From the Pull Mull Gasette.
It would seem as if there were no satisfying the changeful mind of woman. Everybody knows the disastrous effect produced on the knows the disastrous effect produced on the simple village maiden when the versatile Lord of Burleigh drupped the role of painter and showed himself in his true colors. Taking warning by this young lady's sad fate, Mr. Conway, a thoughtful butler, determined to reverse the order of things in the Lord of Burleigh's cruel proceedings. So he went to America chiled himself Hon. Seymour Conway, and wood and won a high born maiden to his wife. He then brought his wife to his buttery in England, where he, of course, dropped the Hon. Seymour part of himself and prepared to settle down to domestic life. But instead of teing delighted at this little surprise the lady is terribly annoyed. It is true she has not instituted divorce proceedings. Courting in fancy dress seems not to be a success which ever way it is tried.
