

HARTWICK MAY GO TO ASYLUM

If Committed To March Assizes Could Not Be Kept in the Jail.

Will James Hartwick, the accused murderer of his wife, Jane Anna Hartwick, be kept in the county jail until the time of his trial, or will he be committed to the asylum until March, when the assizes will be held?

The above is a question which concerns no less than forty prisoners at present "doing time" in the local jail.

Despite all statements to the contrary, Hartwick has been, and is at present, making life a burden for everybody at the jail, and for those living within hearing distance of the place, by an almost incessant volley of shrieks and howls, such as only emanate from the throat of a madman.

For the first time since his arrest Hartwick yesterday partook of something other than a mere slice of toast. He ate a little meat and drank some coffee, besides tasting of a few slices of potatoes.

So far as can be learned, no prisoner showing signs of insanity and charged with an indictable offense has ever been taken from the jail to the asylum until the time of trial.

It was stated at the county jail this morning that if Hartwick is not removed the other prisoners might soon be reduced to a state closely bordering on insanity by listening to his awful shrieks and yells, which not only continue throughout the day, but become worse at night. It is said that the other prisoners have been able to procure sleep since Hartwick's arrest. This condition of things naturally cannot go on for months without bad results of some kind.

It is the custom at the jail to work all prisoners convicted of non-indictable offenses, and these men cannot be of much service unless they get their regular sleep.

It has been stated that a special order might be made in the present case, whereby Hartwick could be taken to the asylum and held until March 23, the probable date of his trial, if committed.

He has, however, decided to go to Calgary, where he has accepted an offer of a lucrative partnership with one of the leading physicians of that city, and leaves on Monday morning.

Dr. Birch is a graduate of the Western Medical College, and was appointed house surgeon at Victoria Hospital in May last. He has always shown a deep interest in the work and has also taken a leading part in all the social affairs there. A NEW ASYLUM

Vincial Secretary. If he reports that a large addition is necessary, a movement will be commenced for a new asylum located in another part of the peninsula. Nothing definite could be learned regarding the results of the conference.

"Another asylum will be built in Western Ontario within the next two years," said a prominent Conservative today. "The London institution is too small at present for the needs of this part of the Province, and will have to be enlarged; in fact, there are too many patients there now for the buildings. Asylum work can be done where the asylums are not too large, and it is from that fact that I base my opinion that a new one will be built. Of course, I have heard other things, too. I cannot tell where it will be located, but I fancy it will be placed at Sarnia. That is the home town of Dr. Sarnia, the Secretary, and he will do what he can for it. I may be mistaken, but see if a new one is not built soon."

Local officials profess to know nothing of the matter.

SAD SCENES AT LISBON

King Carlos' Family Break Down at Bier of the Dead.

Lisbon, Feb. 7.—The body of King Carlos was placed in his coffin yesterday, after which the queen mother, Marie Pia, Queen Amelia, his wife, and Manuel, his son, were admitted to view the remains. The two queens and the young king broke down and wept bitterly. Maria Pia knelt in prayer beside the body of the king. Suddenly, a victim to the grief of the moment, she grasped the dead man's hands in hers and kissed them repeatedly. Her face was streaming with tears. Friends were obliged to remove her gently from the side of the bier. When the wife and son of the dead monarch were admitted to the mortuary chamber they also knelt in prayer, their voices choked with emotion.

It was midnight when the body, in its coffin, was solemnly transported to the royal chapel. All the doctors and high officials of the palace were in attendance. The head priest attached to the palace carried the procession carrying in his hands the palace cross. He was followed by the palace major domo, and then came a group of courtiers and other officials.

BROWNE-CAVE FOUND

The Lost English Baronet Had Been Cow Punching in West.

New York, Feb. 6.—Sir Genile Cave-Browne-Cave, the Englishman for whom British lawyers have been searching for over a year, turned up this morning on board the White Star Line steamship Celtic, sailing for Southampton. Although he would not divulge his intentions, it is understood the traveler returns to take up the estates to which he fell heir when his father, Sir Mylles Cave-Browne-Cave, died on Jan. 22, 1907. Although heir to one of the oldest landed families in the kingdom, Sir Genile early developed nomadic tendencies, and has been roving about the world pretty much all his life. He went to India, served in the Boer war, was known on the Pacific coast, and finally drifted into the cowboy belt, and it is said took up cow-punching for a livelihood. Recently, with the idea that he was in the west, Mr. James Bryce, the British ambassador, asked the local authorities to look for him, but searches were in vain. The Cave-Browne baronetcy dates from the time of Charles I, by whom it was conferred on the family in the year 1641 for special service rendered to Mary, Queen of Scots. Sir Mylles Cave-Browne-Cave died at the age of 84 years, and his widow, the mother of Sir Genile, survives him. Sir Genile is the twelfth in the family, and was born in 1869. The family seat is at Kingsley, near Warrington, Lancashire.

