CO-OPERATION is the oil that makes the world go round smoothly. Co-operation has been a great force from time immemorial. When co-operation among laboring men failed—the Tower of Babel became a flat failure.

EVERYBODY has read the old fable of Aesop, the ancient philosopher. In the fable you will remember that the Hands and Feet, representing Labor, complained that the Stomach didn't seem to do a thing but get fat on the good things produced by the Hands and Feet. "Let's stop feeding him," said these members, "then he'll see how useless he is."

SO the Hands, Feet, Mouth and Teeth stopped feeding the Stomach. What happened? In a few days all members of the Body began to wither, weaken and wonder what had happened.

THE Tongue looked the withering members over carefully, and then said, "What fools you all are. Don't you know that you are all parts of the Body. If the Body is to be kept in a healthy, sturdy condition, all members must work together in Harmony. Co-operate."

THERE is a great lesson for all of us—no matter what position in life we may occupy. No man lives to himself or for himself alone. We live together. We work together. We should advance together.

IF we would be healthy, prosperous and happy, we must co-operate. It not only helps the other fellow—but it helps you, too. Working together we do things; working in conflict we undo things. This applies to your Trades Union, to your lodge, to your daily job—to every activity of your daily life. You and every one of us are Members of the Great Industrial and Social Body of Canada. Let's make it a sturdy Body. Let's Co-operate.
