

Parentetically, according to a recent Amnesty International report, Women in the Front Lines: Human Rights Violations Against Women, human rights violations against women, including rape, sexual humiliation, threats of rape and physical violence intended to degrade, humiliate, and intimidate, occur on a world-wide scale, and are particularly evident in situations of political conflict (Amnesty International, Women in the Front Lines: Human Rights Violations Against Women, Amnesty International Publications, New York, 1991).