An Evening With the Microscope.

An Evening With the Microscope.

A goodly number of microscopists filled the lecture room of the Collegiate Institute last night to hear the lecture given by Principal Merchant to the members of the Microscopical Section, of this city, upon "Miscroscopial Projection." He ably illustrated his discourse with the aid of a magnificent projecting lantern and microscope and various physical apparatus in posession of the school. The projections of crystallization and crystals in polarized light were lization and crystals in polarized light were beautiful. The saw of the saw fly was propected upon the screen three feet in length.

The electric arc was beautifully shown, the carbons appearing two feet or more in diameter. At the close of the lecture a vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. Denton for the beautiful and instructive discourse, Verdict for the Dector.

The London Election Scandal. The following from the Ottawa Journal, whose editor is one of the most fair and respected writers on the Conservative press, expresses the view of all impartial and honest men upon the case. It is the conclusion of a long and able review of the facts from the first. After stating Judge Elliot's final decision the writer says:

Elliot's final decision the writer says:

"There was no legal appeal against this. Nothing remained for the Liberals but the step which Mr. Lister is attempting in Parliament—the impeachment of the judge. Mr. Lister alleges a further fact, of which we know nothing, that during all this contesting in London, Judge Elliot was writing Conservative articles in the Free Press, the Conservative apper there. The truth of this would be damning; but to our mind proof of it is not needed to cause honest Canadians to blush at the dishonor of the London Conservatives and of the of the London Conservatives and of the county judge of Middlesex."

Their Attempt to Divert Attention from the Elliot Indictment,

The Indignant Disclaimer of a Respected Italian Citizen.

It is really becoming amusing to see the efforts of our esteemed local contemporary to divert attention from the gravity of the real charges made against Judge Elliot, Mr. Carling and their associates, as introduced in the House of Company by the Mr. Carling and their associates, as intro-duced in the House of Commons, by the most childish quibbles—quibbles rendered the more lauguable by the fact that the question of one or more names on the in-dictment is not of the slightest consequence to the force and validity of that document, which has created so much consternation in certain circles. The very latest fit of hysterics is seen in the Free Press of to-day, and it concerns a highly respected Italian citizen. Here it is, the flaring head-lines omitted:

lines onitted:

Among the names signed to the petition for the impeachment of Judge Elliot appears that of Mr. C. Paladino, an Italian citizen residing on Queen's avenue west. Mr. Paladino states that he had no intention of signing any paper against the judge, and that he was tricked into so doing by the false representations of two strange men who called at his house. He declares that he would not have signed it had he been made aware of what the paper was about, or the use that was to be made of it. Mr. Paladino was called upon yesterday afternoon by two gentlemen who had heard of his dilenima, and the following conversation passed:

MR. C. PALADINO INTERVIEWED.

— Mr. Paladino, you are reported to say your name was put on the petition against Judge Elliot without your knowing what it was to be the said and asked me to sign my name to a paper.

— Delid they read it over to you?

per. depth of the per to you?

Did they read it over to you?

No! no! They said it was for Mr. Carand Judge Elilot, and I signed my name iout any more thinking.

Did you know the names of the men who ed with the paper?

No. I don't know them by name. They e Englishmen.

were Englishmen.
Q.—Do you read English?
A.—No, only Italian; but I sign my name all right. My wife and daughter read English.
Q.—How did you find out what paper you had signed? A.—Well, it was this way. My daughter was reading over the newspaper, and she say,

A.—Well, it was this way. My daughter was reading over the newspaper, and she say, "Oh, papa, here is your name signed to something!" Then I get her to tell me what it is, Q.—And you really did not know you had signed any paper against Judge Elliot?
A.—Oh, no, no; I have voted for Mr. Carling ver since I came to this country.
Q.—How long is that ago.

-Now nineteen years.
-And you supported Mr. Carling all that time?

A.—Yes, all the time I was in the country.
Q.—They played a had trick on you in getting you to sign that paper against the judge?
A.—Yes, I think they did. I do not like it,
It was not a nice trick. I would not have signed the paper if I had known what it was.

Knowing that the sensational extrava-gances which our respected contemporary worked off during the campaign were the worked off during the campaign were the products of a hectic imagination, and thinking this one no exception to the rule, an ADVERTISER reporter called at Mr. Paladino's residence, Queen's avenue, this morning. He found Mr. Paladino, sen., and his son, Mr. Lui Paladino, sen., and his son, Mr. Lui Paladino at home, both in the best of health. Their first remarks were those of indignation at the gross misrepresentation with which the Free Press had astonished them.

The whole story in the Free Press was a gross misrepresentation and it was obtained by a mean trick. Mr. Paladino again asserted that he knew what he was doing when he signed the petition against Judge Elliot, and he could give the reasons for so doing.

And so another of these little wind bubbles has been pricked. Not one of the F. P.s' alleged sensations has been a success.

DEATH IN THE BLAST.

BARRISTERS. 418 Talbot Street, - London-

April 1st of Spring Not an All Fool's Day at the Mammoth.

We thank the ladies for their presence at our opening. It means a great deal to the women of London, and indeed women outside. They crowd into our splendid store and peer around, and buy, too.

Major Nichol, the popular and experienced floor-walker and escort, was taxed to the extent of his capabilities, and appeared at his best, as usual on state occasions like this.

THEY CAME IN COUPLES, THEY CAME IN DOZENS. THEY CAME IN SCORES, THEY CAME IN CROWDS.

Ladies were buzzing about with questions, exclamations of delight and surprised pleasure.

The new color is a comof tints. It is called Nacre, and shades from creamy yellow to sea shell pink, with a suspicion of blue and a vague grey. There are also mother of pearl shades. Looking at them together one wonders which are naturally
