Alike Hasten to Repudlate Sentiment.

Montreal, Jan. 10.-Numerous English Canadian newspapers to-day printed extracts from an extraoid pary editorial in La Semaine Religieuse, a journal of Quebec, in which the editor openly exults over the defeats in South Africa, hopes for the breaking up of the British Empire, which he describes as a colossus with feet of clay, and rejoices in the alleged prospects of the overthrow of British domination in Canada and the establishment of a French-Canadian nation. The writer proceeds to argue that it is Liberalism which has in the past sustained British dominancy in Quebec and the French-Canadians. the defeats in South Africa, hopes for ancy in Quebec and the French-Canadians ideal can only be achieved by ridding itself of Liberaliam. The editor of the paper is Abbe Gosseiln.

La Presse, the leading French Conservative paper, protests strongly against th article to-night. It says: The duty is im article to-night. It says: 'The duty is imposed upon us of making a solemn protest against the inexplicible article of La Semsine Religieuse of Quebec, on the war in South Africa. This article goes Leyond the bounds of criticism to enter the realm of justice, disloyalty and even treason. To say that French-Canadians are oppressed by the English, is nameless falsity. If there is a people free in its politics, in its social life, in its language, in its laws, in its worship, it is indeed the French people of Quebec. Nothing shows yet that England is a colossus with feet of clay. In any case it is not for us to wish it, since its fall would throw us into an American Moloch, We do not hesitate to believe that this part of the article passed surreptitously into a publication clothed with character so serious."

character so serious."

Archbishop Bruchesi being interviewed said he had not seen the original article, and could not discuss it from a possibly incorrect translation, but from what he heard of it he concluded that it had been brinted on the authority of the priest who was editor, and not by authority of the Archbishop of Quebec. His own views on the war were the same as he expressed at midnight mass on New Year's eyening. On that occasion, he revenentially expressed hope for the British success.

Louis Frechette, the well-known writer. said he was sure Archbishop Begin would repudiate the article as soon as he had his attention ca'led to it.

Just as the officials of the state department expected, it amounted to a partial answer, very satisfactory as far as it goes, disposing of the character of some of the goods seized, but not finally deciding broadly whether or not foodstuffs are to be regarded as contraband of war. The British government adopts precisely the point garded as contraband of war. The British government adopts precisely the point of view regarding the seized goods that was assumed by the state department and embodied Mr. Choate in his note on the subject addressed to the British foreign office. The British government is investigating the facts in connection with goods seized on the third vessel, the Beatrice.

Later in the day the official statement was given out by the state department. A telegram has been received from Ambassador Choate reporting an interview had by him with the Marquis of Salistour, on the afternoon of the 10th inst. in regard to the American shipments of flour and provisions on the detained steamers Beatrice and Mashona and the Dutch steamer Maria. The British position as to foodstuffs and destination, is that they can only be considered contraband of war if supplied to the enemy's forces, it not being sou used, but it must be shown that this was their destination at the time of their seizure. This qualification virtually concedes the American contention that the goods were not subject to seizure and practically disavows the seizure, it being claimed that there is any evidence of hostile destination.
