CANADA CYCLE WINS.

NO "THIRD PARTY" WITH NEW INVENTION

If it were not for the long time that elapses between the reading about a new and useful invention and the finding of it in operation, a great wave of satisfaction would roll over the country at the news that Captain Poirson, a French officer of engineers, has invented a device that restricts the audibility of a telephone conversation to the two persons engaged in it. The fundamental idea is simple. The electrical current, as it leaves the transmitter, is so changed in character that it produces an unintelligible sound to any listener except the one at the proper receiver, where it is changed back to its original state and becomes understandable.

Are sermons indispensable? This is one of the questions on which a decision may be taken by the bishops of the Anglican Church at their meeting in Lambeth, England, in July. Some churchmen are said to be of the opinion that the day of the sermon has passed. They hold that if a clergyman has not the gift of preach-clergyman has not the gift of preaching it would be better for every one that he should not preach. The "two sermons each Sunday" custom, they say, imposes a great strain on the clergy—a strain equally if not more heavily felt by the laity who are required to listen to these effusions. The unpopularity of published volumes of sermons, once in great demand, is cited by this faction as evidence of the sermon's waning effectiveness.

COMPULSORY KNIGHTHOOD

There was a time when to refuse enighthood not only aroused the ire of the monarch but the official responsible for the collection of revenue. In 1254 all men holding land in Great Britain of the annual value of £10 were ofdered to present themselves for knighthood or pay a lump sum for exemption from the honor. As knighthood then entailed serious military responsibilities, the crown reaped a handsome revenue from this order. Edward I. imposed the obligation afresh, and so did James I. almost as soon as he came to the English throne. The Long parliament abolishregion for doing so being to prevent l
