Men's Fur-Lined Coats

This is one of the most important branches of our business. We have made a study of the wants of this department for many years and we think it is safe to say that we give better value in Men's Fur-lined Coats to-day than anywhere else in Canada. We buy the muskrat that is used in the lining direct from the trappers. The otter skins are got in the same way. We import the cloths that are in the shells from the manufacturers in England. The shells are made by our own tailors, so that the public are only paying one advance--there are no middleman's profits.

Men's Fur-lined Coats, shells of English beaver cloth, lined with good natural dark muskrat to the bottom, 50 inches long, with good natural otter or Persian lamb collar, price $50.00.

Extra fine beaver shell, 50 inches long, lined with muskrat and otter collar, $65.00.

Men's Fur-lined Coats, with dark Russian rat linings, extra choice otter collar, either shawl or notched, price $125.00.

Mail orders for any of these Coats will receive prompt attention. Money can be remitted by post office or express order. Express charges prepaid.

HAMILTON HAPPENINGS
 WILL SEEK A SITE FOR CHILDREN'S SHELTER

Arguments of Children's Aid Society Satisfactory to Hamilton Board of Control.

HAMILTON, Sept. 9.—(Special.)—At the meeting of the special committee, appointed by the board of control to secure information about the children's shelter, tonight, the replies to the questions sent by the Children's Aid Society were considered. The society outlined again the arguments its representatives made to the city council, and these were found by the committee to be satisfactory. The society made no suggestion as to a site, and the committee appointed a sub-committee to look over sites, with or without buildings, of a value of $5000, such sub-committee to report as soon as possible.

At the executive meeting of the Hamilton Rowing Club to-night the proposition that the club should enter a senior team in the C.R.F.U. was brought up and discussed. All the rowers were heartily in favor of the idea. Another meeting will be held to-morrow to come to a decision on the matter.

WHY PROTECTION IS ESSENTIAL TO CANADA

trial rank her choice of a policy of moderate protection was wise. Certainly, if practical results are to be the gauge, it has been fully justified.

When this test is applied to Canada, the value attaching to the National Policy can hardly be underestimated. Canada's progress along every line of national life and work has been phenomenal, and in none more remarkable than in her industrial expansion. According to the statistics of industries given in The Canadian Year Book for 1909 the total value of articles produced were: In 1881, $309,676,068; in 1891, $469,847,836; in 1901, $481,053,275, and in 1908, $718,352,602. In 1908, the last for which figures are available, the number of establishments was 15,796; the capital employed, $846,585,023; the wage-earners numbered 356,024, and the wages paid for labor totaled $134,375,925. The last Canadian census, taken in 1900, showed that the value of manufactured goods, excluding factories employing less than five hands, produced in that year ($481,053,275.00) was only $30,000,000 less than the combined value of the production of the agricultural, mineral, forest and fishing industries of the Dominion. Looking to the way in which the natural resources of the country have been opened up in more recent years, the advance in Canadian manufacturing industries must be even more extraordinary. Manifestly any interference with this vast industrial fabric, holding within itself so much potential growth, would be ill-advised and must necessarily be followed by serious and widespread depression.

The Cause and Effect. When the National Policy was laid before the country its success did not depend on the industrial, but on the agricultural, population. In the seventies the farmers of Canada were themselves suffering from foreign competition, and as the United States had closed its markets by refusing to renew the reciprocity agreement, they were ready to support a proposal that promised to develop and protect their home market.

The National Policy was designed frankly in the interests of Canada. It proposed to create an industrial population that would give the farmer a market at his own door and to expand the agricultural population that would in turn buy the products of Canadian industries. It has done both, and not only this, but it has compelled United States manufacturers to come to the Dominion and to assist in its industrial expansion.

Canada has been prosperous and is prospering under the National Policy, and all who have a care that the country shall continue to develop all its industrial and manufacturing resources which it is naturally fitted, should hesitate to disturb a system productive of so many great benefits.

