

"Each generation is entitled to the interest on the natural capital, the principal should be handed on unimpaired."

Canadian Commission on Conservation, 1915

"Sustainable development is widely defined as a way of thinking and behaving that ... meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs."

The Brundtland Commission, 1987

"To act for Canada and all Canadians to enhance their economic, social and environmental well-being and to work towards a peaceful world reflective of Canadian values and culture."

Civil Sector Consultation Report
March 1997

