La MARQUISE de FONTENOY

Grand Nephew of Florence Nightingale to Wed Lady Bruce—Baronet Who Lost Fortune and Honors and Went to Prison — The Elgins

(Copyright, 1911, by the Westwood Company)

Florence Nightingale's grand-nephew, Sir Harry Verney, fourth baronet of his line, is about to wed Lady Rachel Bruce, daughter of the Earl of Elgin, formerly Viceroy of India, and with whose name more are struck at the marriage ceremony, in accordance with family custom and tradition, an ancient ring with a miniature of Charles I. set in diamonds.

It is an historic gem. It belonged to Sir Edmund Verney, who was killed at the battle of Edgehill. He fell in that battle. Strangely enough his body was never recovered, despite the search that was made for it. All that was found was a severed hand, still grasping a piece of the flagstaff of standards, which was identified by the ring on the third finger, which had been presented to Sir Edmund by King Charles.

The hand was reportedly interred at Clayton House, the ancestral home of the Verneys, in Buckinghamshire, and there, according to family tradition, the ghost of the old cavalier frequently appears, notably on the night of October 23, which is the anniversary of the battle of Edgehill, searching for his lost hand.

Clayton House, to which Sir Harry Verney will bring his bride on the termination of his honeymoon, has been the home of the Verneys since the beginning of the thirteenth century. One of its most notable owners in olden times was Sir Ralph Verney, who was Lord Mayor of London in 1460, and member of parliament for the metropolis for several years afterwards.

Sir Harry Verney is strictly speaking a member of the Calvert family, which played so important a part on this side of the Atlantic in old colonial days, and is admitted for the name and arms of the Verneys to the terms of the will by which the Verneys bequeathed their estates to the Calverts. In fact, Sir Harry cannot claim descent, even in the female line, from King Charles' standard bearer at the battle of Edgehill.

The son of this standard bearer was created a baronet by Charles II, immediately after the restoration. His son in turn, Sir John Verney, was raised to the peerage as Viscount Fermanagh, and his son was advanced to the Earldom of Verney. The second Earl of Verney died without issue, his honors becoming extinct, while Clayton House and the other estates of the Verneys passed to the other estates of the Calverts, which were inherited by the latter's daughter, Catherine Calvert, who, also dying without issue, left the Verney estates to her son, Sir Harry Calvert, a distinguished general, who had received a baronetcy for his military services, and who was married to the daughter of Thomas Hammersley of Pall Mall, London, of the same family as the Hammersleys of New York. General Sir Harry Calvert, on succeeding to the Verney estates, assumed by the permission of the crown the name and arms of Verney, in accordance with the terms of the will by which he inherited the property. His oldest son, Sir Harry Verney, died in 1894, and who in his ninety-second year still rode to hounds and acted as master of the hunt, and a sister of his, the late Mrs. Florence Nightingale, was the daughter of Thomas Hammersley of Pall Mall, London, of the same family as the Hammersleys of New York. Be Fair. Buy a sack or barrel before judging PURITY FLOUR

SOME people have attempted to judge PURITY FLOUR before knowing the facts about it—before using it. So we ask you to be fair and to buy a sack or barrel of PURITY FLOUR and give it a thorough try-out before attempting to arrive at a judgment.

Look at the beauty and loftiness of the golden-crusted, snowy-crumbed loaves, fit for a king. Count them and see how many more of them PURITY yields to the barrel than ordinary flour does.

Taste the creamy, flaky pie crust, and the deliciously light cakes PURITY FLOUR rewards you with. My! How they make your mouth water!

Such high-class results can only be obtained when using a flour consisting exclusively of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat berries.

And remember that on account of its extra strength and extra quality, PURITY FLOUR requires more water than making bread and more shortening when making pastry, than you are accustomed to use with ordinary flour.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

Genuine Merit Required to Win the People's Confidence

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicine prepared in a skillful and careful manner, and which has been used for an endless chain of years, is recommended by those who have been cured, to those who are in need of it.

In an interview on the subject a prominent local druggist said: "Take for example Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows immediate results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know of has so large a sale."

The success of Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fulfills every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

A free trial bottle will be sent by mail, absolutely free. Address Dr. Kilmor & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention the paper. Regular size bottle sold at all druggists in Canada. 75c and $1.25.

MORE ABOUT PLANS FOR THE SANITARIUM

That the Jordan Memorial sanitarium at River Glade will be a model institution of its kind when the plans which are being prepared are carried into effect was the opinion expressed by Dr. David Townsend, the new superintendent of the sanitarium, yesterday.

