

SALADA BUILDING, BOSTON.

This building, situated at Stuart and Berkeley Streets, Boston, is constructed of granite and limestone, and has eight stories and a basement. It is replete with every modern convenience for the speedy and cleanly packing of tea.

Prof. Morrison Legge, the eminent British scientist, in a recent address before the students of Harvard University, described it as "the finest example of commercial architecture he had ever seen."

SALADA BUILDING, TORONTO.

THE THREE LARGEST TEA WAREHOUSES IN THE WORLD.

These three huge warehouses owned and operated exclusively by the Salada Tea Company, are the largest in the world devoted to the blending and packing of tea. In less than 30 years "Salada" has become a household word throughout Canada and the United States and is, indeed, by far the largest selling tea in America. Large quantities are also exported to South America and to Europe.

Besides these buildings in Toronto, Montreal and Boston, other Salada offices are situated in Winnipeg, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, San Francisco and London, Eng. The Company trades only in tea and only in tea of Salada quality, thus assuring undivided attention to the product. Every packet of Salada wherever bought may be relied upon to be of exactly the same fine quality and to yield an unequalled cup of tea. This policy of keeping faith with the public has been responsible for Salada's extraordinary sale.

SALADA BUILDING, MONTREAL.

The magnificent building shown above, situated at the corner of St. Lawrence Blvd. and La Royer Streets, Montreal, will be occupied by the Salada Tea Company about February 1st next. The present building at St. Paul and St. Sulpice Sts. erected 11 years ago, has for some time proved inadequate for the business.

INUNCTION SET ASIDE.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. An injunction against the Shipping Board forbidding the sale of the former German passenger liners, issued by the District of Columbia Supreme Court, on application of William Randolph Hearst, was set aside to-day by the District Court of Appeals. The subsequent action by the Congress authorizing the sale of the ships, the court said, made the question involved as to the Board's powers a "moot" one.

WORST STORM FOR A DECADE.
MONTREAL, Dec. 6. Following protracted rain of the weekend the river level took a jump and is now thirty feet eight inches, or eight inches over highwater mark in a thirty-foot channel and over a foot above Saturday's level. From the standpoint of horticultural and nursery gardeners, the recent storm is the worst in over a decade. A combination of sleet, rain and frost playing havoc with the trees and has caused widespread mortality to young trees. All telephones and telegraph communications between Montreal and Three Rivers has been cut off by the breaking down of many poles.

LONDON, Dec. 6. The Government was again defeated in the House of Lords to-night, when an amendment, proposing a new clause to the Home Rule Bill, offered by the Marquis of Salisbury, was carried by a vote of fifty-one to fifty. This amendment provided that neither a northern or southern parliament should be established until the King's authority and protection of the rights and liberties of all persons in both Northern and Southern Ireland were fully assured and that otherwise an appointed day for putting the act in force should be fixed by the resolution of the Imperial Parliament.

ASKS PRAYER FOR PEACE.
BELFAST, Dec. 6. Archbishop Harty, speaking in Thurles Cathedral yesterday said, "We ought to pray for Irish peace and peace with justice and honour." "I am convinced," he continued, "that continuance of violence would spell ruin for Ireland. In some ways time seems favorable for peace. At least there is a rift in the dark clouds which have been over our country for some time. The Archbishop of Tuam has appealed for a truce of God and Cardinal Logue, Primate of Ireland, has given his blessing to the appeal."

FISH CARRIER ASHORE.
TURKS ISLAND, Dec. 6. The British schooner Glast King ran ashore near Ambergris Cay in the Calcos Group, on December 1st. The crew and passengers on board were saved. HARDING WANTS BETTER TEAM WORK.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. The third and final session of the sixty sixth Congress began to-day with President-Elect Harding in his seat in the Senate. The day of co-operation and friendly relations between the White House and Congress was forecasted by Harding in his short address from the floor of the Senate. Though disclaiming any desire to criticize the present administration Harding declared it one of the ambitions of his four years as chief executive to insure better team work between the two branches of the United States Government.

WANTS ARBITRATION.
MONTREAL, Dec. 6. "We are ready to put men right back to work the very minute that authorities of the company state their willingness to have differences between us decided by an Arbitration Board of any kind." This was a statement made to-day by Jas. Murdoch, delegate of striking railwaymen of Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Co., who is in this city at present conferring with D. H. MacDougall, President of the Company.

MET HEROIC DEATH.
EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 6. Guy Patterson, a pioneer of Hardley, Alta., and his two young daughters, aged seven and four, were burned to death when the Patterson home was destroyed by fire to-day. Patterson's efforts were successful in saving his eldest daughter. In a desperate effort to rescue the two others, he was overcome and died with them. Mrs. Patterson was badly burned in her efforts to save the family.

What a Beak.
As everyone knows, the beaks of birds differ to a certain extent. Few people, however, realize exactly how closely a beak is adapted to do its work. The heron uses its beak as a dagger, and very expert it is in its use in this respect, for which purpose the beak is specially suited. The helmet hornbill uses its beak in exactly the same way as we use a hammer, and its beak is hard and shaped for this use.

The beaks differ because of the birds' different methods of dealing with their food; this is the case with many fish-eating birds. The scissor bill, for instance, differs considerably from the puffin; the short flat beak of the latter bird is made for holding as well as catching fish, but it is also remarkable for another reason. At the base of the beak are certain brightly-colored plates; when the moulting season comes round these plates are shed with the feathers. They appear again, however, the following spring.

The strangest beaks of all are perhaps those belonging to the hind bird of New Zealand, for the beak of the male bird differs from the beak of the female, and when food is found by one to be out of reach of its beak, it is said that the male is called, to see it, with its different shaped beak, it is able to capture the morsel.

A Clock Without Hands.
The ingenuity of the Newfoundland-lander is not surpassed by any people of the world, and this fact is demonstrated daily in their struggle for existence on the deep, and the unique methods which they contrive to overcome the most difficult tasks. Apart from this, they have a genius for the cultivation of the finer arts and this fact was brought forcibly to our attention on Saturday last. A clock whose face, at first seemed a blank with a space in it where the hands of an ordinary time piece would be at 4.20 was shown to us. This space is 1 in. by 3/4 in. in size, where the hours and minutes of the day come into view in their regular order. A pair of discs, one bearing the hours, the other the minutes, are arranged so as to revolve as the hour and minute hands on the "hand-clock," but the dial of this clock is oblivious of all time except the time it is at the moment. It is certainly a clock the motto of which is "Now, this hour is the living present." The piece of mechanism here referred to was made by Mr. Charles McCarthy, architect (a Carbonar man), and it is certainly a piece of work that shows this gentleman to be a skilled artist in this craft of novel construction.

Mainly About People.
Mr. Bradford Norman, Jr. and Mr. Junian R. Sloan, of New York, who met while serving in the navy, and both of whom are prominent in Newport and New York society, have sailed from Vancouver for the Orient on their way to India in quest of big game. They are armed with cameras, still and movie, and will only use weapons when forced to do so. Their tour will include Africa. General Joseph Mangin, who commanded many American troops in the world war, has just been chosen to head the mission sent to South Russia to study General Wrangel and the Anti-Bolshevist situation there. He has eight children, the largest progeny of any allied general who commanded in the world war.

The value of chess as a path finder was shown in the New York experience of Samuel Rzeszewski, the nine year old wizard. He was in the big city but two days when he was able to find his way to the Pennsylvania hotel by treating every locality as a chess board. He recently won a $10 wager from his cousin by marking the maze of streets that intersect the East Side.
