

INTEREST TO WOMEN

LUCKY FOX

Sometimes it may feel real good to be a pet, especially when all that is required is to be a good girl. This picture was taken at the big silver fox exhibition at Montreal.

PRESSED GLASS.

Pressed glass is made by molding hot glass, and is, of course, much cheaper than cut glass. It is used for a great variety of purposes, and is especially useful for the home. It is used for making plates, bowls, and other articles. It is also used for making glassware, such as bottles and jars. It is a very useful material, and is well worth knowing about.

Personal Health Service

(By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D., Noted Physician and Author.)

Pill Form Preferred.
Nearly every day some fat woman tells me that she is taking a pill. I am a moderately fat one, just as you are, and I can tell you that a pill is not a very good thing to take. It is a very bad habit, and it is a very bad thing to do. It is a very bad thing to do, and it is a very bad thing to do.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Depressing.
I take a tonic every day just after my favorite newspaper arrives, thank you. I am feeling pretty well, but I would like to have a tonic. I would like to have a tonic, and I would like to have a tonic.

Eyebrows and Intellect.
Is there any truth in the common saying that it weakens the intellect if one plucks their eyebrows out? What would you consider a good vanishing cream? I am a moderately fat one, just as you are, and I can tell you that a pill is not a very good thing to take.

Movies.
Are movies injurious to the eyes if attended twice a week? Is it injurious to the eyes if attended twice a week? Is it injurious to the eyes if attended twice a week? Is it injurious to the eyes if attended twice a week?

CHRISTMAS DINNER AND TREE FOR MEN AT THE SANATORIUM

Red Cross Society and Other Organizations Visit Byron Hospital.

The big white dining-room at the Byron Sanatorium presented a gay scene yesterday at 5 o'clock, when 235 military patients sat down to their official Christmas dinner, provided by the Red Cross Society. The long tables, extending from one end of the room to the other, represented soft snow banks, and the white tablecloths, with their red and green borders, represented the snow-covered hills. The room was decorated with Christmas trees, and the patients were served with a delicious dinner. The Red Cross Society and other organizations visited the hospital, and the patients were very happy.

Christmas Tree.
A glittering tree in the vocational hall had been stripped before the concert could begin, and such a joyous scene as the men have opened their parcels. There were gifts from the Soldiers' Comforts Association, the Red Cross Society, and the local Red Cross Society. The gifts were very nice, and the patients were very happy.

JOLLY CHRISTMAS PROMISED TO THE CHILDREN'S HOMES

Trees, Dinners and Treats Given in Delightful Succession By Local Organizations.

There is to be no lack of fun for children in local institutions this Christmas season. Organizations and private homes are giving a series of Christmas parties, and the children are very happy. The parties are very nice, and the children are very happy.

ADESTE FIDELES.
This magnificent Christmas Carol, "Oh, Come All Ye Faithful," sung by the famous Collegiate Choir.

JOY TO THE WORLD.
Another Christmas Carol, sung by the Collegiate Choir with all the jubilation and spirit so characteristic of the better Christmas music.

AVUL LANG SYNE.
This immortal Scottish song is sung for Brunswick by the Shannon Four—a male quartet which is noted for sympathetic interpretation.

ALL THRO' THE NIGHT.
Sung by Mr. Harrison, assisted by the Shannon Four. The orchestral accompaniment has a beautiful, charming effect.

THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS.
This world-famous Christmas poem, recited by Ernest Hare. All children (and grown-ups, too) love this merry Christmas tale.

THE SANDMAN.
"De Sandman's comin', honey, for to take you far away, when the twilight's gettin' gray." A record of real charm, sung by the Criterion Quartet.

KIDDIES' DANCE.
(On Christmas Eve)
By the Brunswick Concert Band. Listen, children! Hear the distant strains of the merry music, coming nearer and nearer. The kiddies revel in this wonderful selection.

KIDDIES' DANCE.

The new Medical School gym, is being heralded as the spot for university social functions in the near future. It is expected that the new gym, with its fine maple floor, its stage and its balcony, will be the center of the university of the academic year. And the hope is that perhaps some of the convocation festivities may be held there.

McKibben, dean of the medical faculty, has given his promise to Mr. Walter Kennie and the gymnasium for social functions.

THE MARRIAGE OF ANNE

BY MAY CHRISTIE

(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

LXXXVIII.—In the Nick of Time.
For a moment, Anne and I gazed at each other, the one as thoroughly astonished as the other.

Then Anne spoke. Her old breeziness had apparently returned to her. "Well, Anne, has your marriage gone any better, or what? I have your bridegroom deserting you, or have you deserted him? Her eyes were actually twinkling as she looked at me.

"None of the kind," I stammered, standing with one hand on the door-knob, and the door only half-opened.

"May I come in?" You're not very hospitable, I must say. Anne looked at her person into the aperture. Now tell me what on earth you're doing here, when by rights you ought to be home, when by rights you ought to be home, when by rights you ought to be home.

"I fetched Julie's hat," I answered her questions. "Hurriedly withdrew, leaving Anne in the little hall of the flat. I tapped on Julie's bedroom door.

"It's Anne," I announced, gloomily. "Do go in and talk to her, Julie. She's so difficult, you know. She'll answer your questions."

"Difficult? Rubbish! She's one of the most sensible women I ever knew. My good fortune to meet!" Anne, looking into her suit, was evidently enjoying a small black toque into position on her head, and she looked at me sitting-room, Anne. And for goodness sake, don't irritate her, or you may lose a lot."

"How? In what way?" Anne looked at me. "She's a little bit of a daisy, but she's a very good girl. She's a very good girl, and she's a very good girl."

"I want to hear about Anne," Anne interrupted Julie's flow of words. "She's been having a little bit of a daisy, but she's a very good girl. She's a very good girl, and she's a very good girl."
