A JAPANESE ROBIN HOOD.

Whose Memory and a Chip From Whose Headstone are Considered Talismans in Games of Chance.

(The Argonaut)

Behind the temple sacred to the nameless dead, and close to the wrestling amphitheatre in Tokio, there is to be found the grave of the celebrated robber Nezumi Koro, who stole from the daimyos long ago in the old Yedo days that he might relieve the sufferings of the poor.

There is a superstition connected with his grave which has made it a much frequented spot. If a portion of the headstone is carried away it acts as a lucky talisman, particularly to those who speculate or are otherwise engaged in games of chance. It is usual for a person breaking a piece from the stone to make a vow that in case he is successful he will buy a new headstone to replace the one he mutilated.

Many prayers must have been answered, for the stones are piled high on either side of the grave, and an enterprising individual near-by has the stones already for sale, and only waiting the name of the donor to be engraved and then set up.

A shelter has been placed over the spot, and from the roof hang gay lanterns and pilgrims' banners. A large money box catches all the stray sen which go for the upkeep of the grave. Gamblers and geisha are often visitors; students before their examination feel more assured of success if they have a chip of Nezumi Koro's headstone in the sleeves of their kimonos.

GUARDING RUSSIAN ROYAL FAMILY.

(Pall Mall Gazette.)

The Dowager Empress of Russia, who arrived at Sandringham recently generally travels all the way from Russia in her own special train, which remains at Calais until her return. The train, which is bombproof and is most luxuriously fitted up, is placed on a siding and guarded by a special staff. A couple of years ago, when the Empress paid a visit to her daughter the Grand Duchess Xenia, at Biarritz, the train was left at Bayonne in charge of Cossacks, whose picturesque dress was a source of much interest to the population.

A curious story is told by the Czar himself of an episode that occurred during his visit to Queen Victoria at Balmoral many years ago. When out one day in Balmoral forest, he asked his way of a gillie, who, to his surprise, answered in Russian. On inquiring what he was doing in the wilds of Scotland the man informed the Czar that he was a member of the Russian secret police and was there to watch over the safety of his imperial master.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks, the sores have healed, and best of all, the hair is growing well, and is not white as is most always the case in horse wounds.

THE CARE OF CREAM FOR BUTTERMAKING.

- If the cream is not pasteurized provide for cooling it quickly when delivered to the creamery.
- Provide an abundant supply of good, pure water for the creamery.
- Provide cold storage that will keep the butter at about forty degrees or lower.
- Support your buttermaker in dealing firmly with patrons who send cream which is not in good condition.
- Attend personally, as far as possible, to the taking in, sampling and testing of the cream.
- Keep your creamery clean, bright and tidy. Also yourself and assistants.
- Be satisfied only with the finest quality of butter, the cleanest and the most attractive surroundings.

Copies of this bulletin may be obtained free for each patron of a creamery by application to Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, Ottawa.

Suffragette Plot Against Mr. Asquith

Four Women Brought Before Dublin Court on Serious Charges.—Gunpowder Was Found in Possession of the Prisoners.

Dublin, July 19—Mary Leigh, Gladys Evans, Lizzie Bailey and Mary Coffey appeared in the Police Court here today on the charge of throwing hatchets at Prime Minister Asquith, of attempting to set fire to a theatre, and with having in their possession inflammables for illegal purposes. All the accused were committed for trial.

MANY LIVES ENDANGERED.

The police testified that a canister which apparently contained gunpowder had been exploded in the theatre. They had found on Gladys Evans a bag of gun powder, a portion of the theatre carpet saturated with petrol and a basket full of lighters. Three bottles of benzine and a tin of gunpowder also had been discovered by the police authorities, and their testimony brought out the fact that many lives had been endangered by the fire. The Leigh woman admitted hurling the hatchet at Mr. Asquith's carriage.

CAUSED A PANIC.

Eight women have been taken into custody by the police in connection with the outrages.

A blazing chair was thrown into the orchestra from a box occupied by two women, who then set fire to the box curtains. Their act causing a panic among the audience.

TRIED TO BRAIN PREMIER.

The eight suffragettes are also charged with complicity in an attempt to injure Mr. Asquith; throwing a hatchet at the Premier's carriage as the party was proceeding from the wharf to a hotel. Mrs. Mary Leigh, one of the suffragettes under arrest, was identified this morning as the thrower of the hatchet. The woman, it is alleged by the police, intended to brain Mr. Asquith.

Mrs. Leigh has long been a leader in the violent tactics adopted by the militant suffragettes.

THREE THOUSAND PERSONS MADE HOMELESS BY CYCLONE IN COLORADO.

Denver, Col., July 16—Mayor Arnold estimates the total damage of Sunday's flood here at $4,000,000. He itemized his estimate as follows—

Damage to city property including sewers, parking, bridges, street surfacing and city shops, $500,000.

Damage to private property including warehouses, $500,000.

Damage to personal property, $1,000,000.

Damage to crops and irrigation projects in vicinity of Denver, $2,000,000.

It is estimated that 3,000 people were made homeless, a dozen people reported missing are yet to be accounted for.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR CANADA FRUIT.

