DEATH OF THE ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY.

His Grace the most Rev. Charles Thomas Longley, D.D., Archbishop of Canterbury, died on Wednesday, October 2nd, aged 74. His death appears to have been quite unexpected, as no previous announcement of his illness had been received.

Charles Thomas Longley, Archbishop of Canterbury and Primate of all England, at the time of his death was in his seventy-fourth year, being born in 1794. He was the fifth son of the late Mr. John Longley, Recorder of Rochester, and afterwards Resident Magistrate of the Thames Police Court. Dr. Longley was educated at Westminster school, whence he proceeded to Christ Church, Oxford, where he graduated in 1815, taking the very highest rank in classics. He was appointed public examiner in the year 1825, and, having filled the office of tutor and censor of Christ Church, he was rewarded by his college with the incumbency of Cowley, a small benefice in the immediate vicinity of Oxford. In 1827 he was presented to the rectory of West Tytherly, in Hampshire, and in this position he continued for the two years following.

In 1829 Dr. Longley was elected by the trustees to the headmastership of Harrow school. While in the enjoyment of this office and in the year 1831 he married
