh opportunities, advancement and progress.

And while these steel bands will unite new sections of the world into a closer and more intimate relation as regards business and personal welfare, it will also unite hearts and minds, foster new acquaintances, new relations and create for many a new hearthstone, a home in a land of promise.

We hail with unfeigned pleasure the first trip of the iron horse, that greatest of helpers to advance civilization, across the virgin soil of that wonderful land and bid God-speed to the projectors while they wait the formal announcement that the new line is open for passenger traffic, and the banner of the "Great Burlington Route" floats at the base of the Rockies.

GENERAL GARIBALDI.

Death of the Great Italian Patriot—The last hours of his life—A Sketch of his Career.

General Garibaldi died last week at Caprera. His fatal illness was of short duration, but was occasioned by a long existing asthmatic complaint, which developed suddenly into a sharp attack of bronchitis, which was further increased by the great debility of the patient, and he rapidly succumbed to the attack. The news of his critical condition reached the different members of his family residing in Rome and Genoa, and they all immediately started for Caprera, but failed to arrive in time to see the General alive, death taking place some hours previous. The Government, on hearing of his serious illness, sent Dr. Albanese, of Rome, to his bedside, but the doctor could afford him no relief. Gen. Garibaldi died while in a struggle, but was conscious till near the end.

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

Giuseppe Garibaldi was born at Nice, of poor parents, July 22nd, 1807. For some years he followed a sailor's life, and when very young visited Odessa and Rome. In 1832 he was compelled to leave his country for complicity in a conspiracy against the King of Sardinia. In the year 1834 he was again involved in a similar conspiracy, and during his absence from the country was condemned to death. He went to France and then to Tunis. In 1836 he went to South America and fought for the Republic of Rio Grande, then at war with Brazil. In 1841 he was again involved through a series of startling adventures. In 1848 he returned to Rome, and was in the thick of the struggle when the French attacked that city. Garibaldi then went to New York and became a manufacturer of soap and candles. In 1854 he visited England, and was presented with a sword by the people of Newcastle-on-Tyne. He afterwards returned to the Island of Caprera and engaged in farming. Farming pursuits appear to have been too tame for a man of his temperament, and having formed a band of volunteers he fought desperately in the Italian struggle for independence. He was engaged in a struggle for Italian independence and was severely wounded at the battle of Aspromonte. In the year 1864 he was again engaged in the struggle, and was again severely wounded. He was again engaged in the struggle, and was again severely wounded. He was again engaged in the struggle, and was again severely wounded.

Another Manufacturer.
Mr. Slater, the Bradford anti-N. P. cotton manufacturer, made a striking allusion in his speech at Paris in favor of Mr. Paterson last week, when he said that this was the second time he had stood upon a political platform; the first being in England, when he had the honor of nominating the late Lord Frederick Cavendish for one of the ridings of Yorkshire, and who had been so horribly assassinated; and on this occasion it was to support an able and talented gentleman, whom it had been attempted to politically assassinate. But from the spirit he had seen manifested, he believed the political assassin would be brought to justice for their cowardly work on election day.—[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]

Ontario First.

The following view of the case is from the pen of the editor of the Toronto Telegram, an Independent paper: "We may depend upon it that if the newspapers and politicians of Ontario do not stand up for Ontario's interests nobody else will. This consent of the people of this Province was not asked at the time Confederation was proposed, and nothing is more likely than that the policy of French domination and reverence for feeling hostile to a continuance of Ontario in the Confederation. This is a serious thing to contemplate, not serious perhaps for Ontario, but for the Confederation. As far as Ontario is concerned, she would be better off out of the Confederation than in it, as she is now the which cover the rest of the provinces and is kept lean through her constant demands upon her. In questions affecting Ontario's interest, the representatives of Ontario in the Dominion Parliament should be found working side by side. If Ontario's own sons prove untrue to her, where shall she look for justice?"