The reasons for the continuance of the National Policy are even stronger to-day than they were in 1859. At that time, and for years, the United States produced more food products than it needed and exported the surplus, a situation that constantly told against the Canadian agriculturist. Its manufacturers did no more than keep pace with the increased demand caused by its enlarging population, and it had not begun to compete seriously in foreign markets. But a complete change has come with the 20th century. The United States will no longer be able to export grain that is required for home consumption, while, on the other hand, it must find a market for its surplus manufactures. And, as Mr. Thurber, president of the United States Export Association, frankly stated before the industrial commission: "Our problem is to keep our labor and capital continuously and remuneratively employed by preserving our home market and reaching out for a place to dump our surplus. We sell abroad for any price we can get."

Dumping Ground for U. S. The Dominion is the natural and most convenient dumping ground for the United States surplus products and United States manufacturers are ready to sell at any price that will enable them to force an entrance. Some protection against this unfair competition is supplied by the moderate Canadian tariff now in force, and by the dumping provision which enables an excess duty to be imposed in cases where goods are sold at less prices than are current in the United States. To remove the protection of the tariff or to reduce it to a point which enables United States manufacturers to destroy the profit of the Canadian producer, plainly means disaster to Canadian industries.

Nor will the United States manufacturer be inclined to manufacture in Canada when he can enter the Canadian market without going to that trouble and expense. It is the prospect of being able to buy agricultural implements at lower price that is luring the western grain growers to agitate for free trade, and they accuse Canadian manufacturers of selfishness because these oppose this demand. But are the grain growers themselves free from the reproach of unpatriotism when they calmly urge that Canadian industries be sacrificed or injured to enhance their profits a trifle in the year?

As Sir John Macdonald remarked: "No country is great with only one industry. Agriculture is our most important, but it cannot be our only staple." Canada a nation is only possible when not the good of one section alone is considered, but the good of all sections. At great cost and pains the Canadian people rescued themselves from industrial bondage to the United States. They stand now free, independent, patriotic, self-sustaining and laying the foundations wide and deep and stable of a magnificent agricultural and industrial fabric, beneficial to the whole state. Why tamper with the policy that has made this possible and will make it a reality?

PARALYSIS EPIDEMIC SPREADS

Hundred Cases in Hamilton—New Case in Toronto.

HAMILTON, Sept. 9.—The dread epidemic infantile paralysis, which is spreading over Ontario, is growing in Hamilton, and it is estimated that there are over a hundred cases here.

Yesterday the disease claimed another adult, and to-day two more adult cases were reported.

At Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 9.—Considerable concern is being felt in this city regarding the outbreak of what is diagnosed to be infantile paralysis. A number of cases have developed, and not only children but older persons are attacked. This disease has appeared in the New England States.

Another case of infant paralysis, that of a child three years old, was reported yesterday.

"Medical men are reporting all forms of infant paralysis to me," said Dr. Sheard. "These may be regarded as mainly affection of the spinal cord. There is no occasion for alarm; no indications of any contagious disease have been discovered. The form of the disease in Toronto is quite different from that existing in Hamilton."

Double Drowning. MOOSEVA, Sept. 9.—A double drowning fatality occurred here last evening in an attempt to change places in a boat when in the centre of the river. Jos. When in exchanging seats the boat upset. Laing and Montgomery were drowned.

C. N. R. BALKED

May Have to Change its Plans From Edmonton to Yellowhead Pass. WINNIPEG, Sept. 9.—(Special.)—The Canadian Northern Railway is again balked in its efforts to locate its line west from Edmonton towards the Yellowhead Pass. Unless the C.N.R. can convince the railway commission of the necessity for running parallel to the G.T.P., material change in plans will be required. It is probable that the C.N.R. may find it necessary to run south of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Interesting and vigorous representations are to be made to the railway commission on behalf of the C.N.R. In the meantime, work on the line west of St. Albert is abandoned, although the Alberta Government to build a certain distance this year.