—Mrs. Cook and her two sons have recently moved to Niles town from London.

DEPOSED FRANCO NOW IN MADRID

Ex-Premier of Portugal Is Safe From Vengeance of His Political Enemies.

Madrid, Feb. 6.—Senhor Franco arrived here today secretly from Portugal. At the hotel he gave orders that he would see absolutely no one except the Portuguese minister to Spain. It is declared that the ex-premier purposes to leave here tonight for Paris.

Lisbon, Feb. 6.—Various foreign missions to attend the funeral of the late king and the crown prince are now on their way to Lisbon. They include representatives of the governments of Italy, Belgium and Serbia, as well as the German mission, headed by Prince Eitel Frederick, third son of Emperor William, and the English mission, headed by the Duke of Connaught.

The Seculo, an independent newspaper, expresses the opinion in its issue of today that the decrees promulgated by King Manuel are just, but that they are an insufficient response to the demands of public sentiment.

"One must delve deeply into the national soul," the paper says, "to understand this outrage on the king and crown prince—the agitation which preceded it and the causes which excited it. Portugal has come to the country only when liberty is sustained by high moral forces."

The new Government's programme, or the absence of programme, from the political standpoint, as enunciated by Premier Pimenta, is a declaration that he intended to enforce respect for the laws and public order, for which the present constitution is amply sufficient, but that he would not be afraid to face danger wherever it might take him, in the character of a man trained to obey orders, and shows that he is the master mind of the cabinet. Like a bluff sailor on the quarterdeck, he proposes that with the constitution for a chart he will guide his course by the laws of the land.

Nothing apparently could be simpler or more direct than his plan for restoring normal conditions to the government, by making an appeal to the country to elect a new assembly, and by removing as far as possible all traces of the exceptional regime of the last few years, restoring the liberty of the press and parliamentary immunity, revoking the municipal boards appointed by the former premier, and abolishing the exceptional powers conferred upon police tribunals.

It does not grant amnesty, but political prisoners are to go before the courts to be tried in accordance with the law. The elections will be held as soon as possible, and the people will make their choice.

The flight of Franco from Lisbon is confirmed. Franco's former minister of finance, Senhor Carvalho, also has left Portugal, and it is reported that the former minister of justice, Dr. Abreu, has fled the country as well.

When the three deputies who had been incarcerated in different outposts were released today, there was no attempt to make a demonstration. They came out of the prison each stepped into a carriage and was driven to his home.

Kaiser in a Domino

Pays Unexpected Visit to Fancy Dress Ball.

London, Feb. 6.—The German Emperor on Monday night made one of those surprise visits of which he is so fond. He suddenly revealed himself at a fancy dress ball given by his third son, Prince Adalbert, at the Sea Baths Hotel at Kiel.

After his journey from Berlin had been kept secret. In order that it should not leak out through the arrival of his train at Kiel the train was stopped at the station of Ploen, ten miles distance, whence the trip to Kiel was made in a motor car, twelve of which, under the command of Prince Henry, had gone to Ploen to bring the Kaiser's party.

After his arrival at Prince Henry's castle the Kaiser donned the costume of the great elector, which he has worn on several similar occasions, in the past, and put on a black domino, so that he might arrive at the ball as an ordinary guest.

The ball had just begun, and the brilliantly attired company was tripping the opening steps of a polonaise, the music of which was of Prince Adalbert's own composition, when the curtains leading from the royal suite of rooms entered the ballroom.

A moment later the signal for unmasking sounded, when one of the black dominoes proved to be the Kaiser, clad in the gorgeous silk and satin garments of his celebrated ancestor, the great elector, Prince Adalbert and the crown prince, dressed as Admiral Van Tromp and a Russian prince, respectively, while his majesty smiled with delight at the complete success of his picturesque ruse.

A few minutes after the Emperor's arrival the Kaiserin telephoned from Berlin to inquire if the surprise had been well carried out. Then the guns of the fleet stationed in Kiel harbor thundered a welcome.

She Is Said To Have Threatened a Well-Known Hamilton Man.

Hamilton, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Charles Campbell, 22½ York street, caused a sensation at noon today, when it is alleged, she attempted to shoot Charles Laing, at the corner of King and Macnab streets. Mr. Laing, who is a member of the commission firm which bears his name, was walking on Macnab street, south of King, when he met Mrs. Campbell. He spoke to her, but she did not return the salutation. After he had passed her, she turned and was surprised to see her following him with a revolver in her hand. He grabbed the weapon and tore it from her grasp after a struggle. Mrs. Campbell became hysterical as soon as he did this and fainted away, and a doctor was called. Constable Lowery secured the revolver and asked Mr. Laing if he knew of any reason why Mrs. Campbell would make an attack on him. He replied he was entirely at a loss to account for her strange action. Her son worked for him, and he said Mrs. Campbell always seemed to be friendly when he met her.
