Thistles Accept Suggestion To Play Shamrocks For Charity

CHARITY OFFERS SHAMROCKS CHANCE TO PLAY THISTLES

Long-Drawn Out Controversy Between Two Teams May Be Settled in Face of Sweet Charity's Pleading-And Its Echo by Fans.

Last night the Thistles, last year's champions of the city Basketball League, were asked if they'd play a game with Shamrocks for a city charity. They accepted with alacrity, and the reverberations from their hearty affirmative reply were still echoing around at a late hour. Whether Shamrocks received the proposition to sleep on or not could not be discovered, but if they didn't the stion will be popped at them today.

The fans have supported Shamrocks wholeheartedly, but the demand is again growing for Shamrocks to settle the local basketball controversy for good this season. Another year and the Shamrocks will resemble very little the original team which gave London wide advertising in girls' basketball, and through their own efforts gave this particular brand of basketball an unprecedented drawing ower. They've probably reached the peak, however, in this regard, but in reaching it they've given the fans a look over some of the best girls' basketbali teams playing the game. London fans, even that portion who would favor Thistle's chances in a tilt between the two teams, must always pay tribute to the Colleens for the way in which they pioneered in girls' basketball and created a following for themselves to which London's best basketball teams of the future will fall heir.

Fair-minded fans, however, argue that while Shamrocks have done something permanent in sport for London, they owe something to the city in return. A game or series between Thisties and Shamrocks for some deserving charity has been suggested from many quarters as one way the almost-intact original Shamrock team can give, perhaps, a final test of their good sportsmanship, and as the one way in which a long-drawn-out controversy would be settled to the satisfaction of everyone interested.

It is strongly urged, too, that Sham-settled to the satisfaction of everyone interested.

It is gtrongly urged, too, that Shamrocks in another year will have ceased to be "The Shamrocks"; that only a game with Thistles can give them the right to retire with no room for blotches on their record or inferences which have been made from time to time that they are not the best girls' team the city can produce.

What they are interested in is that the wo teams meet under circumstances air to both. is to both.

Shamrocks have probably gauged, if they are using their usual shrewdness, the fact that for this season at least the attraction of American teams is on the wane. There is only their final came in the L. O. B. A. to be played, and their program should be clear for a series with the. Thistles or even a sudden death game. Charity would be the gainer, however, if a series were played, and it would be far from boresome for the fans.

In the future no player will be permitted to play for more than one team during the season, which will do away with all transfers. Towns or cities of more than 2,000 popula-tion must play in a league before being eligible for Canadian playoffs.

Two teams of five bowlers from the St. Thomas Council of the Knights of Columbus were defeated by their London brethren at the National Alleys last night. The visitors took but one game of the series, winning it by the margin of 4 pins. They tied the locals in the final game of one set. W. Moisse of London and H. Ryan of St. Thomas were tied for high single game with 224. The former, however, continued his good bowling and had the best aggregate Store with 569.
