The Pope-Macdonald Letter.

The evidence of Lieut.-Colonels Locher and Bacon, J. Simpson and Messinger Arless, Post Office Clerks, and McGrath, saloon keeper, was taken on Tuesday with regard to the new phase in the Pope-Macdonald letter affair, brought about by Boyes' confession. McGrath stated that Boyes was greatly chagrined when he saw the letter published, and supposed Mr. Young, whom he desired as a political friend to place on his guard against the new political move, would have returned the letter to Pope, and thereby obtain a hold on the late Administration. Another one stated that Boyes informed him early this month that he had written to Mr. Dorion, stating that if a pardon was promised, he would divulge who had taken the Pope-Macdonald letter. An answer was to be sent to the Herald by the 25th May inst. If no answer was then received, he would make a full confession in writing, and leave the country. He stated that he had his confession written at that time.

The evidence of Col. Bacon throws considerable light on the affair, and leads one to believe that the late Government had been made cognizant of the fact that Boyes had abstracted the letter and sent it to Mr. Young, and that no action was taken by them to let the facts be known, or to bring the culprit to punishment. Colonel Bacon says that when he first saw the facsimiles of the writing on the envelope and slip sent to Mr. Young, he at once recognized the handwriting as being that of Thos. Boyes; that he acquainted Mr. Chapleau, Solicitor-General for Quebec, of the conclusion he had arrived at; and that that gentleman, having charge of the enquiry concerning the abstraction of the letter, thanked Col. Bacon for the information and gave him to understand that he would act on it. Mr. Chapleau never did act on it, however, the enquiry was not made, but the cry was raised and persistently reiterated that either Mr. Young or his friends had stolen the letter, and the whole Reform party were made responsible for the theft, and branded as the letter-stealing party.

What earthly object could the then Ministers have in withholding the truth—in covering up the facts from the light—than to blacken the character of their opponents and keep up the accusation of letter-stealing as a set-off to the well-founded charge of charter selling which Reformers preferred against the Government and the party that supported them. The sham charge was kept afloat by every Conservative paper in the country, it was made to do duty at all the elections, and it would have been upheld with the most barefaced effrontery for years to come had the guilty person not made a voluntary confession, and had other corroborative evidence not established the truth of that confession.

The policy of the late Government in this matter is proved to have been mean, contemptible and dishonourable in the highest degree, and is of a piece with their course in other transactions which have lately been brought to light. Their statesmanship is proved to have been but a series of sharp tricks, which a shyster would delight in, but which a high-souled statesman would shrink from as from theft or disgrace. Thank heaven, their day of power is over, but the shame which attaches to these acts will cling to them for many a day to come.

NEW YORK MERCHANTS ON RECIPROCIETY.—A special meeting of the members of the New York Produce Exchange was held on Wednesday, to get an expression of opinion on the proposed renewal of the Reciprocity Treaty with Canada. The meeting was largely attended. The Hon. Mr. Brooks in the course of his remarks, stated that according to official records, there was a balance of ninety-one million dollars in favor of the States while trading with Canada and other British Colonies during the twelve years of the old Treaty, and that the manufactures to those Colonies during the same period were greater than to a dozen countries on this continent and in Europe. One tobacco firm in New York used to sell $2,000,000 worth annually to Canada during the existence of the Treaty, but has done comparatively nothing since 1866. Mr. A. Baxter followed in support of the proposed renewal, and resolutions calling on the Senate to favour it were passed unanimously.

POISONOUS MATE SUGAR.—Some alarm has been occasioned in the vicinity of Chaudiere, in consequence of several cases of poisoning having occurred through eating maple sugar. It was purchased in L'Orignal, and every person who has eaten it has shown symptoms of poisoning. The other evening Dr. Hall was called to visit two children who had eaten some of it; they were suffering severely, but he administered an antidote in time to save their lives. Last Sunday a child died from eating some of this sugar. The attention of the authorities has been called to the matter. It is supposed the sugar was boiled in copper kettles and allowed to stand long enough for verdigris to become mixed with it.

A Startling Prophecy.

A writer in the New York Daily Graphic who signs himself "Jeremiah," makes the following startling prophecy: "I warned the people through your columns some weeks ago that a financial panic and failure of the crops was sure to come to pass before the end of the present year. And now I make the further prophecy that pestilence and vast and terrible convulsions of nature are at hand."

"It is given to me to see these things clearly; but I fear the people will not believe in them till they have actually arrived. And yet how can they fail to read the signs of the times? Look at the great temperance revival sweeping over the country. It means that there is something in the air that stimulates men and women to a strange exaltation of the moral faculties. We see the same thing intensified in North Carolina, in the region where the earthquake is shaking the country. History tells us that these spiritual disturbances are closely connected with the unknown force that produces the earthquake and the volcano. The earthquake is close at hand, and it will surpass that which terrified the people in 1775. The breaking out of a volcano in North Carolina may probably avert to some extent the ruin that is otherwise impending, but nevertheless, our whole Atlantic seaboard is to be shaken to its foundation, and New York city is to be destroyed, either by the earthquake or the equally terrible tidal wave."

"The pestilence will follow the earthquake. Before the summer is over the cholera will stalk through the crumbling ruins of our seaboard cities. It is coming, and no precaution of quarantining will be able to stay its march. "Through these things are the punishment of a wicked nation, they will come through natural causes. The early spring, followed by a late frost, will cut off the crops. The subtle presence in the atmosphere of a strange element connected with the earthquake will produce religious excitement. The poison let loose by the opening earth will breed the pestilence. But let not people fancy that there is not a power that controls nature. The nation that forgets God will be chastised—whether by war or famine or earthquake or pestilence. We have fought Him and we shall be made to suffer. You scoff at me to-day as a religious fanatic. I summons you to meet me six months hence. You will not scoff then, but you will comprehend the heavy burden that is laid upon the man who forces these calamities in the near future, and knows that no power can stay them."