It is the intention of the commissioners to devote their attention entirely to important cases which have prospects of being curable as it is felt that this affords the best field for their efforts. It is hoped that the various municipalities will make provision for the advanced cases which hold out no hope of cure and this will leave the provincial authorities to deal with the others.

1500 Cases in City.

The extent of the field for their work is indicated by the number of cases in this city alone. The deaths from tuberculosis in St. John last year numbered 118 and at the usual average this would indicate the presence of over 1,500 cases of the disease in the city. In Germany it is estimated that 68 per cent of the population is affected, more or less, with the disease and in America the proportion is figured at not less than sixty per cent.

Owing to the fact that in its earliest stages the trouble is scarcely recognizable, even by physicians, the difficulty of dealing with the plague is made greater. It is only by the most careful attention to the cause of its prevalence and to the necessity of paying attention to the first symptoms that it is possible to get an accurate idea of its prevalence and to make it possible to combat it sufficiently early in its progress.

Dr. Townsend is still in the city waiting in the hope of meeting Premier Fleming, who is expected to come to the city. It was announced yesterday that it had been definitely decided not to open the sanitarium until spring. Dr. Townsend to devote the interesting months to working out the plans and arousing interest in the fight against the white plague.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

THREE working girls belonging to what we are pleased to call the "middle class" of society, were discussing what they did with their money.

"I pay four dollars a week on that's where eighteen dollars a month goes."

One of the teachers stated that she contributed three dollars towards the family budget, while another gave three and a half.

These girls are all earning good salaries. They all belong to families which made sacrifices to educate them, and which have now too easy a time to get along now.

And yet they mention their small contributions with an evident sense of righteousness.

Not that so strange after all, for they know many among their circle of friends, who in similar situations do not give their fathers a cent for board, but spend all their money upon themselves, with the exception of spasmodic gifts which they are occasionally moved to present and for which they expect extravagant gratitude.

That is one picture. Now let me paint another.

Our washerwoman has a daughter who has been five months in business college. She earns eight dollars a week as a stenographer. Her mother is very proud of her. She was telling me about a pretty waist she wanted to buy. "I'm going to ask mother if she can't manage to let me have the money for it," she said.

"What don't you buy your own clothes?" I asked, completely misunderstanding.

"What do you mean?" she counter-queried.

"Why don't you buy the waist with your own money, instead of asking your mother for it?"

She laughed good naturedly. "Because I haven't any money," she said; "I give it all to mother and she gives me back what I need for clothes and carfare."

One more instance. Mary is a maid. She gets five dollars a week. Last year her sister died. Mary is still paying the funeral expenses, which were about $100. Think what that means—the pay for twenty-five weeks' hard work.

FAMILY COUGH SYRUP

Cures Any Cough in Five Hours.

NEW PRESCRIPTION HERE.

Here is given the most effective cough prescription known to the medical world. It is a mild laxative, and this is what a body needs when suffering with cough and cold on the lungs. A cough or cold indicates poison in the system, causing inflammation and congestion. Nearly all cough syrups merely "make trouble worse" by needling the system. This prescription not only relieves quickly, but it cures any cough that is curable. Get one-half ounce and add with cherry, one ounce compound essence capilla and three ounces syrup white pine sapwood. Mix in a bottle. Take one or two or four or eight twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times daily. Give children less according to age. A few hours' treatment will cure and heal the throat and lungs of all but consumptives. Cut this out and give it to some friends who may need it to be saved from an early death by consumption.

FORCE OF HABIT.

Photographer—Say!ardon me! But that's the third time you've covered your face with a handkerchief just as I was ready to take your picture.

Subject—I know, but I can't help it. I've been indicted a good deal lately, and I've got the habit trying to dodge newspaper photographers—Puck.

THE MOSHER CREDITS.

A statement of the assets of J. P. Mosher, lumberman, of St. Martins, who assigned some time ago to Dr. King Hagen was presented to a meeting of the creditors yesterday afternoon by C. W. de Forest, the permanent liquidator.

Mr. deForest made a careful investigation of the affairs of the estate at St. Martins and had a report of a lumber cruiser whom he had sent over the timber lands owned by Mr. Mosher. His report was not as encouraging as the statement submitted by Mr. Mosher at the time of his assignment and it is believed that the creditors are not likely to receive more than ten or fifteen cents on the dollar.