Ottawa, July 15—The Canada trade commissioner at Birmingham, Mr. Ray, in a communication to the trade and commerce department, gives fruit shippers an important tip on the advisability of shipping straight lines of not more than six varieties. Large assortments he says, are the source of loss and disappointment on both sides. There will be a heavy demand in the old country for Canadian fruit this season.

The Boston Transcript, in commenting upon the nomination of Governor Wilson, says:—"So we are to have real campaign at last. We shall not have a walkover like the last three national struggles but a contest whose incidents are sure to be full of excitement and thrills. Three such engrossing figures as Taft, Wilson and Roosevelt never entered a presidential contest in our time. We are certainly living in a remarkable and moving age."

Serious Auto Accident Near St. John

St. John, July 18—An automobile accident, notable because of the prominence of the people concerned in it, as well as the miraculous nature of their escape, occurred this afternoon on the Devil's Back near the city on St. John River.

James Manchester, of Manchester Robertson and Allison, and president of the Bank of New Brunswick with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Guernsey, were on the way from Gagetown to St. John in a powerful Russell touring car. Roy Foley, of St. John, was the chauffeur.

Coming down the steep hill over the Devil's Back, the steering gear of the car went wrong and the auto, with its occupants, plunged off the road and into the brush. It turned over twice in the flight but righted itself and when found was standing on its wheels with the occupants under the bottom of the car. All were stunned.

CHAUFFEUR PULLED OCCUPANTS OUT.

Foley was the first to come to and he pulled Mr. and Mrs. Manchester and Mr. and Mrs. Guernsey out. It was found that Mrs. Guernsey was seriously injured and it was not deemed advisable to bring her to the city. She has two ribs broken and it is feared injured internally.

Mr. Guernsey was cut and injured about the chest. Mrs. Manchester who is an elderly woman is suffering from shock, while Mr. Manchester was most fortunate of all, as he was scarcely scratched. The car was considerably damaged.

Medical aid was summoned from Oak Point and mechanics from a city garage went out to bring the damaged car into the city. Mr. and Mrs. Manchester returned to their homes in another car late tonight.

The spot where the accident occurred is one of the most dangerous along the river. Had the car gone off the road on the other side, the party would have been precipitated over a high cliff and probably all would have been killed.

BRIDGE OF THE SEAS.

The Isthmus From Which Every Other Isthmus Has Been Named.

The "Bridge of the Seas" is the striking name which I'ndar gives to the narrow Isthmus which connects the gulf of Corinth with the Aegean sea. It is one of the most interesting strips of soil on the five continents. It is the isthmus (an excellence of all the world, for I'ndar's Greek name, Isthmia, every other Isthmus has been named).

The ancients were not good sailors. They never went by sea where they could conveniently go by land, and to cross this narrow neck of land, only four miles wide, saved them many a weary league of sailing around a stormy coast in going from the Peloponnese to Attica and indeed from Europe to Asia.

The southern point of Attica was especially dangerous, and an old proverb used to run, "When you are rounding Cape Malla forget all you have at home." Indeed, navigation in these seas was almost wholly abandoned in the winter months, and we remember that in the graphic account of St. Paul's shipwreck he advised the captain to winter in the Cretan harbor of Fair Havens. Through disregarding this advice disaster came to ship and crew and prisoners alike.

No wonder, then, that the Isthmus, which the ancient city of Corinth dominated, became at one time the busiest and perhaps the most notable strip of land which the world knew. More battles have been fought, more dynasties established or dethroned, just here in all probability than in any other spot on the earth's surface.—Christian Herald.

A ROYAL FEATHER CLOAK.

Kalakaou Couldn't Wear It, and His Groom Disgraced It.

When King Kalakaou of Hawaii visited Japan many years ago he was very anxious to exhibit to the Japanese his famous royal feather cloak. It did not look well draped over the regular costume of the king, which was based on European military models. It was out of the question to wear it draped over a brown tunic, as was the ancient fashion. Finally it was decided to let Robert, one of his attendants, wear it.

William N. Armstrong, the king's attorney general, said: "This additional service delighted Robert, who now, according to a confidential statement made to his Japanese attendant, was 'keeper of the royal standard,' 'groom of the feather cloak' and 'valet in ordinary.' While in the imperial car, on the way to Tokyo, the king's suit had suddenly seen Robert sitting in state in the luggage car dressed in a silk hat, white gloves and with the gorgeous royal cloak hanging over his shoulders, the tableau being completed by a group of Japanese attendants who were standing before him lost in admiration."

"But Robert was scarcely equal to the dignity that was his. In his capacity of valet he preceded the party to the palace assigned to them and discovered there abundance of wines and spirits, which he consumed until they arrived. He was found asleep in the king's bed-chamber with the silk hat far down over his head and the gorgeous cloak askew on his shoulders. He was at once deposed from his office of 'groom of the feather cloak.'"

At Least He Hesitated.

A group of St. Louis men were discussing a banker in that city who has the reputation of hard bargaining, close fistness and who invariably gets his pound of flesh.

"Oh, well," said a man present who hadn't taken part in the general banter, "he isn't so bad. I went in to see him the other day to get a loan of $10,000, and he treated me very courteously."

"Did he lend you the money?"

"No, he didn't lend it to me, but he hesitated before he refused."—Saturday Evening Post.
