DUBLIN, Jan. 12.
Capt. White addressed a meeting in the street here to protest against the appointment by the Viceroy of a commission to enquire into the rioting which accompanied the transport workers' strike. He denounced the police and accused them of shameless brutality, strongly condemning what he called the abominable system of castle government. Jim Larkin, leader of the strikers, made a speech also. Referring to Captain White, he said he was the son of the defender of Ladysmith; and that the British flag was a dirty flag, covered with more disease and degradation than any he knew. Capt. White, angered by the insult, left the platform in high dudgeon, and disappeared in the crowd.

PRESIDIO, Texas, Jan. 12.
The scene following the capture on Saturday night of Ojinaga by Villa's forces, after two weeks' fighting, was a fitting climax for the biggest battle ever fought in Northern Mexico. The rebels ran and rode frantically through the streets, shooting the fleeing federals, and wounding the women and camp-followers. Many plunged into the icy waters of the river and struggled across to surrender to American soldiers across the border. The retreat became a rout and many were drowned.

TOKIO, Jan. 12.
A series of slight earthquake shocks shook the town of Kagoshima, in the southern end of the Island of Kiu-Siu, to-day, which were followed by volcanic eruptions from Sakura, a small island in the Gulf of Kogoshima, where two villages were reduced to ashes. The earthquake continued incessantly for some time. Work of rescue by boats has commenced, but ashes are still falling. Sakura is three miles distant from Kagoshima.

LONDON, Jan. 12.
Not for many years have underwriters at Lloyd's faced such heavy marine losses totalling $35,000,000. In eleven months of 1913, there were 5,332 accidents of all descriptions, in vessels of 500 tons gross and upwards. Collisions were responsible for 1,820, strandings for 1,532, weather for 895, fire and explosions 423. No fewer than 216 ships, 62 British and 154 foreign, aggregating 488,190 tons, were totally lost.

ALBANY, Jan. 12.
Should Harry Thaw be admitted to bail and attempt to leave New Hampshire, Attorney General Carmody will try to effect his arrest, and will be supported by the Government in any steps he may take. Carmody refused to acknowledge the validity of the proceedings before Governor Feltner and has advised Jerome to protest against them.

VIENNA, Jan. 12.
Private letters from Avlona depict Albania as the prey of famine and anarchy. Owing to lack of money business is at a standstill. Exports have ceased, and imports are so small that the people face absolute starvation. Flour and meal are at exorbitant prices, and other food can scarcely be maintained.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.
The British schooner Glenatton abandoned and burned to the main deck, was picked up afire in the Gulf of Mexico, and towed to Tampa, Florida, by the revenue cutter which reported her arrival to-day. It is reported that an unknown merchant man finding the Glenatton derelict set her afire.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. H. H. Archibald and Mr. Thos. Hanrahan, arrived from St. John's by Saturday night's train.

Mr. George Parsons, of Grand Bank, also arrived, and will spend a couple of weeks here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Selby Parsons, before returning to his business at Grand Bank.

Mr. David Keefe, of Carbonear, and Miss Sarah Hare, of this town, were united in matrimony at the Cathedral last evening. We wish the young couple much happiness.

The following rhyming particulars of a trip to St. John's on Saturday, may prove amusing, and if not it will give food to critics, so the time spent in penning the lines won't be lost:

We left the town of Harbor Grace With Lee, on the early train;
'Twas there we met and chatted near A man from Southside, Carbonear.

Time passed away quite pleasantly. Of news we both had little lack. Till the brakeman broke in suddenly With "The St. John's train is off the track!"

And here we are just as we write. Perhaps to be stalled right here all night;
But what's the use to pine and fret They'll put her on, we'll get there yet.

We took a stroll along the trail To see the crew at work;
They're rushing all, no drones about Not one his duty shirk.

The welcome news, "she's on again," Soon spread from car to car,
And then we left old Holyrood Naught else our trip to mar.

The train hands all are courteous. Attentive, kind to all.
No trouble to answer questions, They're at your beck and call.

We wish them all a Happy Year, May every train be in on time,
And above all let us hope and pray There'll not be one accident on the line.

Big Blaze On Water Street

DRY GOODS STORE GUTTED—DENTAL PARLORS DAMAGED.

At 7.15 last night fire broke out on the north side of Water Street in the dry goods store of Mr. John Harris, about 300 yards distant from this office, and did considerable damage.

Mr. P. J. Grace, who was passing along Water Street, was the first to discover the fire it appears. He saw smoke issuing from the place and immediately sent in an alarm from box 25, bringing the Central and East End Companies to the scene. When they arrived there was quite a blaze in progress and the fire was well under way in the building. The flames were very threatening and to all appearances matters looked at the outset as if there was going to be a repetition of the conflagration that destroyed the block of buildings on the opposite side of the street six years ago. Scores of citizens gathered round eager to give their services if needed.

The fire started at the rear of Harris's shop and worked its way to the front. When the ceiling caught an outbreak occurred in the dental parlors of Dr. Silliker. The firemen quickly applied a stream of water on the burning building but this could not cope with the flames, which were reaching serious proportions, as the office adjoining to the west of Mr. F. Chesman had caught and was only extinguished by a special effort of the fire brigade. Two more noses were put out and these after operating for 15 minutes succeeded in subduing the flames. An extra stream of "water" played on the dental parlors and extinguished the fire there.

Mr. Harris's shop was completely gutted, while Dr. Silliker's parlors were badly wrecked. The former had $2,000 worth of insurance on his stock. The office of Mr. F. Chesman was damaged by smoke and water but not to very great extent. The building is said to be covered by insurance.

The origin of the fire is unknown so far as the Fire Brigade people could ascertain.

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vitiate the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitiate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffell, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days, was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter been employed with all the latest refinements to affect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Lewes, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—nov8,tf

THE EASTERN TRUST COMPANY.

The business of the The Eastern Trust Company is to administer Trusts. In this work it specializes, and it does no other. But no kind of trust is foreign to its scope or beyond its power to administer efficiently.

The Eastern Trust Company never speculates. It invests. It depends for its prosperity upon the efficiency of its management of its clients' business and upon the security of its investments.

The Eastern Trust Company executes the office of executor or administrator with unexampled efficiency, and its usefulness in this field is becoming rapidly more availed of.

For instance:—In St. John, New Brunswick, where it has quite lately established a branch, the estate of James Ready, of Fairville, which has been sworn to under $651,300.00, is being administered by The Eastern Trust Company as one of the joint executors of Mr. Ready's will.

In Halifax, Nova Scotia, again, The Eastern Trust Company has just been chosen to administer the estate of Captain William Fleming, which is valued at more than half a million dollars.

The Company now administers many estates which is value amount to several millions of dollars. Particulars will appear in later advertisements.

The Eastern Trust Company can execute this function of executor or administrator as efficiently in Newfoundland as it can in Nova Scotia, Quebec, or New Brunswick.

The Eastern Trust Company requires commodious offices on Water Street. Apply to
